Chambers, Hiss Looked At Farm Accuser Says

Claims He Later Bought Property For "Hide-Away"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (INS) — Whittaker Chambers confirmed under oath tonight a report that he and Alger Hiss inspected a farm in 1936 despite a denial by Hiss' lawyer.

Chambers told the House Un-American Activities Committee in a closed session that Hiss made a down-payment on the house and that after Hiss withdrew from the transaction, he bought the property as a "hide-away" to be used when he left the Communist Party.

Rep. Mundt (R) S. D., said that Chambers' new testimony was important because it "establishes the fact that he, Chambers, was known as Chambers in those days and not as George Crosley."

Hiss Denies Charge

Hiss, a former state department official, accused by Chambers of being a Communist agent, has flatly denied the charge. He originally said he did not know Chambers, now a $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor. Later, Hiss said he knew Chambers as "George Crosely."

The committee has been trying to find out which one of the men lied as a basis for a perjury action.

Chambers' testimony confirmed a copyright article in the Baltimore News-Post that he and Hiss were interested in a secluded Maryland farm which Hiss started to buy but which Chambers eventually purchased.

John F. Davis, Hiss' Washington lawyer, when contacted about the report, said:

"I can state to you that Hiss has never at any time either at the time mentioned in the story or at any time negotiated for or bought any real estate near Baltimore."

Hiss testified that the last time he saw Chambers was in 1935.

Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, declared that the disclosure that Hiss and Chambers inspected the farm together in 1936, "carries forward their association another year."

Chambers, a reformed Communist, who said he bought the ramshackle house in December, 1941, told spy probers he first saw it in 1936 when he was driven to inspect it by Hiss. The farm is said to be near Westminster, Md., a short distance from Baltimore.

Struck By Location

The reformed Communist said that at that time he was struck by the location of the house. He was quoted as telling investigators that he knew Hiss made a down-payment on the farm, miles off a paved road, and that subsequently the deal fell through.

Mundt quoted Chambers as saying that later when he was about to leave the Communist Party, he saw the farm listed for sale and thought it would be a good place to hide out from Communist Associates, so he bought it.

Mundt told newsmen that the new disclosure was important for three reasons:

1. "It establishes another point in the relationship between Hiss and Chambers because it was through Hiss that Chambers came to know about the property and later buy it."

2. "It establishes the fact that he, Chambers, was known as Chambers in those days and not as George Crosley. From other details we have found out that Chambers was known in the non-Communist world by the name of Whittaker Chambers."

3. "The incident tends to justify public hearings on this point — someone has come forward with information to the committee and I hope that others will recall incidents which may help us."

NEW SPY EVIDENCE-- This old farmhouse hit the spotlight yesterday in a House Committee's investigation into Red Acitvities. Whittaker Chambers told a committee Alger Hiss drove him to look at the house in 1936, and that he (Chambers) purchased it about a year later. The house is on an unpaved road six miles from Westminster, Md.

Republic Steel Signs Contract For Ohio Plant

Reaches Agreement With Kaiser Corp.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Republic Steel Corp., announced tonight it had signed a contract with the Kaiser-Frazer Corp., providing for operation of the government-owned blast furnace at Republic's Cleveland plant until May 1, 1949.

The blast furnace, center of a stormy dispute ever since the War Assets Administration announced lease of the unit to Kaiser-Frazer, will continue to supply some 400 Republic customers with pig iron, Republic President Charles M. White said.

White said "the terms of the contract are the same as those which Republic offered the War Assets Administration nearly a year ago and which the company has repeatedly stated are satisfactory to it.

"The terms provide that Republic will continue to receive all pig iron produced in the blast furnace except 5,000 tons per month for which Kaiser-Frazer will pay Republic the full market price," White added.

"No other products have been allocated to Kaiser-Frazer by Republic."

The Republic president said the agreement "further provides that Republic retains all rights it has or may have in the future to continue its fight for permanent possession of the blast furnace and coke oven plant."

Texas Votes For Senator

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 27 (AP)—Former Gov. Coke Stevenson and Rep. Lyndon Johnson swapped final thrusts tonight in their duel for the vacated Senate seat of W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel.

Tomorrow, in the Democratic runoff election, Texas voters will choose between the calm, pipe-smoking wartime Governor and the energetic 40-year-old Congressman who emerged as the two top men among nine candidates in the July 24 primary. Three Congressional contests also will be decided.

Barring a miracle, the winner will be the next Senator. The Republicans, too scant in number to hold a primary, selected Carlos Watson, Brownsville, as their Senatorial candidate at a state convention. O'Daniel did not seek re-election.

Stevenson received 39.68 per cent of the approximately 1,200,000 votes cast in July, Johnson 33.75 per cent. The runoff was made necessary because no candidate had a clear majority.

Both candidates accused each other of mud-slinging in the heated second campaign, in which both proclaimed the Russian war threat a major issue. Stevenson said Johnson resorted to "frantic mud-slinging." Johnson called Stevenson "the granddaddy of all mud slingers."

Both kept silent on the Southern split in the Democratic Party, although both voiced opposition to President Truman's Civil Rights Program.

Labor was another issue. The Texas AFL endorsed Stevnson, but both disclaimed CIO support. Johnson who voted for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, accused Stevenson of not taking a clear stand on the measure. Stevenson said Johnson carried counties in which the CIO vote was predominant in the July election.

Jeff Hickman, state chairman of the CIO PAC, said that organization has not "openly or secretly" supported either.

Spider's Menu Of Snake Meal Just Vanishes

YORK CENTER, Ill., Aug. 27 (INS) — An eight-inch garter snake, which had been entangled in a spider's web for two days near York Center, somehow managed to escape the death snare today.

Norman Lingenfelter, poultry farmer, reported that the snake was gone when he returned to his home after an hour's absence this morning.

The snake had been dangling helplessly about eight inches from the floor as a small house spider added strands to the web.

Earlier today, the anti cruelty Society in Chicago said it was investigating the incident because of many protests from persons who had read about the battle in Chicago newspapers.

City Council May Move To West Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—Screaming demonstrators invaded Berlin's city hall again today in a rising Communist-led drive to set up their owned Red rule.

It appeared likely tonight that the City Council's anti-Communist majority, faced with a constant threat of similar uprising, would move to Western Berlin. Such action would complete the East-West split of the Soviet blockaded city.

For a second straight day the elected council had to cancel its meeting while the Communist throng usurped the chamber with shouts of "dirty dogs," "out with the bums," and "the parliament belongs to us now."

The city hall is in the Russian Zone and Soviet-backed East Berlin police stood by idly.

The situation here tonight thus was that while Soviet Foreign Minisster V. M. Molotov debates the future of this embattled city with the Western Powers in Moscow, Soviet-trained Communists are attempting to grab control of the city by physical pressure. The Communists are apparently trying to present the Moscow conference with an accomplished fact.

Ferdinand Friedensburg, Christian-Democrat Acting Mayor, charged that the East Berlin police not only had refused to protect the parliament but "actually backed the demonstrators."

He added that after the front door had been locked and the key hidden, the throng was let into the building through the back door by a member of the Communist-Dominated Socialist Unity Party (SED).

"It is now questionable whether the city parliament will stay here under a situation where the police refuse to grant it protection from a small minority pressure group," the acting mayor said.

FCC Has Answer For Quiz Programs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (INS) — The Federal Communications Commission disclosed plans today to crack-down on radio quiz shows giving prizes under what it terms "lottery" conditions.

In moving against one of the most popular forms of American radio entertainment, the FCC cited new authority in its eight-year war against the "give-away" shows.

It was asserted that under this new authority the FCC is "not required to await prior judicial determination that a given program is in violation of the criminal code."

The commission announced that it is proposing to set up its own rules against the "money" programs on the theory that "it is contrary to the public interest to permit the broadcasting of lottery programs over the air."

Unity Of Western Europe Gets New Boost From U. S.

Endorses French Parliament Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The United States gave a new boost to Western European unity today. It came through with a strong endorsement of France's proposal to go ahead now with actual creation of a Continental parliament.

With Secretary Marshall's sanction, the State Department announced the administration's backing for such an assembly, just as it actively supported the newly formed five power Brussels Alliance.

To be composed presumably of delegates of the 16 countries taking part in the American financed European Recovery enterprise, the Assembly proposal is taking shape as a political counterpart of the Marshall Plan.

Under the French proposal, the assembly at the outset would have only advisory powers. It would represent the long step toward the unity which President Truman and Congress have urged. Unless Moscow and the Soviet bloc reverse their enmity to the Marshall Plan and joined in, it would help solidify Western Europe against the Communist tide.

France wants a meeting by November of representatives of the five nations which signed the 50-year Brussels Alliance—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg—to lay the groundwork for a larger grouping. Britain thus far has held back, saying the dominions must be consulted.

But the State Department, in a pointed statement, made plain this government favors without delay a "United States of Europe" or any other grouping of the Democratic states which promises to further the idea of unity. There was no mention of the United Nations but officials have noted that the U. N. Charter provides for regional alliances.

Comic Book Fan Is Convicted Of Murder

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Roy Adams, pudgy, 14-year-old comic book fan, was convicted today of murder in the suffocation of eight-year-old Nancy Schuyler last May 27. The jury set his penalty at 14 years in prison.

The state, which charged the boy committed an unnatural sex act after smothering Nancy on a bed in his parents' apartment, did not seek the death penalty.

Roy's attorneys had contended the girl was accidentally smothered by Roy in an attempt to quiet a tantrum after a quarrel over ownership of some comic books.

Vishinsky Sits In On Latest Kremlin Talks

Envoys Secretive About Happenings As Session Ends

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP) — The secret of what took place at a four-power Kremlin Conference tonight lay nicely wrapped up in a diplomatic enigma bordered by a frown and a smile.

U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, leaving the conference of Western Envoys with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, was frowning, British Envoy Frank Roberts was smiling. French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau wore a diplomatic mask—he neither smiled nor frowned.

After seeing Molotov on the German crisis, the three conferred for an hour at the British Embassy among themselves.

There was no comment from the diplomats on the three-hour session in the Kremlin.

As soon as the meeting ended the three visiting envoys motored over rain-swept streets to the British Embassy, just across the Moscow River. They left the Kremlin, seat of the Russian government, at 8:05 p. m. (12:05 p. m. EST).

U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, tight-lipped as usual on progress of the talks, told reporters only that no communique would be issued tonight and that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sat in at the meeting.

It may not be significant but Smith did not smile once in his brief encounter with newspapermen. He has not looked so solemn in public in a long time. Without pausing, he called over his shoulder:

"No there will be no communique tonight."

Vishinsky, who has been a Soviet Delegate to all regular meetings of the United Nations General Assembly, entered the four-power talks for the first time. His last conference assignment was directing the Soviet delegation at the Danube River conference in Belgrade.

As usual the westerners took the five-minute ride from the Kremlin to the British Embassy in their own automobiles, each flying the flag of his country. Smith rode in his long black American car, Special British Envoy Frank Roberts in his trim British machine, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau in his sleek blue gray American car.

It was the sixth meeting of the Western Envoys with Molotov. They also have met twice with Molotov and Prime Minister Stalin. The sessions got under way July 30

World Churches Discuss Palestine

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 27 (AP)—The assembly of the World Council of Churches meeting in secret sessions today discussed the problems of Palestine and racial discrimination in the United States.

A feeling developed in one quarter that anti-semitism had received a "new life" in Britain as a result of political tensions in the Holy Land. In still another quarter, it is reported publicly that the middle east suspects the motives of the great powers as regards the Palestine problem.

Dr. P. Frederick Nolde, dean of the Graduate School at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, reported on most of the acute problems at a news conference in which he summarized the activities of the secret session and committee deliberations.

On racial discrimination, he reported:

"The matter of segregation was discussed and a strong plea was made for unity of freedom."

At another news conference, Bishop Angus Dun, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Washington, D. C., gave the developing viewpoints on Palestine and Israel.

"We have agreed among ourselves that the question of a Christian approach to the Jew can and indeed, must be made at a number of difference levels," Bishop Dun said. He added that delegates had come upon "a very real division of opinion" on Jewish questions.

Former Chief Justice Charles Hughes Dies From Heart Ailment

Was Presidential Candidate In 1916

OSTERVILLE, Mass., Aug. 27. (AP) —Charles Evans Hughes, 86, retired Chief Justice of the United States, died tonight of a heart ailment.

He had been in a coma since late afternoon.

Hughes' son, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. William T. Gossett, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Mrs. C. A. Waddell, Riverdale, N. Y., were at the bedside when he died.

Charles Hughes

Death occurred at 8:35 p. m. (EST) in an annex of the Wianno Club, to which Hughes had come on August 5 to convalesce from an illness that had confined him to his Washington home for several months.

The former Chief Justice, twice Governor of New York and Secretary of State in the Harding and Coolidge Cabinets, had lived in seclusion in Washington since his retirement from the U. S. Supreme Court July 1, 1941. He was the Republican Presidential Candidate in 1916 opposing Woodrow Wilson.

Hughes' critical illness became known only today. The son notified Supreme Court attaches that his father was sinking from a "gradual weakening of the heart."

An hour before his death, Dr. Frederick Sanborn, Hughes' physician, described his condition as "very low."

His death followed a lengthy illness, resulting from general debilities of age. He went from Washington to the Wianno Club at Osterville, on August 5 in hopes of improving his health, but his condition gradually became worse. Death occurred at the club:

Retired In 1941

Hughes left the nation's highest judicial post July 1, 1941, because of declining health. He spent most of his time in his Washington home after that, living quietly and in relative obscurity.

Upon the death of his wife on December 6, 1945, Hughes withdrew entirely from activities of official Washington society. His last public appearance was at funeral services for the late Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone in Washington Cathedral in April, 1946.

His daughter, Mrs. William T. Gossett accompanied Justice Hughes to Osterville. When his condition became worse, his son, a New York attorney and former Solicitor General of the United States, and Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, Riverdale, N. Y., were called to his bedside.

Nine grandchildren also survive. A daughter, Helen, died several years ago.

Hughes' son said a heart condition became aggravated in the waning days of his father's life.

A marble bust of the retired Chief Justice was placed in the main entrance hall of the Supreme Court building August 25. The bust was the first honoring a Chief Justice to be erected in the huge hallway.

Private funeral services will be held in Riverside Church in New York. The time will be announced later.

Tito Accuses Hungary With Trying Revolt

Follows Action Against Romania

LONDON, AUG. 27 (AP)— Yugoslavia formally accused Hungary today of attempting to stir up a revolution against Premier Marshal Tito's regime in Belgrade.

The protest followed by two days a similar accusation against Romania, which like Hungary has adhered to the Cominform denunciation of Tito and his Yugoslav Communist Party laedership.

The two quick diplomatic punches bore out predictions in Belgrade that Tito would not remain passive while the Cominform tries to oust him and his supporters by sheer weight of propaganda.

The nine nation Communist Information Bureau has charged Tito with being anti-Soviet and straying from the true Marxist line.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav News Agency, said the protest note was delivered to the Hungarian legation in Belgrade today by the Yugoslav Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

"Responsible state officials of Hungary have been pursuing a campaign against Yugoslavia and the Yugoslav peoples which is in full contradiction to the agreement on friendship, co-operation and mutual aid between Yugoslavia and Hungary," the note said.

In language similar to the note sent to Romania it called the action of Hungarian officials "impermissible even from the point of view of customary international relations, to say nothing of normal good neighborly relations between the two countries."

The note to Romania singled out Ana Pauker, Foreign Minister, for special mention. Today's note to Hungary named Vice Premier Matyas Rakossy as "flinging the most ruthless insults at the peoples of Yugoslavia."

Partner Sought In Slaying, Kills Self

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 27 (INS) — A New York socialite financier, hunted for two days in connection with the slaying of his business associate, was found shot to death today, a gun in hand, in an Asbury Park Hotel.

He was Henry Morgan Brooks, 61, and police said he was a suicide. He had a bullet hole in his head, and gripped a .32 calibre pistol in his right hand.

Brooks had been hunted by authorities of 13 states since Wednesday night when Joseph R. Watkins, 54, his business partner, was found shot to death in an automobile parked in front of the fashionable Princeton Inn.

Mercer County Prosecutor Mario H. Volpe said that Brooks' body was found lying on the bathroom floor of his room in the small Albion Hotel. He was clad in blue-stripe gray pajamas.

Volpe late yesterday had filed a formal charge of murder against Brooks in instituting the wide search for him.

Volpe alleged that the shooting of Watkins was the outgrowth of a business quarrel between the two men, involving a $72,000 judgment.

Authorities said that two sealed letters bearing special delivery stamps were found in Brooks' room. One was addressed to Brooks' wife; the other to the U-Drive-It Company.

Brooks had rented a car from the company in Newark on Aug. 23. He explained in the letter about a small smashup he had been involved in with the car.

Volpe said that he believed that neither letter contained an admission of the Watkins slaying.

Tropical Hurricane May Swing To Sea

MIAMI, Aug. 27. (INS)—A small but ferocious tropical hurricane raging in the Atlantic veered slightly to the north tonight and weather forecasters said it may be starting a swing out to sea.

A 5:30 p. m. (EST) advisory from the Miami Weather Bureau stated that aircraft reports from the storm area this afternoon were "fonsued" but indicated the hurricane has begun a more northwesterly course.

The storm was plotted about 750 miles east of Miami—at latitude 26.3, longitude 68.

Highest winds were clocked at 115 miles an hour and winds of hurricane force embraced an area fully 60 miles in diameter.

Navy planes flying from a Puerto Rican base surveyed the hurricane today and described it as "small in width but severe in force."

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 27 (AP) — Former General Dimiter Tomov and two former colonels were hanged Tuesday for sabotage and treason, it was announced today.

Wages, Price Issues Cause Grave Crisis

President Auriol Seeks For Premier Marie's Successor

PARIS, SATURDAY, Aug. 28—(AP) —The month-old coalition government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices. Most observers believed the new crisis to be one of France's gravest post-war political tests.

President Vincent Auriol immediately went into conference with political leaders, including Paul Reynaud, Marie's finance minister and former Premier Robert Schuman.

Reynaud said, as he left Auriol's office: "Consultations have begun. I have just been received by the President of the Republic."

Struggle Two Days

The crisis which brought about the government's collapse was a two-day struggle to draft a series of economic and financial reforms.

Informed sources said the cabinet fell because Reynaud wanted to raise many prices. The Socialists were nervous about working class reaction and wanted the cabinet to agree to a cost of living bonus. Reynaud and the Socialists fell out over the amount of such a bonus—then the cabinet fell apart.

Schuman told newsmen French Ambassadors would continue to receive instructions. He did not elaborate on the remark. Schuman added that sometime next week the temporary United Nations Headquarters in Paris would be formally turned over to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, government or no government.

"It is evident," he said, "that the crisis of French affairs must not prolong itself."

The big question was: Who is left for Auriol to choose as Marie's successor? Speculation arose immediately about the possibility of the legislature being dissolved and new elections being held. That is what Gen. Charles De Gaulle and his rally of the French People (RPF) have been urging for many months.

The crisis which brought about the fall of Marie's month-old government was a two-day struggle within the cabinet to draft a series of financial and economic reforms.

An official announcement following nine hours of cabinet meetings said:

Sends In Resignation

"Having realized that despite an accord reached on different points of an economic and financial program under study, the government has not been able to erase certain divergencies and the Premier has sent his resignation to the President of the Republic."

It was learned that President Vincent Auriol would start early today for search of a successor to Marie.

Secrecy had shrouded the cabinet's meetings and it was not learned immediately what political party precipitated the crisis.

However, it was generally known that Marie's financial minister, Paul Reynaud, desired drastic new measures, which generally were agreed to include the raising of many prices.

Reliable sources also speculated that Reynaud's proposals included

Heat Wave Tops Records

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP) — The sweltering August heat wave continued to shattered records today over much of the eastern half of the nation.

The stifling weather drove workers from offices and factories as temperatures rose around the 100 mark in many spots. Beaches were overcrowded. Hospitals did a rush business in heat prostration cases, and death claimed scores of persons as a result of the hot spell.

At least 51 deaths were directly attributed to the heat—from drownings and prostration. This total did not include deaths from other causes during the stretch of hot weather.

As federal forecasters predicted that the heat would continue with little abatement in the midwest and east during the weekend, some areas of the country reported comfortable weather.

Showers brought temporary relief to Minnesota but the mercury shot up to the 90s in the afternoon.

Des Moines, Omaha reported temperatures in the 80s. It was mild in Texas following heavy rains which broke a drought in much of the state.

It remained cool on the west coast. New Mexico had a touch of fall weather this morning with 39 degrees reported at Gallup and Estancia. At Fraser, Colo., the lowest temperature this morning was 28.

But, in Chicago, where the mercury stood at 96 degrees and humidity was 42 per cent in the fifth sizzling day, the fire department rescue squads reported 90 persons were revived during the period, and 12 died.

Baltimore reported a sizzling 101.8, hottest day there in seven years.

In Ohio, the temperature reached at Canton, an all time high, 100 at Youngstown, 98 at Cleveland, and 99 at Cincinnati and Columbus.

Two Convicts Are Captured In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 27—(INS)—Two convicts were recaptured today three hours after they and another prisoner made a desperate break for freedom from the Utah State Prison in Salt Lake City.

The pair, Ercil Clark, 27, and Joe Goughe, 38, were trapped in a vacant lot only two blocks north of the prison and surrendered without a fight to prison guards.

Still at large was Fred Clark Berge, Jr., 20.

Clark and Goughe were found crouching in tall weeds as guards, police and hundreds of volunteers, combed the area.

The capture took place as a search was underway in a storm sewer in the suburban Sugar House District of Salt Lake City.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur E. Allen crawled into a drain after noises were heard in the underground sewer.

The two convicts were found only a short distance away, crouching in the weed patch.

The trio scaled the outer wall of the Salt Lake City Prison from the recreation yard, using a ladder fashioned from pipe and iron rods for the climb to freedom.

The prisoners fled into the Sugar House District, dodging from areaway to areaway, amid the gunfire of prison guards.

The escape was aided by an accident when Tower Guard George Butters' gun misfired.

Another guard, Art Smertz, stationed at the main gate, pursued the fugitives, firing as he ran.

Lomakin Not Sure He Will Sail Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (INS) — Soviet Consul General Jacob Lomakin, scheduled to sail for home from New York tomorrow, offered the surprising comment tonight that he was "not sure" if he'll sail after all.

Lomakin, whose demanded ouster from this country brought Russia's closing of her New York and San Francisco Consulates, made the comment as he returned to the East 61st Street Consulate after a 24-hour absence.

He said further that he might have a long talk with reporters in "two weeks."

Lomakin has reservations for himself, his wife and their two children to sail at noon tomorrow aboard the Swedish-American Liner Stockholm. His consulate has been virtually deserted for several days, and most of its furnishings have been moved out.

Shortly after he cast doubt on his sailing, the Swedish-American Line revealed it had telephoned the consulate to determine if the accomodations on the Stockholm still stand.

"The accomodations will be filled," the line was iformed.

When the consular spokesman was told that the accomodations were for the Lomakin family, and no one else, he replied: "Yes, we know."

Weather Forecast

Claims He Later Bought Property For "Hide-Away"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (INS) — Whittaker Chambers confirmed under oath tonight a report that he and Alger Hiss inspected a farm in 1936 despite a denial by Hiss' lawyer.

Chambers told the House Un-American Activities Committee in a closed session that Hiss made a down-payment on the house and that after Hiss withdrew from the transaction, he bought the property as a "hide-away" to be used when he left the Communist Party.

Rep. Mundt (R) S. D., said that Chambers' new testimony was important because it "establishes the fact that he, Chambers, was known as Chambers in those days and not as George Crosley."

Hiss Denies Charge

Hiss, a former state department official, accused by Chambers of being a Communist agent, has flatly denied the charge. He originally said he did not know Chambers, now a $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor. Later, Hiss said he knew Chambers as "George Crosely."

The committee has been trying to find out which one of the men lied as a basis for a perjury action.

Chambers' testimony confirmed a copyright article in the Baltimore News-Post that he and Hiss were interested in a secluded Maryland farm which Hiss started to buy but which Chambers eventually purchased.

John F. Davis, Hiss' Washington lawyer, when contacted about the report, said:

"I can state to you that Hiss has never at any time either at the time mentioned in the story or at any time negotiated for or bought any real estate near Baltimore."

Hiss testified that the last time he saw Chambers was in 1935.

Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, declared that the disclosure that Hiss and Chambers inspected the farm together in 1936, "carries forward their association another year."

Chambers, a reformed Communist, who said he bought the ramshackle house in December, 1941, told spy probers he first saw it in 1936 when he was driven to inspect it by Hiss. The farm is said to be near Westminster, Md., a short distance from Baltimore.

Struck By Location

The reformed Communist said that at that time he was struck by the location of the house. He was quoted as telling investigators that he knew Hiss made a down-payment on the farm, miles off a paved road, and that subsequently the deal fell through.

Mundt quoted Chambers as saying that later when he was about to leave the Communist Party, he saw the farm listed for sale and thought it would be a good place to hide out from Communist Associates, so he bought it.

Mundt told newsmen that the new disclosure was important for three reasons:

1. "It establishes another point in the relationship between Hiss and Chambers because it was through Hiss that Chambers came to know about the property and later buy it."

2. "It establishes the fact that he, Chambers, was known as Chambers in those days and not as George Crosley. From other details we have found out that Chambers was known in the non-Communist world by the name of Whittaker Chambers."

3. "The incident tends to justify public hearings on this point — someone has come forward with information to the committee and I hope that others will recall incidents which may help us."

NEW SPY EVIDENCE-- This old farmhouse hit the spotlight yesterday in a House Committee's investigation into Red Acitvities. Whittaker Chambers told a committee Alger Hiss drove him to look at the house in 1936, and that he (Chambers) purchased it about a year later. The house is on an unpaved road six miles from Westminster, Md.

Republic Steel Signs Contract For Ohio Plant

Reaches Agreement With Kaiser Corp.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Republic Steel Corp., announced tonight it had signed a contract with the Kaiser-Frazer Corp., providing for operation of the government-owned blast furnace at Republic's Cleveland plant until May 1, 1949.

The blast furnace, center of a stormy dispute ever since the War Assets Administration announced lease of the unit to Kaiser-Frazer, will continue to supply some 400 Republic customers with pig iron, Republic President Charles M. White said.

White said "the terms of the contract are the same as those which Republic offered the War Assets Administration nearly a year ago and which the company has repeatedly stated are satisfactory to it.

"The terms provide that Republic will continue to receive all pig iron produced in the blast furnace except 5,000 tons per month for which Kaiser-Frazer will pay Republic the full market price," White added.

"No other products have been allocated to Kaiser-Frazer by Republic."

The Republic president said the agreement "further provides that Republic retains all rights it has or may have in the future to continue its fight for permanent possession of the blast furnace and coke oven plant."

Texas Votes For Senator

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 27 (AP)—Former Gov. Coke Stevenson and Rep. Lyndon Johnson swapped final thrusts tonight in their duel for the vacated Senate seat of W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel.

Tomorrow, in the Democratic runoff election, Texas voters will choose between the calm, pipe-smoking wartime Governor and the energetic 40-year-old Congressman who emerged as the two top men among nine candidates in the July 24 primary. Three Congressional contests also will be decided.

Barring a miracle, the winner will be the next Senator. The Republicans, too scant in number to hold a primary, selected Carlos Watson, Brownsville, as their Senatorial candidate at a state convention. O'Daniel did not seek re-election.

Stevenson received 39.68 per cent of the approximately 1,200,000 votes cast in July, Johnson 33.75 per cent. The runoff was made necessary because no candidate had a clear majority.

Both candidates accused each other of mud-slinging in the heated second campaign, in which both proclaimed the Russian war threat a major issue. Stevenson said Johnson resorted to "frantic mud-slinging." Johnson called Stevenson "the granddaddy of all mud slingers."

Both kept silent on the Southern split in the Democratic Party, although both voiced opposition to President Truman's Civil Rights Program.

Labor was another issue. The Texas AFL endorsed Stevnson, but both disclaimed CIO support. Johnson who voted for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, accused Stevenson of not taking a clear stand on the measure. Stevenson said Johnson carried counties in which the CIO vote was predominant in the July election.

Jeff Hickman, state chairman of the CIO PAC, said that organization has not "openly or secretly" supported either.

Lomakin Not Sure He Will Sail Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (INS) — Soviet Consul General Jacob Lomakin, scheduled to sail for home from New York tomorrow, offered the surprising comment tonight that he was "not sure" if he'll sail after all.

Lomakin, whose demanded ouster from this country brought Russia's closing of her New York and San Francisco Consulates, made the comment as he returned to the East 61st Street Consulate after a 24-hour absence.

He said further that he might have a long talk with reporters in "two weeks."

Lomakin has reservations for himself, his wife and their two children to sail at noon tomorrow aboard the Swedish-American Liner Stockholm. His consulate has been virtually deserted for several days, and most of its furnishings have been moved out.

Shortly after he cast doubt on his sailing, the Swedish-American Line revealed it had telephoned the consulate to determine if the accomodations on the Stockholm still stand.

"The accomodations will be filled," the line was iformed.

When the consular spokesman was told that the accomodations were for the Lomakin family, and no one else, he replied: "Yes, we know."

Spider's Menu Of Snake Meal Just Vanishes

YORK CENTER, Ill., Aug. 27 (INS) — An eight-inch garter snake, which had been entangled in a spider's web for two days near York Center, somehow managed to escape the death snare today.

Norman Lingenfelter, poultry farmer, reported that the snake was gone when he returned to his home after an hour's absence this morning.

The snake had been dangling helplessly about eight inches from the floor as a small house spider added strands to the web.

Earlier today, the anti cruelty Society in Chicago said it was investigating the incident because of many protests from persons who had read about the battle in Chicago newspapers.

City Council May Move To West Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—Screaming demonstrators invaded Berlin's city hall again today in a rising Communist-led drive to set up their owned Red rule.

It appeared likely tonight that the City Council's anti-Communist majority, faced with a constant threat of similar uprising, would move to Western Berlin. Such action would complete the East-West split of the Soviet blockaded city.

For a second straight day the elected council had to cancel its meeting while the Communist throng usurped the chamber with shouts of "dirty dogs," "out with the bums," and "the parliament belongs to us now."

The city hall is in the Russian Zone and Soviet-backed East Berlin police stood by idly.

The situation here tonight thus was that while Soviet Foreign Minisster V. M. Molotov debates the future of this embattled city with the Western Powers in Moscow, Soviet-trained Communists are attempting to grab control of the city by physical pressure. The Communists are apparently trying to present the Moscow conference with an accomplished fact.

Ferdinand Friedensburg, Christian-Democrat Acting Mayor, charged that the East Berlin police not only had refused to protect the parliament but "actually backed the demonstrators."

He added that after the front door had been locked and the key hidden, the throng was let into the building through the back door by a member of the Communist-Dominated Socialist Unity Party (SED).

"It is now questionable whether the city parliament will stay here under a situation where the police refuse to grant it protection from a small minority pressure group," the acting mayor said.

FCC Has Answer For Quiz Programs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (INS) — The Federal Communications Commission disclosed plans today to crack-down on radio quiz shows giving prizes under what it terms "lottery" conditions.

In moving against one of the most popular forms of American radio entertainment, the FCC cited new authority in its eight-year war against the "give-away" shows.

It was asserted that under this new authority the FCC is "not required to await prior judicial determination that a given program is in violation of the criminal code."

The commission announced that it is proposing to set up its own rules against the "money" programs on the theory that "it is contrary to the public interest to permit the broadcasting of lottery programs over the air."

Unity Of Western Europe Gets New Boost From U. S.

Endorses French Parliament Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The United States gave a new boost to Western European unity today. It came through with a strong endorsement of France's proposal to go ahead now with actual creation of a Continental parliament.

With Secretary Marshall's sanction, the State Department announced the administration's backing for such an assembly, just as it actively supported the newly formed five power Brussels Alliance.

To be composed presumably of delegates of the 16 countries taking part in the American financed European Recovery enterprise, the Assembly proposal is taking shape as a political counterpart of the Marshall Plan.

Under the French proposal, the assembly at the outset would have only advisory powers. It would represent the long step toward the unity which President Truman and Congress have urged. Unless Moscow and the Soviet bloc reverse their enmity to the Marshall Plan and joined in, it would help solidify Western Europe against the Communist tide.

France wants a meeting by November of representatives of the five nations which signed the 50-year Brussels Alliance—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg—to lay the groundwork for a larger grouping. Britain thus far has held back, saying the dominions must be consulted.

But the State Department, in a pointed statement, made plain this government favors without delay a "United States of Europe" or any other grouping of the Democratic states which promises to further the idea of unity. There was no mention of the United Nations but officials have noted that the U. N. Charter provides for regional alliances.

Comic Book Fan Is Convicted Of Murder

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Roy Adams, pudgy, 14-year-old comic book fan, was convicted today of murder in the suffocation of eight-year-old Nancy Schuyler last May 27. The jury set his penalty at 14 years in prison.

The state, which charged the boy committed an unnatural sex act after smothering Nancy on a bed in his parents' apartment, did not seek the death penalty.

Roy's attorneys had contended the girl was accidentally smothered by Roy in an attempt to quiet a tantrum after a quarrel over ownership of some comic books.

Vishinsky Sits In On Latest Kremlin Talks

Envoys Secretive About Happenings As Session Ends

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP) — The secret of what took place at a four-power Kremlin Conference tonight lay nicely wrapped up in a diplomatic enigma bordered by a frown and a smile.

U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, leaving the conference of Western Envoys with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, was frowning, British Envoy Frank Roberts was smiling. French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau wore a diplomatic mask—he neither smiled nor frowned.

After seeing Molotov on the German crisis, the three conferred for an hour at the British Embassy among themselves.

There was no comment from the diplomats on the three-hour session in the Kremlin.

As soon as the meeting ended the three visiting envoys motored over rain-swept streets to the British Embassy, just across the Moscow River. They left the Kremlin, seat of the Russian government, at 8:05 p. m. (12:05 p. m. EST).

U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, tight-lipped as usual on progress of the talks, told reporters only that no communique would be issued tonight and that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sat in at the meeting.

It may not be significant but Smith did not smile once in his brief encounter with newspapermen. He has not looked so solemn in public in a long time. Without pausing, he called over his shoulder:

"No there will be no communique tonight."

Vishinsky, who has been a Soviet Delegate to all regular meetings of the United Nations General Assembly, entered the four-power talks for the first time. His last conference assignment was directing the Soviet delegation at the Danube River conference in Belgrade.

As usual the westerners took the five-minute ride from the Kremlin to the British Embassy in their own automobiles, each flying the flag of his country. Smith rode in his long black American car, Special British Envoy Frank Roberts in his trim British machine, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau in his sleek blue gray American car.

It was the sixth meeting of the Western Envoys with Molotov. They also have met twice with Molotov and Prime Minister Stalin. The sessions got under way July 30

World Churches Discuss Palestine

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 27 (AP)—The assembly of the World Council of Churches meeting in secret sessions today discussed the problems of Palestine and racial discrimination in the United States.

A feeling developed in one quarter that anti-semitism had received a "new life" in Britain as a result of political tensions in the Holy Land. In still another quarter, it is reported publicly that the middle east suspects the motives of the great powers as regards the Palestine problem.

Dr. P. Frederick Nolde, dean of the Graduate School at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, reported on most of the acute problems at a news conference in which he summarized the activities of the secret session and committee deliberations.

On racial discrimination, he reported:

"The matter of segregation was discussed and a strong plea was made for unity of freedom."

At another news conference, Bishop Angus Dun, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Washington, D. C., gave the developing viewpoints on Palestine and Israel.

"We have agreed among ourselves that the question of a Christian approach to the Jew can and indeed, must be made at a number of difference levels," Bishop Dun said. He added that delegates had come upon "a very real division of opinion" on Jewish questions.

Former Chief Justice Charles Hughes Dies From Heart Ailment

Was Presidential Candidate In 1916

OSTERVILLE, Mass., Aug. 27. (AP)—Charles Evans Hughes, 86, retired Chief Justice of the United States, died tonight of a heart ailment.

He had been in a coma since late afternoon.

Hughes' son, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. William T. Gossett, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Mrs. C. A. Waddell, Riverdale, N. Y., were at the bedside when he died.

Charles Hughes

Death occurred at 8:35 p. m. (EST) in an annex of the Wianno Club, to which Hughes had come on August 5 to convalesce from an illness that had confined him to his Washington home for several months.

The former Chief Justice, twice Governor of New York and Secretary of State in the Harding and Coolidge Cabinets, had lived in seclusion in Washington since his retirement from the U. S. Supreme Court July 1, 1941. He was the Republican Presidential Candidate in 1916 opposing Woodrow Wilson.

Hughes' critical illness became known only today. The son notified Supreme Court attaches that his father was sinking from a "gradual weakening of the heart."

An hour before his death, Dr. Frederick Sanborn, Hughes' physician, described his condition as "very low."

His death followed a lengthy illness, resulting from general debilities of age. He went from Washington to the Wianno Club at Osterville, on August 5 in hopes of improving his health, but his condition gradually became worse. Death occurred at the club:

Retired In 1941

Hughes left the nation's highest judicial post July 1, 1941, because of declining health. He spent most of his time in his Washington home after that, living quietly and in relative obscurity.

Upon the death of his wife on December 6, 1945, Hughes withdrew entirely from activities of official Washington society. His last public appearance was at funeral services for the late Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone in Washington Cathedral in April, 1946.

His daughter, Mrs. William T. Gossett accompanied Justice Hughes to Osterville. When his condition became worse, his son, a New York attorney and former Solicitor General of the United States, and Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, Riverdale, N. Y., were called to his bedside.

Nine grandchildren also survive. A daughter, Helen, died several years ago.

Hughes' son said a heart condition became aggravated in the waning days of his father's life.

A marble bust of the retired Chief Justice was placed in the main entrance hall of the Supreme Court building August 25. The bust was the first honoring a Chief Justice to be erected in the huge hallway.

Private funeral services will be held in Riverside Church in New York. The time will be announced later.

Partner Sought In Slaying, Kills Self

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 27 (INS) — A New York socialite financier, hunted for two days in connection with the slaying of his business associate, was found shot to death today, a gun in hand, in an Asbury Park Hotel.

He was Henry Morgan Brooks, 61, and police said he was a suicide. He had a bullet hole in his head, and gripped a .32 calibre pistol in his right hand.

Brooks had been hunted by authorities of 13 states since Wednesday night when Joseph R. Watkins, 54, his business partner, was found shot to death in an automobile parked in front of the fashionable Princeton Inn.

Mercer County Prosecutor Mario H. Volpe said that Brooks' body was found lying on the bathroom floor of his room in the small Albion Hotel. He was clad in blue-stripe gray pajamas.

Volpe late yesterday had filed a formal charge of murder against Brooks in instituting the wide search for him.

Volpe alleged that the shooting of Watkins was the outgrowth of a business quarrel between the two men, involving a $72,000 judgment.

Authorities said that two sealed letters bearing special delivery stamps were found in Brooks' room. One was addressed to Brooks' wife; the other to the U-Drive-It Company.

Brooks had rented a car from the company in Newark on Aug. 23. He explained in the letter about a small smashup he had been involved in with the car.

Volpe said that he believed that neither letter contained an admission of the Watkins slaying.

Tropical Hurricane May Swing To Sea

MIAMI, Aug. 27. (INS)—A small but ferocious tropical hurricane raging in the Atlantic veered slightly to the north tonight and weather forecasters said it may be starting a swing out to sea.

A 5:30 p. m. (EST) advisory from the Miami Weather Bureau stated that aircraft reports from the storm area this afternoon were "fonsued" but indicated the hurricane has begun a more northwesterly course.

The storm was plotted about 750 miles east of Miami—at latitude 26.3, longitude 68.

Highest winds were clocked at 115 miles an hour and winds of hurricane force embraced an area fully 60 miles in diameter.

Navy planes flying from a Puerto Rican base surveyed the hurricane today and described it as "small in width but severe in force."

Wages, Price Issues Cause Grave Crisis

President Auriol Seeks For Premier Marie's Successor

PARIS, SATURDAY, Aug. 28—(AP)—The month-old coalition government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices. Most observers believed the new crisis to be one of France's gravest post-war political tests.

President Vincent Auriol immediately went into conference with political leaders, including Paul Reynaud, Marie's finance minister and former Premier Robert Schuman.

Reynaud said, as he left Auriol's office: "Consultations have begun. I have just been received by the President of the Republic."

Struggle Two Days

The crisis which brought about the government's collapse was a two-day struggle to draft a series of economic and financial reforms.

Informed sources said the cabinet fell because Reynaud wanted to raise many prices. The Socialists were nervous about working class reaction and wanted the cabinet to agree to a cost of living bonus. Reynaud and the Socialists fell out over the amount of such a bonus—then the cabinet fell apart.

Schuman told newsmen French Ambassadors would continue to receive instructions. He did not elaborate on the remark. Schuman added that sometime next week the temporary United Nations Headquarters in Paris would be formally turned over to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, government or no government.

"It is evident," he said, "that the crisis of French affairs must not prolong itself."

The big question was: Who is left for Auriol to choose as Marie's successor? Speculation arose immediately about the possibility of the legislature being dissolved and new elections being held. That is what Gen. Charles De Gaulle and his rally of the French People (RPF) have been urging for many months.

The crisis which brought about the fall of Marie's month-old government was a two-day struggle within the cabinet to draft a series of financial and economic reforms.

An official announcement following nine hours of cabinet meetings said:

Sends In Resignation

"Having realized that despite an accord reached on different points of an economic and financial program under study, the government has not been able to erase certain divergencies and the Premier has sent his resignation to the President of the Republic."

It was learned that President Vincent Auriol would start early today for search of a successor to Marie.

Secrecy had shrouded the cabinet's meetings and it was not learned immediately what political party precipitated the crisis.

However, it was generally known that Marie's financial minister, Paul Reynaud, desired drastic new measures, which generally were agreed to include the raising of many prices.

Reliable sources also speculated that Reynaud's proposals included

Heat Wave Tops Records

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP) — The sweltering August heat wave continued to shattered records today over much of the eastern half of the nation.

The stifling weather drove workers from offices and factories as temperatures rose around the 100 mark in many spots. Beaches were overcrowded. Hospitals did a rush business in heat prostration cases, and death claimed scores of persons as a result of the hot spell.

At least 51 deaths were directly attributed to the heat—from drownings and prostration. This total did not include deaths from other causes during the stretch of hot weather.

As federal forecasters predicted that the heat would continue with little abatement in the midwest and east during the weekend, some areas of the country reported comfortable weather.

Showers brought temporary relief to Minnesota but the mercury shot up to the 90s in the afternoon.

Des Moines, Omaha reported temperatures in the 80s. It was mild in Texas following heavy rains which broke a drought in much of the state.

It remained cool on the west coast. New Mexico had a touch of fall weather this morning with 39 degrees reported at Gallup and Estancia. At Fraser, Colo., the lowest temperature this morning was 28.

But, in Chicago, where the mercury stood at 96 degrees and humidity was 42 per cent in the fifth sizzling day, the fire department rescue squads reported 90 persons were revived during the period, and 12 died.

Baltimore reported a sizzling 101.8, hottest day there in seven years.

In Ohio, the temperature reached at Canton, an all time high, 100 at Youngstown, 98 at Cleveland, and 99 at Cincinnati and Columbus.

Two Convicts Are Captured In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 27—(INS)—Two convicts were recaptured today three hours after they and another prisoner made a desperate break for freedom from the Utah State Prison in Salt Lake City.

The pair, Ercil Clark, 27, and Joe Goughe, 38, were trapped in a vacant lot only two blocks north of the prison and surrendered without a fight to prison guards.

Still at large was Fred Clark Berge, Jr., 20.

Clark and Goughe were found crouching in tall weeds as guards, police and hundreds of volunteers, combed the area.

The capture took place as a search was underway in a storm sewer in the suburban Sugar House District of Salt Lake City.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur E. Allen crawled into a drain after noises were heard in the underground sewer.

The two convicts were found only a short distance away, crouching in the weed patch.

The trio scaled the outer wall of the Salt Lake City Prison from the recreation yard, using a ladder fashioned from pipe and iron rods for the climb to freedom.

The prisoners fled into the Sugar House District, dodging from areaway to areaway, amid the gunfire of prison guards.

The escape was aided by an accident when Tower Guard George Butters' gun misfired.

Stop Attacking U. S., Russia Told By Huxley

By LARRY ALLEN

WROCLAW, Poland, Aug. 27 (AP)—British Scientist Julian Huxley called on the Russians tonight to stop attacking British and American culture.

Huxley, secretary-general of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, spoke before the World Congress of Intellectuals.

He told the predominantly Communist or pro-Communist Congress: "We are really doing nothing but delivering manifestoes to each other."

Earlier Dr. Byrn Hovde, director of the New School of Social Research in New York, accused Russian delegates of "warmongering" and making irresponsible attacks on the United States.

Huxley said "nearly everything has been destructive and little if anything has been constructive" at the Congress.

A Russian delegate replied: "We have found a common language here." He indicated that what he meant was that a majority of the delegates were friendly to Russia.

GUARDSMEN STAGE BATTLE FOR LANE

CAMP RITCHIE, Md. (AP)—A battalion of Maryland national guardsmen staged a miniature war for Governor Lane yesterday.

And when it was over some of the rookies greeted the "armistice" with much relief.

Said one veteran sergeant:

"Sure it was realistic—you see their hands shaking, don't you?"

The mock attack, made under the covering fire of real bullets, was part of Governor's Day here in which Lane reviewed the 115th Infantry Regiment of the Maryland National Guard. Lane served as adjutant with the division in World War I.

The Governor helped launch the simulated attack by passing the first round of tank ammunition.

Then, under additional covering fire from machine guns, mortars and bazookas, the attacking infantry men, all from Frederick County, charged their objective.

Captain Arthurt B. Calhoun, of Hyattsville said the covering fire was "at least 100 yards from the foremost troops."

But the rookies in the attacking force indicated that it wasn't only the 100 degree heat that caused them to perspire.

30 per cent reductions in military expenditures.

The cabinet struck a snag yesterday in its efforts to draft proposed new financial and economic measures.

Marie's cabinet was composed of Socialists, Catholic popular Republicans (MRP), Radical Socialists (conservatives) and Rightists. It was a poltical curiosity that it was headed by Marie, a moderate Conservative. His emergence on the French political scene last month marked a swing to the right. His government did not include Communists.

Refugee Show Planned

GENEVA—(AP)—A group of entertainers picked from European refugee camps are to be taken on a tour of the United States and Canada by Sol Hurok, the American impresario, the International Refugee Organization says. Hurok is also planning an international folk festival in America, to be given by members of the various national refugee groups at present in camps operated by the organization.

GUARDSMEN STAGE BATTLE FOR LANE

CAMP RITCHIE, Md. (AP)—A battalion of Maryland national guardsmen staged a miniature war for Governor Lane yesterday.

And when it was over some of the rookies greeted the "armistice" with much relief.

Said one veteran sergeant: "Sure it was realistic—you see their hands shaking, don't you?"

The mock attack, made under the covering fire of real bullets, was part of Governor's Day here in which Lane reviewed the 115th Infantry Regiment of the Maryland National Guard. Lane served as adjutant with the division in World War I.

The Governor helped launch the simulated attack by passing the first round of tank ammunition.

Then, under additional covering fire from machine guns, mortars and bazookas, the attacking infantry men, all from Frederick County, charged their objective.

Captain Arthurt B. Calhoun, of Hyattsville said the covering fire was "at least 100 yards from the foremost troops."

But the rookies in the attacking force indicated that it wasn't only the 100 degree heat that caused them to perspire.

Marie's cabinet was composed of Socialists, Catholic popular Republicans (MRP), Radical Socialists (conservatives) and Rightists. It was a poltical curiosity that it was headed by Marie, a moderate Conservative. His emergence on the French political scene last month marked a swing to the right. His government did not include Communists.

Talking Clock Keeps Busy

LONDON (AP) — Londoners are asking the time approximately seven hundred thousand times a week. Announcing this on the twelfth birthday of "Tim," the speaking clock, the London telephone service said that since the service was inaugurated in London in July 1936 Londoners have made 250,000,000 calls to the clock. In the whole country since the service began "Tim" has been asked nearly 400,000,000 times for the time.

During the war American soldiers rang "Tim" and tried to date the recorded "Golden Voice." One was so exasperated at his failure to get a reply that he broke the telephone.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

Mr. George A. Sloan, Chairman
Metropolitan Opera Assn.
147 West 39th Street
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Sloan:

On August 6, I sent you a letter in which I offered to run the Opera for a year and guarantee it against deficit. On August 10, I received your reply. It was gracious and well-written, but one sentence stuck out like a chunk of glass in a box of talcum powder. "In fairness to Mr. Edward Johnson and his associates," you said, "let me assure you that our current problem is not one of management."

Well, Mr. Sloan, if the Met's problem isn't one of management, what in the name of Giuseppe Verdi is it? Labor demands? I can't buy that. The legit theatre does business with the same unions, but nobody has threatened to shut up shop. Lack of public interest? Hardly. According to your own figures, the Met has played to 97 per cent of capacity for four years, and last year 85 per cent of your tickets were subscribed for before the season began.

What, then, is the bottleneck? Let me whisper it to you. In spite of what you and your Board say, it is management. Not crooked management nor bad management, but uninspired, unenlightened and unrealistic management.

Am I suggesting that you fire Mr. Johnson? Perish the thought! There's a lot of operatic know-how packed away in that well-shaped head, and if he's used only as artistic director, he's well worth his keep. But the mess of red ink on your books ought to tell you that Eddie is badly miscast as bossman of a set-up which features 600 Tallulah Bankheads and a dozen John L. Lewises.

While we're on the subject of personnel, Mr. Sloan, it might not be a bad idea to screw a jeweler's glass into your eye and take a gander at the rest of the payroll. In an organization as old and creaky as the Met, there figure to be several barnacle salaries paid to old hands who no longer produce. Now, I have nothing against sentimental payoffs if an organization can afford them. But taking you at your own word, the Met can't, and I think it's more important for 8,000,000 people to have an Opera House than it is for the Board of Directors to play Auld Lang Syne.

In my opinion, salary savings in the front office and elsewhere should amount to 20 per cent of the $220,000 you lost last year. Now, let's pick up a fresh pencil and see if we can whittle down the remaining 80 per cent.

As I see it, your immediate problem is breaking even during the season of '48-'49.

Well, if you're willing to keep your mind and ears open for a few hundred words, I think I can show you how the Met can save itself $100,000 next season—perhaps even more. But I must warn you that the notion is so simple that it's a cinch to be greeted with screams and derision.

Check carefully, Mr. Sloan, and you'll find that the cost of striking a production, setting it on the sidewalks of Seventh Avenue (where it's open rained on), carting it to the warehouse, and then bringing it back a few weeks later and putting it up again, is close to $4,000.

Why, then, wouldn't it be smart to present two operas a week instead of five or six? Instead of treating the biggest city in the world as a one-night stand, why not play "Carmen" the first half of the week, and let's say "Der Rosenkavalier" the second half? And ditto the rest of the operas in next season's repertory.

The unions representing your employes assure me that this plan would cut down rehearsal expenses, and would make for smoother and more experts performances. And one of your own box office boys tells me it would in no way inconvenience your subscribers or the general public.

Is this practical from the standpoint of the singer? Several of your singers tell me it is. Last year "La Traviata" was performed seven times wth four different Violettas, not to mention four Alfredos; "Manon" with four Manon Lescauts, and "La Boheme" with four Rudolfos and four Mimis. "Tannhauser" was performed on Nov. 13, Dec. 1 and 27, Jan. 30, Feb. 13 and 27, and March 6 and 12. Instead of this traditional but uneconomic schedule, this opera could be presented four consecutive nights in December and four more in February. And it shouldn't be difficult with five Tannhausers, five Wolframs and five Venuses on your payroll.

According to my pencil scribbles, this consecutive performance policy would eliminate at least 50 per cent of the deficit. But that would still leave you $60,000 in the red, and if you're allergic to red ink, I think you might do well to consider the advisability of cutting down the number of operas in the Met's repertory until such time as you are in the black again. I'm not suggesting this as a permanent policy. A season of 29 works is more exciting than one of 19, but I'm sure the town would rather have 19 operas than none at all.

There's another fundamental axiom of show business that the Met management continues to overlook — a dark house doesn't make money. For several years now, there's been a shortage of theaters in New York. But while every theatre owner has been cashing in on this, the Met has been closed a good part of each year. This, in my book, is plain stupid. Why not open the Opera House during its off-season to operettas such as "Porgy and Bess," "Carousel," "Show Boat" and "Oklahoma?" Or popular concerts at popular prices?

No, Mr. Sloan, I can't go along with the statement that your current problem is not one of management. It's nothing else but.

A certain showman recently told me that he couldn't understand why a monopoly like the Met should ever lose money. A few years ago this fellow got $75,000 from a movie company for letting it use the name of his cabaret.

Can you imagine what he would have gotten for the real Diamond Horseshoe?

Sincerely,
BILLY ROSE

Instead of treating the biggest city in the world as a one-night stand, why not play "Carmen" the first half of the week, and let's say "Der Rosenkavalier" the second half? And ditto the rest of the operas in next season's repertory.

The unions representing your employes assure me that this plan would cut down rehearsal expenses, and would make for smoother and more experts performances. And one of your own box office boys tells me it would in no way inconvenience your subscribers or the general public.

Is this practical from the standpoint of the singer? Several of your singers tell me it is. Last year "La Traviata" was performed seven times wth four different Violettas, not to mention four Alfredos; "Manon" with four Manon Lescauts, and "La Boheme" with four Rudolfos and four Mimis. "Tannhauser" was performed on Nov. 13, Dec. 1 and 27, Jan. 30, Feb. 13 and 27, and March 6 and 12. Instead of this traditional but uneconomic schedule, this opera could be presented four consecutive nights in December and four more in February. And it shouldn't be difficult with five Tannhausers, five Wolframs and five Venuses on your payroll.

According to my pencil scribbles, this consecutive performance policy would eliminate at least 50 per cent of the deficit. But that would still leave you $60,000 in the red, and if you're allergic to red ink, I think you might do well to consider the advisability of cutting down the number of operas in the Met's repertory until such time as you are in the black again. I'm not suggesting this as a permanent policy. A season of 29 works is more exciting than one of 19, but I'm sure the town would rather have 19 operas than none at all.

There's another fundamental axiom of show business that the Met management continues to overlook — a dark house doesn't make money. For several years now, there's been a shortage of theaters in New York. But while every theatre owner has been cashing in on this, the Met has been closed a good part of each year. This, in my book, is plain stupid. Why not open the Opera House during its off-season to operettas such as "Porgy and Bess," "Carousel," "Show Boat" and "Oklahoma?" Or popular concerts at popular prices?

No, Mr. Sloan, I can't go along with the statement that your current problem is not one of management. It's nothing else but.

A certain showman recently told me that he couldn't understand why a monopoly like the Met should ever lose money. A few years ago this fellow got $75,000 from a movie company for letting it use the name of his cabaret.

Can you imagine what he would have gotten for the real Diamond Horseshoe?

Sincerely,

The Draft And The Marriages It Is Inviting

The rush to the altar, which threatens to turn parts of the country into a replica of Gretna Green, is troubling some of our Selective Service officials. Their concern has to do with the effects of the marriage boom on manpower available for the armed services. We think it is high time that somebody gave a little thought to its effect upon the institution of marriage.

While not too serious, the rush to the marriage license bureau at the Court House in Cumberland by couples between the ages of 18 to 25, the ages most affected by the draft which gets underway Monday, is causing attention. So far this month, 333 licenses have been issued, and while the number is not expected to exceed the 490 during the same month a year ago, there is reason to believe that those getting marriage permits may be desirous of placing themselves in the exemption from military service class.

The deferment of husbands, like all the other deferments and exemptions, is logical enough on its face. The Selective Service Act of 1948 was so written as to supply the armed forces with needed manpower, without causing needless hardship or undue disturbance of civilian life. In the initial registration, between August 30th and September 18th, 9,600,000 young men will file with local draft boards. It is estimated that not more than 600,000 of them will be available for service. The Navy and Air Force have indicated that they will need no inductees during the first months of the draft, and the Army will require only 250,000 in the first year. Thus, the deferment of all husbands, new as well as old, does not create a manpower problem—at least not yet.

But the rush to the altar may create a grave social problem. No doubt many of the new marriages in this area would have been contracted anyway, draft law or none. But many a young man between 19 and 25 is resorting to marriage as the easiest way of staying in civilian life. Marriages contracted for such reasons are not likely to last, and homes created under such conditions will hardly improve the condition of American family life.

The question as to how long a potential draftee must be married to merit deferment has not been finally settled. When the President does decide it, as he must before long, he should keep in mind other considerations besides military manpower.

Cumberland Swelters But Summer Has Been Grand

It is never safe to call any day "the hottest day of the year" until the summer is really over, but Thursday was the hottest day so far, and the current heat wave is the worst Cumberland has experienced in 1948. But at that, it isn't too terrible.

If you go back over the records, Cumberland has had very much hotter days than those experienced this week, and many more protracted heat waves than have visited it this summer. There have been instances when Mother Nature registered a fever over the hundred degree mark back in 1934 and 1936. Since then, the mercury has bounced up to and beyond the mid-nineties and the heat at those degrees is, as the weatherman contends, as uncomfortable as it is when it reaches the hundred or more mark.

Actually this summer has not been so bad and this August, in particular, has been very fair about dishing out the weather. The first three weeks of this month were generally so nice that they made some vacationists sorry they went away, for it will be recalled that temperatures as low as 46 degrees in the suburbs of Cumberland were recorded. It was ideal summer-resort weather.

Of course temperatures in the upper nineties are unpleasant, and the accompanying humidity is very uncomfortable. The rising number of heat prostrations in some sections can not be ignored and so it is not fair to take a complacent attitude toward the heat. But there is a silver lining just ahead.

In four days September will be here and while really hot days, some of them with temperatures as high as those experienced this week, are not unusual for September, the arrival of the month is a signal that the days of summer are numbered. Before it is finished there could be frost on the ground.

Unity, Not Formal Union, Goal Of Church Gathering

At a time of international crisis, spiritual as well as physical, it is appropriate that the first Assembly of the World Council of Churches should take as its theme, "Man's Disorder and God's Design." The current meeting at Amsterdam is the outgrowth of a plan which just began to take shape in 1938 but was delayed by the war and the need for elaborate groundwork. At the Dutch capital, 1,500 representatives of 145 Protestant and Orthodox churches have met, to accept what Charles P. Taft, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, calls "the greatest challenge which the Christian Churches have faced in modern times."

While the Amsterdam meeting is the nearest approach which the Protestant denominations have made to unity, the idea of formal union is not uppermost there. Thanks to its nature and its history, Protestantism has tended toward pluralism in creed and church institutions. The United States alone now contains more than 250 Protestant communions. While there have been efforts toward church union in recent years the immediate concern at Amsterdam is to work out a constitution for the World Council, as a basis for cooperative action in world affairs.

This common effort has already made much progress in the missionary field, in the rehabilitation of church life in Europe and in aiding displaced persons. The Assemoly at Amsterdam it is hoped, will create a forum for the statement of the Protestant position on world issues. It is, of course, a vast and difficult undertaking. Insofar as it succeeds, most of the Protestants of some 40 nations will achieve united action in one of the most troubled periods of human history.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Factors In Successful Surgery

The old expression, "the operation was a success but the patient died," did not become popular solely because it was a catchy phrase. At the time of its inception surgery was in its infancy and physicians were more concerned with the technique of the procedure. This phase took all of their attention and, as a result, little research was done on the before-and-after treatment of the patient. Their shortsightedness was unavoidable because the field was large and there was much to learn.

Dr. Van Dellen

It was obvious that if surgery were to continue as a method of therapy, the patient had to survive the ordeal. After all, the specialist may do a marvelous job of repairing a hernia, removing a cancer from the intestines, or reconstructing one side of the face after an accident but if the wound fails to heal or dehydration or shock leads to death, all will be for naught. In other words, the after-care is just as important as the operation itself.

•—•—•

Through research, this phase has reached a high state of perfection and consequently the majority of us can expect to survive any surgical procedure. It serves to explain why individuals who have just undergone the knife receive fluids and plasma into the vein or repeated injections of penicillin, vitamins, and other drugs.

Nutritional advances have contributed much, particularly the use of proteins. The reserve supply of this chemical is often depleted at this time especially in those who have been ill for some time prior to the event. Such individuals have one strike against them because their poor state of health adds to the risk of operation. In some instances, the only feasible clew is the pallor resulting from anemia. But internal changes, which are not evident to the eye, have taken place. Certain factors in the blood are deficient because of the protein shortage. This increases susceptibility to shock, lowers resistance to infection, and retards wound healing. The modern physician takes these factors into consideration and administers proteins when necessary before and after the operation in order to minimize complications.

Vitamins also play a role. C helps repair as it is an important constituent of the cementing substance needed to knit tissues together. Thiamine chloride, riboflavin, and niacin are likewise essential. Vitamin K is useful when a patient with jaundice requires operation as it furnishes the missing ingredient demanded for blood coagulation. Deficits in all of these nutritional elements are most likely to be found in persons who are in need of stomach or intestinal operations. Many have been on strict diets lacking in vitamins and proteins.

At first proteins, sugars, and vitamins are given hypodermically. As soon as the patient is able to swallow and retain food the preparations are given orally. It is hard to beat Mother Nature and recent studies have shown that such products are utilized to their fullest extent when taken by mouth. The use of penicillin, streptomycin, and the sulfonamides has worked wonders in preventing and controlling infections. By getting out of bed earlier, vein disturbances are less likely to occur.

TYPHOID

C. L. B. writes: If a person of 50 had typhoid at the age of 11, is there any danger to his family if they use his books?

Reply

If he has not infected any one in the household in the intervening 40 years, the chances are that he won't at this stage. If he is not a typhoid carrier, there is no danger.

PAINFUL SHOULDER

J. E. writes: Is bursitis of the shoulder a forerunner of arthritis?

Reply

No, although sometimes it is difficult to tell the two conditions apart.

VEIN INFLAMMATION

C. V. writes: What are the symptoms of thrombophlebitis?

Reply

Pain, redness, and tenderness along the course of the involved vein. In the early stages fever may be present, often accompanied by chills. Swelling of the foot or leg often occurs when the main passageway is affected.

KIDNEY DISORDER

K. L. writes: Are children born with nephrosis of the kidneys?

Reply

This condition is rarely present at birth altho it is most common in young children. The cause is unknown but it usually develops as a result of kidney infection. With modern treatment, the outcome is not as hopeless as it was in the past.

MANY CAUSES

Mrs. V. writes: What could cause cessation of menstruation?

Reply

In young girls, amennorrhea may be perfectly normal and of no consequence. With women of child-bearing age, pregnacy is the most common cause. During the forties, the menopause must be considered. Emotional disturbances, starvation, glandular disorders, and changes in climate are lesser possibilities.

BONE INFECTION

Y. writes: Can the bones become inflamed?

Reply

Yes; the condition is known as "osteitis."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Tracey Voorhees, Army Assistant Secretary, One Of Ablest Officials But Shuns Limelight; Uncovered Errors In Medical Plans For European Invasion

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—It is the Washington Merry - Go - Round's pleasure and privilege today to present the brass ring for outstanding performance of duty to a singularly devoted and patriotic public servant.

He is Tracy S. Voorhees, assistant secretary of the Army.

It is especially fitting that he be singled out for public recognition because Voorhees and his uniquely distinguished work have long merited it. In all Washington, no one has served the country more earnestly, tirelessly and brilliantly. Yet, outside of Voorhees' immediate official orbit, he is virtually unknown.

This modesty is very characteristic of him. More than one of his accomplishments have been headline news, but he doesn't function that way. Grandstanding or limelight-grabbing is out of his ken.

To Tracy Voorhees only one thing matters: Getting a job done as efficiently, expeditiously, and for the greatest good that is possible.

All the rest is of no consequence to him. He really believes that work well done is its own best reward. The remarkable thing is that this belief has worked out that way for Voorhees. Wholly lacking in political "pull", and without his seeking the office, he recently was elevated to Assistant Secretary of the Army solely because of his outstanding record and qualifications for the position.

Veteran

Voorhees has been serving his country unobtrusively and devotedly for a long time. He started in the early days of the war.

Then over 50 and a senior partner of a highly successful New York law firm, of which the late Chief Justice Harlan Stone had once been a member, Voorhees instantly dropped his large practice to respond to an urgent call from his old friend Robert Patterson, then under secretary of war. Patterson needed a hard-headed and driving trouble-shooter to go to the ends of the world to straighten out critical Army snarls.

From then on, as an Army colonel, Voohees was constantly on the go. Wherever stupidity, incompetence and bungling snafued the channels of supply, he moved in and quietly and effectively brought order and action.

In the tropical depths of the South Pacific he unravelled a tieup that had created a serious shortage of blood plasma.

Although huge quantities of plasma had been shipped to the theatre, combat commanders bombarded Washington with irate complaints of shortages. Voorhees unearthed the reason.

On some islands, no longer in the active zone, he found medical supply officers hoarding large quantities of plasma.

Similarly, In England, he quietly again saved the Medical Corps' neck on hospital equipment. Voorhees found tremendous discrepancies in the preparations for taking care of invasion casualties. Certain brass-hats had grievously underestimated requirements. Voorhees quickly and efficiently brought over the needed equipment.

In recognition of these, and other outstanding feats, Voorhees was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal.

Artifical Limbs

After Patterson became secretary of war, he again asked Voorhees to undertake a difficult job in behalf of veterans who had lost limbs. With the war over, Voorhees had doffed his uniform. But he again responded without question.

Under Patterson's prodding, Army medical brass had belatedly, in the spring of 1945, started a program to improve artificial limbs. These devices were still in the exeart stage. They were cumbersome, crude and ineffectual.

However, despite the good intentions of the Army's tardy development program, it soon bogged down in administrative snafu. Voorhees quietly reorganized the setup and put the project on a practial working basis.

He is still keeping a helpful supervisory eye on the program. Under it, real progress is being made in developing truly modern and efficient artifical limbs. There have been no miracles, but slowly and steadily advances are being made that offer hope, that if the program is continued over a period of years. Devices will be evolved that in a measure will approximate the utility of human limbs.

For this, every amputee in the country, veteran or civilian, owes Tracy Voohees a lasting debt of gratitude.

Great Feeder

Voorhees was still grappling with the prosthetic problem, when he was called on to tackle an even greater one.

Food supplies for occupied Germany went haywire. Early in the spring of 1947, occupation authorities suddenly reported a mysterious vast shortage in food resources. Hundreds of thousands of tons of good had somehow very strangely either disappeared or had never existed.

The daily ration had to be cut to less than 1,000 calories; the Krauts started rioting; and Ruhr coal and other essential production dropped precipitously.

This was the "hot potato" Voorhees was asked to straighten out.

Again, he went to work quietly and unsparingly. Driving himself day and night, he not only got huge quantities of food to Germany but to the equally distressed Allied countries, which were in dire need as a result of crop failures.

In this activity, Voorhees, without fanfare or grandstanding, successfully administered a relief program many times larger and more complex than that of Herbert Hoover after World War I.

Further, Voorhees accomplished this stupendous feat without title or rank. It was not until after the tough-fisted House appropriations committee earlier this year paid him an extraordinary tribute, that he was formerly named Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Voorhees had submitted a budget request of $1,250,000,000 for the various occupied zones. After a minute examination of his estimate, the committee not only officiallys lauded him for his clarity and accuracy but approved his request in toto.

Voorhees' budget was the only one in the recovery appropriation bill that was not cut.

Note: Under Voorhees program, the U. S. is now feeding Germans at a cost of $17.12 per head per annum. This food is approximately 60 per cent of the rationed food received by Germans.

Drive To Communize World Has, Geographically, Two Prongs

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Russian drive to communize the world has, geographically, two prongs. One, reaching out from Russia's European border, presses toward the countries of Western Europe. The other, reaching out from Russia's Asiatic border, presses toward China and the other countries of Eastern Asia.

In the Western drive, the most recent act of overt and conspicuous aggression by Russia was the cutting off of land access to Berlin by us and the other western powers. We and Britain improvised access by air and have been carrying supplies for the Berlin people with much success, and we have stood firm against Russia's assertion of right to keep us out. That issue is now in negotiation at Moscow, between Russia's Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov on one side, and on the other envoys of Britain, the United States and France. How the Moscow Conference turns out is of the utmost importance. Berlin is a concrete issue, near military in nature, and must have a concrete conclusion.

The Moscow negotiations are followed intently by the American public. So is the Western drive as a whole. New developments occur almost daily in one part of Europe or another, they get into the news and our people follow them closely. With the Western prong of the worldwide Communist drive, our people are completely familiar.

Economic Chaos Elsewhere

Quite different is the case of the Eastern Communist advance. Throughout Eastern Asia, from and including China to the farthest tip of the East Indies, in every country except Japan and the Philippines, there is increase of communism and continuation of the economic chaos which communism thrives upon and promotes. It is little noticed in America and it encounters little effective opposition.

In China is formidable Communist strength, a weak Nationalist government, and no dependable sign of economic recovery. The recent setting up of a new currency, following complete collapse of the former one, is too recent for judgment about whether it will help toward economic stability. In Burma is utter economic paralysis with the Communists close to seizure of the government. In French Indo-China the Communists control most of the country and there is economic prostration. In Malaya economic disruption is increasing and so is an armed Communist movement. In South Korea the government is weak, there is little sign of economic development, the country might be an easy prey to Communism. In Indonesia, economic production is only about a third of pre-war normal, and there is political turmoil which makes opportunity for Communism.

To the Communist heads in Moscow, the advantage of the condition in Eastern Asia is not merely the increase in numbers of Communists in that quarter of the world. Nor is it the effect, within the Eastern Asiatic countries themselves, of the economic chaos which the Communists perpetuate and foster. The real advantage to the Communist heads in Moscow is the help which economic chaos in Eastern Asia contributes to the worldwide Communist drive.

Eastern Communist Drive

Several of the countries of Eastern Asia are normally larger exporters of raw materials to Europe and the United States. Indonesia is one of the world's largest sources of export. Exports from Eastern Asiatic countries are now reduced in many cases to the point of near suspension. Indo China, which normally exports one and a half million tons of rice a year is this year exporting only ninety thousand tons.

The drying up of exports of such important materials as rubber, oil and tin from Southeastern Asia, helps to keep the national economies of Europe disrupted, helps to prevent economic recovery on that continent. This has been a basic Communist purpose and strategy.

The Eastern Communist drive is a formidable contribution to the central Communist purpose of bringing about destruction of the capitalist system both within countries and as an international structure.

To Have Forrestal Take Stump Would Be Mistake, Is Belief

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 — Announcement from the Democratic Speaker's Bureau here that every member of the President's cabinet except Secretary Marshall will speak in the coming political campaign must mean that the secretary of defense, James Forrestal, is about to go campaigning.

It is hoped that the announcement was too broad. For it would be a regrettable development to find the man who holds the most important position in the defense plans of the nation out on the stump in the guise of a plain politician.

At a time when the youth are being summoned by the draft and a critical international situation faces America, the Secretary of Defense occupies a post that should be even more detached from party politics than that of the Secretary of State.

To keep the Army, Navy and Air Forces working together is a job so vital to national security that to introduce party politics at the top is to begin the process of undermining morale in the armed services—which neither President Truman nor Governor Dewey ought to countenance for a moment.

Disservice To Unification

If Mr. Forrestal does not before long, of his own initiative, take himself out of the list of campaign speakers, he will be disappointing many an admirer and will be doing a disservice to the cause of unification of the armed services. For if Mr. Forrestal becomes a politician, it means that the next secretary of defense has ample precedent for entering politics, too.

It is true that a member of the President's cabinet is in a sense committed to the politics of the Chief Executive from the standpoint of loyalty if nothing else. Since, however, an exception has been made in the case of Secretary of State Marshall, the same rule could be applied to the secretary of defense. Surely there is even more reason for bi-partisan cooperation on the matter of directing the armed services than there is in handling foreign policy, if indeed there is any need to make comparisons at all between the two departments. They are very much alike.

There is a further reason why Mr. Forestal should forbear. It looks, at the moment, as if there will be a change of Administration next January. The budget estimates for next year must be prepared this autumn for action by Congress in January. It would be a mistake to appoint a new secretary of defense next January. It would be better for the country if Mr. Forrestal were to stay on for at least another year.

The ideal solution would be for the next President to retain the services of Secretary Forrestal indefinitely, thus creating a precedent for the future which would mean more to the cause of unification than frequent changes for political purposes.

Mr. Forrestal is unique among the cabinet officers. He has had the background of the entire war period. He was selected for Secretary of Defense because he made a great Secretary of the Navy and because, notwithstanding his indoctrination with the Navy viewpoint, he could see the point of view of the other armed services.

Has Cooperation Of Top Officers

To a remarkable degree Mr. Forrestal has the confidence of the top officers in all three armed services. His knowledge and experience cannot be duplicated. It would be an error to appoint a military or naval officer from the retired list as Secretary of Defense. It is and should remain a civilian job. Mr. Forrestal is the best civilian available for it, and he is relatively young and is devoted to public service.

Governor Dewey probably knows Mr. Forrestal as well as does President Truman, but unless public sentiment favors the retention of Mr. Forrestal in the post of secretary of defense, the politicians might prevail on the New York Governor, if he is president-elect, to choose someone with a distinct Republican affiliation.

It is interesting to note that Secretary Forrestal, formerly an investment banker in New York, has been criticized by New Dealers in recent years for his conservative views on economic and social questions. Both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman disregarded that criticism, which means that they appointed him on merit alone. Mr. Roosevelt felt so strongly that the cabinet secretaries directing the armed services should be detached from politics that in the summer of 1940 he appointed Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, both prominent Republicans, to the offices of Secretary of War and Navy, respectively. This was more than a year before America entered the war. The next President, if he be a Republican, could continue the precedent by retaining a Democrat in the post of secretary of defense.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Television and Politics

THE RADIO did a job for some politicians: it made it possible for their voices to carry conviction, friendliness, strength of purpose. Other men sounded awful. The public judged these men by their voices. Some were smart enough to hire elocution teachers to beautify their voices and their manner of speaking, just as now the television technicians fix the faces of politicians as though they were movie actors. Maybe this will start a vogue of lipstcik for males and every statesman will carry a compact.

Television, even with fixed faces, is liable to become a cruel instrument. The stuffed shirt will never be able to let his hair down, fearing that television will get him in his natural state. The prohibitionist orator will not be able to drink beyond his capacity, for although television cannot yet transmit the breath, it can catch the lordly statesman telling that one about Moe and Joe—which puts a leer in the eye and a lecherous grin on the face, and the voters will know him for what he is.

Nor will it be possible for the statesman to read other men's elocution, with magnificent eloquence, with force and power, while all the time he does not believe a word he is saying. It will take a wonderful actor to speak with such perfect objectivity. Most men's faces and manners and gestures will give them away. A man who has spent his life in the theater writes me:

"I saw the Democratic and Republican Conventions on the television screen and it is a devastating instrument for politicians. That goes for all of them but Hoover. His simplicity, dignity and sincerity stood out above them all.

"Television is dangerous for politicians. It seems to emphasize the insincerity, hokum, and oratorical tricks and that means its photography at present is brutal on beauty and ugliness alike.

"Sound broadcasting leaves a lot to the imagination and many can get by; but televisoin is a cruel instrument to most performers.

"Of course, it will be perfected as it is further developed, but as I see it, national conventions are doomed if they allow television to cover them.

"They should be heard but not seen."

This holds not only for national conventions but for all forms of public endeavor. Let's not mention names, but a fellow I liked very much used to make his most wonderful speeches when he was drunk—but up to his eyes. He knew how to manage, although on one occasion, when I was present, he nearly went down under the table. He was helped up and delivered one of the most graceful addresses I had ever heard. I recall the grace but not what he said.

Television will kill that kind of oratory and that kind of exuberance. Maybe the perfecting of the device will be its elimination or the elimination of hi-jinks. A television record of the dull, painstaking preparations for a spontaneous demonstration could destroy any publicity director's dream.

Also, such an "American" movement of Henry Wallace's might suffer when the "Americans" are seen by television. A first-class fistfight among labor leaders might even be preferable to the speeches—on television.

And so we progress. I sometimes wonder what Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln and William Jennings Bryan, to say nothing of Demosthenes, did without a microphone. They made themselves felt; that we know by the influence they exercised. But could they be heard without the piece of tin that is stuck up before every speaker these days? And I sometimes wonder if the multitude would have elected so homely and gaunt a figure as Abraham Lincoln President had they seen him on television in competition with, let us say, the glorious profile of John Barrymore.

Perhaps in the near future, the National Committees will each have a department of cosmetics and candidates will be chosen because they are photogenic just as in 1940 Republicans were looking for a glamorous candidate. Or maybe we shall turn the whole business over to the hucksters and nominate the tobacco auctioneer who makes all that meaningless noise on the radio.

Progress sure is exciting—but it does make it hard for statesmen. There is too much to keep up with.

Hopeful Impulses

Our hopeful impulses from day to day are what keep us on our toes—light stepping and lavish in faith. They do more—they inspire others, for we are forever radiating all that we are. We can only imagine and speculate upon these hopeful impulses that have achieved so much in the world. They are like jewels in a watch—they give accuracy to the time-keeping of our lives.

Said Stevenson: "Every heart that has beat strong and cheerfully has left a hopeful impulse behind it in the world, and bettered the tradition of mankind."

It's these hopeful impulses that keep us in both physical and spiritual high gear, and which give to us the inspiration essential to a happy and useful life. And only in a free and generous democracy can these impulses thrive and continually germinate. What a privilege it is to have been born in such a land! It is from these healthy impulses that every worthwhile act gets its birth and maturity.

What tragedies of the human spirit are enacted in lands where there is no freedom to these natural and hopeful impulses—there where they are still-born, never knowing light and life. How cruel are the greed, the savagery, and the love of power that destroy their conception.

We have but to look out upon nature to see how the Creator has arranged everything to live out its natural life. There it is that we get our every cue to live out our own happy way of life. In this great out-of-doors we have the object lessons ever before us, as to how to live. There it is that the secrets of the universe are revealed to us. There it is that we read God's thoughts in all that he has created for our enlightenment.

These wild flowers that I have just plucked and placed upon my writing desk are an illustration of eternity. It is written that "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Deathless are all hopeful impulses that stream out from the heart of man, inspired by nature, and nature's God.

The Draft And The Marriages It Is Inviting

The rush to the altar, which threatens to turn parts of the country into a replica of Gretna Green, is troubling some of our Selective Service officials. Their concern has to do with the effects of the marriage boom on manpower available for the armed services. We think it is high time that somebody gave a little thought to its effect upon the institution of marriage.

While not too serious, the rush to the marriage license bureau at the Court House in Cumberland by couples between the ages of 18 to 25, the ages most affected by the draft which gets underway Monday, is causing attention. So far this month, 333 licenses have been issued, and while the number is not expected to exceed the 490 during the same month a year ago, there is reason to believe that those getting marriage permits may be desirous of placing themselves in the exemption from military service class.

The deferment of husbands, like all the other deferments and exemptions, is logical enough on its face. The Selective Service Act of 1948 was so written as to supply the armed forces with needed manpower, without causing needless hardship or undue disturbance of civilian life. In the initial registration, between August 30th and September 18th, 9,600,000 young men will file with local draft boards. It is estimated that not more than 600,000 of them will be available for service. The Navy and Air Force have indicated that they will need no inductees during the first months of the draft, and the Army will require only 250,000 in the first year. Thus, the deferment of all husbands, new as well as old, does not create a manpower problem—at least not yet.

But the rush to the altar may create a grave social problem. No doubt many of the new marriages in this area would have been contracted anyway, draft law or none. But many a young man between 19 and 25 is resorting to marriage as the easiest way of staying in civilian life. Marriages contracted for such reasons are not likely to last, and homes created under such conditions will hardly improve the condition of American family life.

The question as to how long a potential draftee must be married to merit deferment has not been finally settled. When the President does decide it, as he must before long, he should keep in mind other considerations besides military manpower.

Cumberland Swelters But Summer Has Been Grand

It is never safe to call any day "the hottest day of the year" until the summer is really over, but Thursday was the hottest day so far, and the current heat wave is the worst Cumberland has experienced in 1948. But at that, it isn't too terrible.

If you go back over the records, Cumberland has had very much hotter days than those experienced this week, and many more protracted heat waves than have visited it this summer. There have been instances when Mother Nature registered a fever over the hundred degree mark back in 1934 and 1936. Since then, the mercury has bounced up to and beyond the mid-nineties and the heat at those degrees is, as the weatherman contends, as uncomfortable as it is when it reaches the hundred or more mark.

Actually this summer has not been so bad and this August, in particular, has been very fair about dishing out the weather. The first three weeks of this month were generally so nice that they made some vacationists sorry they went away, for it will be recalled that temperatures as low as 46 degrees in the suburbs of Cumberland were recorded. It was ideal summer-resort weather.

Of course temperatures in the upper nineties are unpleasant, and the accompanying humidity is very uncomfortable. The rising number of heat prostrations in some sections can not be ignored and so it is not fair to take a complacent attitude toward the heat. But there is a silver lining just ahead.

In four days September will be here and while really hot days, some of them with temperatures as high as those experienced this week, are not unusual for September, the arrival of the month is a signal that the days of summer are numbered. Before it is finished there could be frost on the ground.

Unity, Not Formal Union, Goal Of Church Gathering

At a time of international crisis, spiritual as well as physical, it is appropriate that the first Assembly of the World Council of Churches should take as its theme, "Man's Disorder and God's Design." The current meeting at Amsterdam is the outgrowth of a plan which just began to take shape in 1938 but was delayed by the war and the need for elaborate groundwork. At the Dutch capital, 1,500 representatives of 145 Protestant and Orthodox churches have met, to accept what Charles P. Taft, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, calls "the greatest challenge which the Christian Churches have faced in modern times."

While the Amsterdam meeting is the nearest approach which the Protestant denominations have made to unity, the idea of formal union is not uppermost there. Thanks to its nature and its history, Protestantism has tended toward pluralism in creed and church institutions. The United States alone now contains more than 250 Protestant communions. While there have been efforts toward church union in recent years the immediate concern at Amsterdam is to work out a constitution for the World Council, as a basis for cooperative action in world affairs.

This common effort has already made much progress in the missionary field, in the rehabilitation of church life in Europe and in aiding displaced persons. The Assemoly at Amsterdam it is hoped, will create a forum for the statement of the Protestant position on world issues. It is, of course, a vast and difficult undertaking. Insofar as it succeeds, most of the Protestants of some 40 nations will achieve united action in one of the most troubled periods of human history.

Quick "Makeover"

"Hiss Quizzed," read a headline in the first edition of a Washington newspaper.

"Quiz Hissed," was suggested for the next edition, after President Truman delivered his opinion on the Congressional spy hearings.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Factors In Successful Surgery

The old expression, "the operation was a success but the patient died," did not become popular solely because it was a catchy phrase. At the time of its inception surgery was in its infancy and physicians were more concerned with the technique of the procedure. This phase took all of their attention and, as a result, little research was done on the before-and-after treatment of the patient. Their shortsightedness was unavoidable because the field was large and there was much to learn.

Dr. Van Dellen

It was obvious that if surgery were to continue as a method of therapy, the patient had to survive the ordeal. After all, the specialist may do a marvelous job of repairing a hernia, removing a cancer from the intestines, or reconstructing one side of the face after an accident but if the wound fails to heal or dehydration or shock leads to death, all will be for naught. In other words, the after-care is just as important as the operation itself.

•—•—•

Through research, this phase has reached a high state of perfection and consequently the majority of us can expect to survive any surgical procedure. It serves to explain why individuals who have just undergone the knife receive fluids and plasma into the vein or repeated injections of penicillin, vitamins, and other drugs.

Nutritional advances have contributed much, particularly the use of proteins. The reserve supply of this chemical is often depleted at this time especially in those who have been ill for some time prior to the event. Such individuals have one strike against them because their poor state of health adds to the risk of operation. In some instances, the only feasible clew is the pallor resulting from anemia. But internal changes, which are not evident to the eye, have taken place. Certain factors in the blood are deficient because of the protein shortage. This increases susceptibility to shock, lowers resistance to infection, and retards wound healing. The modern physician takes these factors into consideration and administers proteins when necessary before and after the operation in order to minimize complications.

Vitamins also play a role. C helps repair as it is an important constituent of the cementing substance needed to knit tissues together. Thiamine chloride, riboflavin, and niacin are likewise essential. Vitamin K is useful when a patient with jaundice requires operation as it furnishes the missing ingredient demanded for blood coagulation. Deficits in all of these nutritional elements are most likely to be found in persons who are in need of stomach or intestinal operations. Many have been on strict diets lacking in vitamins and proteins.

At first proteins, sugars, and vitamins are given hypodermically. As soon as the patient is able to swallow and retain food the preparations are given orally. It is hard to beat Mother Nature and recent studies have shown that such products are utilized to their fullest extent when taken by mouth. The use of penicillin, streptomycin, and the sulfonamides has worked wonders in preventing and controlling infections. By getting out of bed earlier, vein disturbances are less likely to occur.

TYPHOID

C. L. B. writes: If a person of 50 had typhoid at the age of 11, is there any danger to his family if they use his books?

Reply

If he has not infected any one in the household in the intervening 40 years, the chances are that he won't at this stage. If he is not a typhoid carrier, there is no danger.

PAINFUL SHOULDER

J. E. writes: Is bursitis of the shoulder a forerunner of arthritis?

Reply

No, although sometimes it is difficult to tell the two conditions apart.

VEIN INFLAMMATION

C. V. writes: What are the symptoms of thrombophlebitis?

Reply

Pain, redness, and tenderness along the course of the involved vein. In the early stages fever may be present, often accompanied by chills. Swelling of the foot or leg often occurs when the main passageway is affected.

KIDNEY DISORDER

K. L. writes: Are children born with nephrosis of the kidneys?

Reply

This condition is rarely present at birth altho it is most common in young children. The cause is unknown but it usually develops as a result of kidney infection. With modern treatment, the outcome is not as hopeless as it was in the past.

MANY CAUSES

Mrs. V. writes: What could cause cessation of menstruation?

Reply

In young girls, amennorrhea may be perfectly normal and of no consequence. With women of child-bearing age, pregnacy is the most common cause. During the forties, the menopause must be considered. Emotional disturbances, starvation, glandular disorders, and changes in climate are lesser possibilities.

BONE INFECTION

Y. writes: Can the bones become inflamed?

Reply

Yes; the condition is known as "osteitis."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—It is the Washington Merry - Go - Round's pleasure and privilege today to present the brass ring for outstanding performance of duty to a singularly devoted and patriotic public servant.

He is Tracy S. Voorhees, assistant secretary of the Army.

It is especially fitting that he be singled out for public recognition because Voorhees and his uniquely distinguished work have long merited it. In all Washington, no one has served the country more earnestly, tirelessly and brilliantly. Yet, outside of Voorhees' immediate official orbit, he is virtually unknown.

This modesty is very characteristic of him. More than one of his accomplishments have been headline news, but he doesn't function that way. Grandstanding or limelight-grabbing is out of his ken.

To Tracy Voorhees only one thing matters: Getting a job done as efficiently, expeditiously, and for the greatest good that is possible.

All the rest is of no consequence to him. He really believes that work well done is its own best reward. The remarkable thing is that this belief has worked out that way for Voorhees. Wholly lacking in political "pull", and without his seeking the office, he recently was elevated to Assistant Secretary of the Army solely because of his outstanding record and qualifications for the position.

Veteran

Voorhees has been serving his country unobtrusively and devotedly for a long time. He started in the early days of the war.

Then over 50 and a senior partner of a highly successful New York law firm, of which the late Chief Justice Harlan Stone had once been a member, Voorhees instantly dropped his large practice to respond to an urgent call from his old friend Robert Patterson, then under secretary of war. Patterson needed a hard-headed and driving trouble-shooter to go to the ends of the world to straighten out critical Army snarls.

From then on, as an Army colonel, Voohees was constantly on the go. Wherever stupidity, incompetence and bungling snafued the channels of supply, he moved in and quietly and effectively brought order and action.

In the tropical depths of the South Pacific he unravelled a tieup that had created a serious shortage of blood plasma.

Although huge quantities of plasma had been shipped to the theatre, combat commanders bombarded Washington with irate complaints of shortages. Voorhees unearthed the reason.

On some islands, no longer in the active zone, he found medical supply officers hoarding large quantities of plasma.

Similarly, In England, he quietly again saved the Medical Corps' neck on hospital equipment. Voorhees found tremendous discrepancies in the preparations for taking care of invasion casualties. Certain brass-hats had grievously underestimated requirements. Voorhees quickly and efficiently brought over the needed equipment.

In recognition of these, and other outstanding feats, Voorhees was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal.

Artifical Limbs

After Patterson became secretary of war, he again asked Voorhees to undertake a difficult job in behalf of veterans who had lost limbs. With the war over, Voorhees had doffed his uniform. But he again responded without question.

Under Patterson's prodding, Army medical brass had belatedly, in the spring of 1945, started a program to improve artificial limbs. These devices were still in the oxcart stage. They were cumbersome, crude and ineffectual.

However, despite the good intentions of the Army's tardy development program, it soon bogged down in administrative snafu. Voorhees quietly reorganized the setup and put the project on a practial working basis.

He is still keeping a helpful supervisory eye on the program. Under it, real progress is being made in developing truly modern and efficient artifical limbs. There have been no miracles, but slowly and steadily advances are being made that offer hope, that if the program is continued over a period of years. Devices will be evolved that in a measure will approximate the utility of human limbs.

For this, every amputee in the country, veteran or civilian, owes Tracy Voohees a lasting debt of gratitude.

Great Feeder

Voorhees was still grappling with the prosthetic problem, when he was called on to tackle an even greater one.

Food supplies for occupied Germany went haywire. Early in the spring of 1947, occupation authorities suddenly reported a mysterious vast shortage in food resources. Hundreds of thousands of tons of good had somehow very strangely either disappeared or had never existed.

The daily ration had to be cut to less than 1,000 calories; the Krauts started rioting; and Ruhr coal and other essential production dropped precipitously.

This was the "hot potato" Voorhees was asked to straighten out.

Again, he went to work quietly and unsparingly. Driving himself day and night, he not only got huge quantities of food to Germany but to the equally distressed Allied countries, which were in dire need as a result of crop failures.

In this activity, Voorhees, without fanfare or grandstanding, successfully administered a relief program many times larger and more complex than that of Herbert Hoover after World War I.

Further, Voorhees accomplished this stupendous feat without title or rank. It was not until after the tough-fisted House appropriations committee earlier this year paid him an extraordinary tribute, that he was formerly named Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Voorhees had submitted a budget request of $1,250,000,000 for the various occupied zones. After a minute examination of his estimate, the committee not only officiallys lauded him for his clarity and accuracy but approved his request in toto.

Voorhees' budget was the only one in the recovery appropriation bill that was not cut.

Note: Under Voorhees program, the U. S. is now feeding Germans at a cost of $17.12 per head per annum. This food is approximately 60 per cent of the rationed food received by Germans.

Drive To Communize World Has, Geographically, Two Prongs

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Russian drive to communize the world has, geographically, two prongs. One, reaching out from Russia's European border, presses toward the countries of Western Europe. The other, reaching out from Russia's Asiatic border, presses toward China and the other countries of Eastern Asia.

In the Western drive, the most recent act of overt and conspicuous aggression by Russia was the cutting off of land access to Berlin by us and the other western powers. We and Britain improvised access by air and have been carrying supplies for the Berlin people with much success, and we have stood firm against Russia's assertion of right to keep us out. That issue is now in negotiation at Moscow, between Russia's Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov on one side, and on the other envoys of Britain, the United States and France. How the Moscow Conference turns out is of the utmost importance. Berlin is a concrete issue, near military in nature, and must have a concrete conclusion.

The Moscow negotiations are followed intently by the American public. So is the Western drive as a whole. New developments occur almost daily in one part of Europe or another, they get into the news and our people follow them closely. With the Western prong of the worldwide Communist drive, our people are completely familiar.

Economic Chaos Elsewhere

Quite different is the case of the Eastern Communist advance. Throughout Eastern Asia, from and including China to the farthest tip of the East Indies, in every country except Japan and the Philippines, there is increase of communism and continuation of the economic chaos which communism thrives upon and promotes. It is little noticed in America and it encounters little effective opposition.

In China is formidable Communist strength, a weak Nationalist government, and no dependable sign of economic recovery. The recent setting up of a new currency, following complete collapse of the former one, is too recent for judgment about whether it will help toward economic stability. In Burma is utter economic paralysis with the Communists close to seizure of the government. In French Indo-China the Communists control most of the country and there is economic prostration. In Malaya economic disruption is increasing and so is an armed Communist movement. In South Korea the government is weak, there is little sign of economic development, the country might be an easy prey to Communism. In Indonesia, economic production is only about a third of pre-war normal, and there is political turmoil which makes opportunity for Communism.

To the Communist heads in Moscow, the advantage of the condition in Eastern Asia is not merely the increase in numbers of Communists in that quarter of the world. Nor is it the effect, within the Eastern Asiatic countries themselves, of the economic chaos which the Communists perpetuate and foster. The real advantage to the Communist heads in Moscow is the help which economic chaos in Eastern Asia contributes to the worldwide Communist drive.

Eastern Communist Drive

Several of the countries of Eastern Asia are normally larger exporters of raw materials to Europe and the United States. Indonesia is one of the world's largest sources of export. Exports from Eastern Asiatic countries are now reduced in many cases to the point of near suspension. Indo China, which normally exports one and a half million tons of rice a year is this year exporting only ninety thousand tons.

The drying up of exports of such important materials as rubber, oil and tin from Southeastern Asia, helps to keep the national economies of Europe disrupted, helps to prevent economic recovery on that continent. This has been a basic Communist purpose and strategy.

The Eastern Communist drive is a formidable contribution to the central Communist purpose of bringing about destruction of the capitalist system both within countries and as an international structure.

To Have Forrestal Take Stump Would Be Mistake, Is Belief

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 — Announcement from the Democratic Speaker's Bureau here that every member of the President's cabinet except Secretary Marshall will speak in the coming political campaign must mean that the secretary of defense, James Forrestal, is about to go campaigning.

It is hoped that the announcement was too broad. For it would be a regrettable development to find the man who holds the most important position in the defense plans of the nation out on the stump in the guise of a plain politician.

At a time when the youth are being summoned by the draft and a critical international situation faces America, the Secretary of Defense occupies a post that should be even more detached from party politics than that of the Secretary of State.

To keep the Army, Navy and Air Forces working together is a job so vital to national security that to introduce party politics at the top is to begin the process of undermining morale in the armed services—which neither President Truman nor Governor Dewey ought to countenance for a moment.

Disservice To Unification

If Mr. Forrestal does not before long, of his own initiative, take himself out of the list of campaign speakers, he will be disappointing many an admirer and will be doing a disservice to the cause of unification of the armed services. For if Mr. Forrestal becomes a politician, it means that the next secretary of defense has ample precedent for entering politics, too.

It is true that a member of the President's cabinet is in a sense committed to the politics of the Chief Executive from the standpoint of loyalty if nothing else. Since, however, an exception has been made in the case of Secretary of State Marshall, the same rule could be applied to the secretary of defense. Surely there is even more reason for bi-partisan cooperation on the matter of directing the armed services than there is in handling foreign policy, if indeed there is any need to make comparisons at all between the two departments. They are very much alike.

There is a further reason why Mr. Forestal should forbear. It looks, at the moment, as if there will be a change of Administration next January. The budget estimates for next year must be prepared this autumn for action by Congress in January. It would be a mistake to appoint a new secretary of defense next January. It would be better for the country if Mr. Forrestal were to stay on for at least another year.

The ideal solution would be for the next President to retain the services of Secretary Forrestal indefinitely, thus creating a precedent for the future which would mean more to the cause of unification than frequent changes for political purposes.

Mr. Forrestal is unique among the cabinet officers. He has had the background of the entire war period. He was selected for Secretary of Defense because he made a great Secretary of the Navy and because, notwithstanding his indoctrination with the Navy viewpoint, he could see the point of view of the other armed services.

Has Cooperation Of Top Officers

To a remarkable degree Mr. Forrestal has the confidence of the top officers in all three armed services. His knowledge and experience cannot be duplicated. It would be an error to appoint a military or naval officer from the retired list as Secretary of Defense. It is and should remain a civilian job. Mr. Forrestal is the best civilian available for it, and he is relatively young and is devoted to public service.

Governor Dewey probably knows Mr. Forrestal as well as does President Truman, but unless public sentiment favors the retention of Mr. Forrestal in the post of secretary of defense, the politicians might prevail on the New York Governor, if he is president-elect, to choose someone with a distinct Republican affiliation.

It is interesting to note that Secretary Forrestal, formerly an investment banker in New York, has been criticized by New Dealers in recent years for his conservative views on economic and social questions. Both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman disregarded that criticism, which means that they appointed him on merit alone. Mr. Roosevelt felt so strongly that the cabinet secretaries directing the armed services should be detached from politics that in the summer of 1940 he appointed Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, both prominent Republicans, to the offices of Secretary of War and Navy, respectively. This was more than a year before America entered the war. The next President, if he be a Republican, could continue the precedent by retaining a Democrat in the post of secretary of defense.

These Days

Television and Politics

THE RADIO did a job for some politicians: it made it possible for their voices to carry conviction, friendliness, strength of purpose. Other men sounded awful. The public judged these men by their voices. Some were smart enough to hire elocution teachers to beautify their voices and their manner of speaking, just as now the television technicians fix the faces of politicians as though they were movie actors. Maybe this will start a vogue of lipstcik for males and every statesman will carry a compact.

Television, even with fixed faces, is liable to become a cruel instrument. The stuffed shirt will never be able to let his hair down, fearing that television will get him in his natural state. The prohibitionist orator will not be able to drink beyond his capacity, for although television cannot yet transmit the breath, it can catch the lordly statesman telling that one about Moe and Joe—which puts a leer in the eye and a lecherous grin on the face, and the voters will know him for what he is.

Nor will it be possible for the statesman to read other men's elocution, with magnificent eloquence, with force and power, while all the time he does not believe a word he is saying. It will take a wonderful actor to speak with such perfect objectivity. Most men's faces and manners and gestures will give them away. A man who has spent his life in the theater writes me:

"I saw the Democratic and Republican Conventions on the television screen and it is a devastating instrument for politicians. That goes for all of them but Hoover. His simplicity, dignity and sincerity stood out above them all.

"Television is dangerous for politicians. It seems to emphasize the insincerity, hokum, and oratorical tricks and that means its photography at present is brutal on beauty and ugliness alike.

"Sound broadcasting leaves a lot to the imagination and many can get by; but televisoin is a cruel instrument to most performers.

"Of course, it will be perfected as it is further developed, but as I see it, national conventions are doomed if they allow television to cover them.

"They should be heard but not seen."

This holds not only for national conventions but for all forms of public endeavor. Let's not mention names, but a fellow I liked very much used to make his most wonderful speeches when he was drunk—but up to his eyes. He knew how to manage, although on one occasion, when I was present, he nearly went down under the table. He was helped up and delivered one of the most graceful addresses I had ever heard. I recall the grace but not what he said.

Television will kill that kind of oratory and that kind of exuberance. Maybe the perfecting of the device will be its elimination or the elimination of hi-jinks. A television record of the dull, painstaking preparations for a spontaneous demonstration could destroy any publicity director's dream.

Also, such an "American" movement of Henry Wallace's might suffer when the "Americans" are seen by television. A first-class fistfight among labor leaders might even be preferable to the speeches—on television.

And so we progress. I sometimes wonder what Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln and William Jennings Bryan, to say nothing of Demosthenes, did without a microphone. They made themselves felt; that we know by the influence they exercised. But could they be heard without the piece of tin that is stuck up before every speaker these days? And I sometimes wonder if the multitude would have elected so homely and gaunt a figure as Abraham Lincoln President had they seen him on television in competition with, let us say, the glorious profile of John Barrymore.

Perhaps in the near future, the National Committees will each have a department of cosmetics and candidates will be chosen because they are photogenic just as in 1940 Republicans were looking for a glamorous candidate. Or maybe we shall turn the whole business over to the hucksters and nominate the tobacco auctioneer who makes all that meaningless noise on the radio.

Progress sure is exciting—but it does make it hard for statesmen. There is too much to keep up with.

Hopeful Impulses

Our hopeful impulses from day to day are what keep us on our toes—light stepping and lavish in faith. They do more—they inspire others, for we are forever radiating all that we are. We can only imagine and speculate upon these hopeful impulses that have achieved so much in the world. They are like jewels in a watch—they give accuracy to the time-keeping of our lives.

Said Stevenson: "Every heart that has beat strong and cheerfully has left a hopeful impulse behind it in the world, and bettered the tradition of mankind."

It's these hopeful impulses that keep us in both physical and spiritual high gear, and which give to us the inspiration essential to a happy and useful life. And only in a free and generous democracy can these impulses thrive and continually germinate. What a privilege it is to have been born in such a land! It is from these healthy impulses that every worthwhile act gets its birth and maturity.

What tragedies of the human spirit are enacted in lands where there is no freedom to these natural and hopeful impulses—there where they are still-born, never known light and life. How cruel are the greed, the savagery, and the love of power that destroy their conception.

We have but to look out upon nature to see how the Creator has arranged everything to live out its natural life. There it is that we get our every cue to live out our own happy way of life. In this great out-of-doors we have the object lessons ever before us, as to how to live. There it is that the secrets of the universe are revealed to us. There it is that we read God's thoughts in all that he has created for our enlightenment.

These wild flowers that I have just plucked and placed upon my writing desk are an illustration of eternity. It is written that "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Deathless are all hopeful impulses that stream out from the heart of man, inspired by nature, and nature's God.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl, 17, Admits She Is Unhappy But Wants To Keep Boy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Why Continue A Friendship That Makes You Unhappy?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My age is 17 and my boy friend is 18. When we first started going together he used to be extremely polite, but lately he gets annoyed at every little thing I do. He enjoys dominating my mind completely. He is very possessive and gets horribly jealous if I go out with anyone else. Although we are going steady, there are times when I just have to go out with someone else in order to express myself as I feel I should, and more or less have a life of my own. This boy spends a lot of money on me and I'm sure he tries to please me but I just can't seem to put up with his domination a minute longer. I feel as though I have no pride or self-respect left.

Another thing that troubles me is that his mother goes out practically every Saturday night and she makes him mind his sister who is nine. I don't think it is right for a boy of 18 who makes his own living and pays board to be kept in on Saturday nights. Don't you think his parents should hire a baby sitter?

This boy and I don't see eye to eye on any subject but I am madly in love with him and don't want to lose him. I wish you could tell me what to do in a case like this.

"CONFUSED"

Dear "Confused": If "going steady" means anything serious to you, then you had better break off this relationship at once. It is certainly very foolish for you to continue a friendship that makes you so uncomfortable and unhappy. You obviously don't get any fun out of it, but since you say you are "madly in love" with him, you may be one of those girls who rather enjoy being kicked around. You wouldn't like it long if it were something you had to put up with all the time.

As for the matter of the baby-sitting, I wouldn't say this was any of your business. I think a boy of 18 should be able to stand up for himself.

A Boy Who Won't Speak For Himself

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very fond of a boy who goes to the same school as I do. He seems to care for me but apparently he can't get up nerve enough to ask for a date. He got one of his school mates to ask me to go to the movies with him but I refused because I felt he should ask me himself. Did I do right?

"BEWILDERED"

Dear "Bewildered": It was perfectly all right for you to do what you did but I hope you didn't do it in a serious way that made it look as if you were angry. The best way to handle a situation of that kind is to laugh it off and say something like: "If So-and-So wants me to go out with him, tell him I'd like him to ask me himself." If his friend carried back to him word that you were annoyed, he probably wouldn't have the courage to try again, whereas if you indicated that you would go if you got a direct invitation from him, that would probably bolster up his nerve. Better have a little session with this friend and find out just what impression he did carry back with him.

Can't Make Up Her Mind Whom She Likes Best

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I know two boys and I like both of them. They are friends and go out together. Each of them has asked me to go steady but I don't know which one I like best or which one I should go with. Please give me some advice on this matter.

"LUCKY"

Dear "Lucky": If you don't know which of these two boys you like best, then I'd say you hadn't better try going steady with either of them. Better be honest with both of them and tell them that you're not ready for anything as definite as going steady with anybody yet. They'll like you better for your frankness than if you tried to make either of them think you liked him better than you really do.

Her Father Doesn't Trust Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 16 and last week my parents allowed me to attend the foremost parish dance of the season. Because I stayed until the dance was over and didn't get home till a few minutes after twelve, my father ever since has been accusing me of being a cheap girl with no morals. My parents were supposed to go away for a week-end without me but my father refuses to go because he claims that I cannot be trusted alone. What I want to know is how can I convince him that I am worthy of receiving his trust?

"RITA"

Dear Rita": If you are sure that nothing you have done has been responsible for making your father feel as he does and that there is no way in which you might change your conduct so he would feel differently, then I am afraid there is nothing you can do at present but try and conform to his ideas of what he thinks is proper for you. He may be mistaken, but after all you are his young daughter and he feels responsible for you and until you are old enough to take an independent stand, you will only make matters worse by failing to act in accordance with his wishes. After all, you have a great many years ahead of you when you will be able to do exactly as you please and it is not really very unreasonable for a girl your age to be required to be in the house at a fairly early hour.

Don't Show You Care By Getting Angry

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I would like to ask your advice for a very dear girl friend. She is a very attractive and brilliant girl of 19 and has been going with a young man of 21. Both of them attend college.

This young man started seeing her three times a week, Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday. Then he began to ditch Sunday and slowed down to once a week on Saturday. She got angry and wanted to know if she was just a date girl for Saturday. So now he makes it twice a week. He claims he must do homework on Sunday but he has been seen at Sunday dances with his boy friends.

He doesn't want her to date other boys and I have seen her turn down plenty of nice offers. She claims she is going steady with him because he has never turned her down on Saturday. He says he just goes to dances but doesn't date girls. What is your opinion?

"M.M."

Dear "M.M.": My opinion is that your friend was foolish to get angry because this young man cut down the number of his dates with her, and foolish also to consider herself so committed to him that she turns down other dates. If he considers he has a right to go to dances without her, she has the same right to go out without him, and he has no right at all to object. I think she should certainly take her cue from him, and do as he does, and have spunk enough to make it plain that she doesn't intend either to be dictated to or to limit her good times to those he chooses to give her. But her attitude will make more impression if she doesn't show she cares enough to be angry.

Kaylor To Participate In Conservation Panel

Joseph F. Kalyor, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks in Maryland, will participate in a feature event of the sixty-seventh annual meeting of the American Forestry Association October 8-11 at Chattanooga, Tenn., a panel discussion on the effectiveness of present efforts to bring small woodlands in the national under management.

The fact the panel participants include specialists from seven representatives states — Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Alabama, Massachuetts and Wisconsin—should help give a nationwide pattern to this problem, one of the greatest confronting American forestry today.

Theme of the four-day Chattanooga conference will be cooperative land management by federal, state and local governments and private enterprise. Twenty-eight prominent American conservationists have accepted invitations to appear on the program.

Police Search For Missing Girl

Maryland State Police are investigating the disappearance yesterday of Virginia Lee Cook, 13, from her home near McCoole.

The police were asked to investigfiate when her father found her missing from her room yesterday morning. A ladder leading up to the bedroom window was found outside the home.

Miss Cook is reported to be five feet tall, and to weigh about 107 pounds.

Just Between Us

If You Lose Lads To Best Friend, Stop Double Dating

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've never gone with a boy for more than three months, but it wasn't that he just stopped calling or that we had a fight. You see, sooner or later, we'd go out on a date with my best friend, and about the next week, she would begin going out with him. It never failed, and though our friendship is strong as ever, I don't think I can take it any longer. I've just met a very wonderful fellow and I know that if I introduce him to her, I'll lose him. And yet, it will seem strange if I go out of my way to keep them apart. It's really important to me, and I want to know what to do about it."

(A) There seems to be only one definite answer: keep the two apart. It wouldn't be tactful, or very wise, to have a talk with your friend and try to straighten things out. But if she ever suggests a double date, tell her you're arranged something else for the evening and can't possibly change it. Perhaps, after you've dated him for some time, you might take a chance on a double date with her, but it isn't a good idea right away. She may be a close friend otherwise, but when she's proved herself a bit untrustworthy when it comes to your dates, use caution and you won't regret it.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: The boy I'm dating can't understand my point of view about this, and I'd like to know what to do about it. We've been going together for two years, we both finished high school last June, and this fall we're going to different colleges, quite far away from each other. Since we've gone steady for most of this time, he wants to keep it that way, and I don't think it will work. Although I'm very fond of him, I don't want to have to pass up dates while I'm away, and I'm sure that he'll be sorry we made such an agreement after he's been away for some time."

(A) If you really mean a lot to each other, dates for college events and parties won't make any difference in your feelings. When all the other fellows and girls are going out, you won't be content to stay in and neither will he. It would be better to agree to write regularly and see each other as often as possible, but not to make any arrangements not to date occasionally. If you ever did decide that you wanted to, it might very well cause arguments or hard feelings.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A fellow just moved into our neighborhood from out of town, and he and my brother have become good friends. I've begun to like him quite a bit, and though he's been over several times, he hasn't shown any particular interest in me. I'd like to date him, but I don't know how to go about it. Could you give me any advice?"

(A) Concentrate on being pleasant and friendly, but don't let him suspect that you're really interested. Strike up conversations with him when he comes over, and eventually he may begin to think of you as more than just "his buddy's younger sister." He'll be seeing you quite a bit, and it's very possible that in time he'll start to notice you as something he'd like to see even more of.

If you have a school, family or friend problem, Nancy can help you. Letters are answered in this column.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Lindo and Jerry Walter

"On second thought, I still like puppies better than men!"

Visits Here After Six Months In Guam

Joseph Defibaugh, Palo Alto, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Defibaugh, 200 Glenn Street, has been visiting his parents for the past several days.

A senior premedical student at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, Defibaugh early this year obtained a leave of absence from his studies and sailed for the Island of Guam, where he worked six months as a pharmacist for a large civilian contracting firm.

Now on vacation, Defibaugh has just completed a six-weeks summer session at Stanford. He will return shortly to begin the fall term at the university.

Twenty-five years ago—1923—was the all-time record year for pig iron production up to that time, with an output of 45,204,484 tons. The same year saw a record production of railroad freight cars, never equalled since.

Just Between Us

If You Lose Lads To Best Friend, Stop Double Dating

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've never gone with a boy for more than three months, but it wasn't that he just stopped calling or that we had a fight. You see, sooner or later, we'd go out on a date with my best friend, and about the next week, she would begin going out with him. It never failed, and though our friendship is strong as ever, I don't think I can take it any longer. I've just met a very wonderful fellow and I know that if I introduce him to her, I'll lose him. And yet, it will seem strange if I go out of my way to keep them apart. It's really important to me, and I want to know what to do about it."

(A) There seems to be only one definite answer: keep the two apart. It wouldn't be tactful, or very wise, to have a talk with your friend and try to straighten things out. But if she ever suggests a double date, tell her you're arranged something else for the evening and can't possibly change it. Perhaps, after you've dated him for some time, you might take a chance on a double date with her, but it isn't a good idea right away. She may be a close friend otherwise, but when she's proved herself a bit untrustworthy when it comes to your dates, use caution and you won't regret it.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: The boy I'm dating can't understand my point of view about this, and I'd like to know what to do about it. We've been going together for two years, we both finished high school last June, and this fall we're going to different colleges, quite far away from each other. Since we've gone steady for most of this time, he wants to keep it that way, and I don't think it will work. Although I'm very fond of him, I don't want to have to pass up dates while I'm away, and I'm sure that he'll be sorry we made such an agreement after he's been away for some time."

(A) If you really mean a lot to each other, dates for college events and parties won't make any difference in your feelings. When all the other fellows and girls are going out, you won't be content to stay in and neither will he. It would be better to agree to write regularly and see each other as often as possible, but not to make any arrangements not to date occasionally. If you ever did decide that you wanted to, it might very well cause arguments or hard feelings.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A fellow just moved into our neighborhood from out of town, and he and my brother have become good friends. I've begun to like him quite a bit, and though he's been over several times, he hasn't shown any particular interest in me. I'd like to date him, but I don't know how to go about it. Could you give me any advice?"

(A) Concentrate on being pleasant and friendly, but don't let him suspect that you're really interested. Strike up conversations with him when he comes over, and eventually he may begin to think of you as more than just "his buddy's younger sister." He'll be seeing you quite a bit, and it's very possible that in time he'll start to notice you as something he'd like to see even more of.

Go to Church this Sunday, your Church, any Church, but go!

The STUFFED SHIRT

You've met this man before! Remember him? What grand airs he liked to assume! What vain boasts poured from his lips! He was forever trying to make an impression, but most people saw through his false front. They called him a STUFFED SHIRT!

Airs and vanity rarely fool us. We look for the inner qualities of a man's character. Only when those inner qualities are just as fine as the external impression he makes — only then are we sure we have met a man of the highest mettle.

The Church builds character! Into the life of the individual and of the community it pours those moral and spiritual influences which develop man's innate nobility. Through religious education and the worship of God, the Church points young and old to the high goals and rich resources of Christian living.

Choose a church and make it YOUR CHURCH.

© 1948, E. E. Kelster, Strasburg, Va.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Go to Church this Sunday, your Church, any Church, but go!

The STUFFED SHIRT

You've met this man before! Remember him? What grand airs he liked to assume! What vain boasts poured from his lips! He was forever trying to make an impression, but most people saw through his false front. They called him a STUFFED SHIRT!

Airs and vanity rarely fool us. We look for the inner qualities of a man's character. Only when those inner qualities are just as fine as the external impression he makes — only then are we sure we have met a man of the highest mettle.

The Church builds character! Into the life of the individual and of the community it pours those moral and spiritual influences which develop man's innate nobility. Through religious education and the worship of God, the Church points young and old to the high goals and rich resources of Christian living.

Choose a church and make it YOUR CHURCH.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TIGERS NOSE OUT NATS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Virgil (Fire) Trucks put the damper on two Washington late game rallies today and helped Detroit score a 3-2 victory over the Senators.

Credit for the win went to Bill Pierce, 21-year old southpaw.

Washington nicked Pierce for two runs in the first inning when Carden Gillenwater and Ed Stewart singled and Tom McBride doubled.

The Tigers pounced on Walter Masterson for three runs in the eighth when Pinch-Hitter Freddie Hutchinson walked, Dick Wakefield singled, George Kell doubled and Hoot Evers singled. Box:

All-America Cage League May Select Teams Sunday

Commissioner Davies Will Attend Sessions

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27—The All-American Pro basketball league meets this weekend at the William Penn Hotel here to mark the debut in league businss of new commissioner Chick Davies, former coach at Duquesne University.

Two sessions are scheduled—at 7 p. m. (DST) on Saturday and at 10 a. m. (DST) Sunday, it was pointed out by President Mike Valan.

The league is faced with several problems, the most pressing of which is the determination of where franchises for the coming campaign will be located.

At the present time, Wheeling, Cumberland, Altoona, Youngstown and Dayton hold franchises in the league, which operated last season for the first time.

Davies' acceptance of the job as commissioner received full endorsement by all prospective league members, Valan said in expressing the opinion that this weekend's meeting will result in a definite plan with respect to clubs which will be on hand for the coming season.

Valan said that on the basis of information gathered thus far, the prospects are "even" that the league may open the campaign with two divisions. The pros plan to open activity in December.

Citation Seeks $68,450 In Rich American Derby

Speedy Free America Will Be Running Mate

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The amazing Citation, three-year-old champion of 1948, returns to major racing competition tomorrow as favorite to win the $90,750 American Derby at Washington Park.

The famed Calumet Farm's colt, winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont and seven other rich stakes this season, will have the speedy Free America as his running mate in the mile and a quarter stake for three-year-olds. Five others will challenge the Calumet pair.

Citation, if victorious, will advance into third place in the list of all-time money winners, replacing Assault. The winner will haul down a check for $68,450, which would bring Citation's earnings up to $653,750, second to Calumet's Armed which earned $773,700 in five years of campaigning. The retired Stymie tops the list with $911,335. Armed and Assault also have been retired.

The race will be Citation's first major start since winning the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes at Arlington Park last July 5. He pulled a hip muscle in preparing for the rich Arlington Classic and was shelved for rest until winning a six furlong test at Washington Park a week ago.

Free America's recent triumph over older horses at six furlongs marked his initial start of the season. What impressed turfmen, however, was his scintillating mile workout in which he sped around four turns in 1:36 2-5 handily. Most mile races are run around two turns.

Citation will carry top weight of 126 pounds, with the nation's No. 1 jockey, Eddie Arcaro, astride him.

The other five horses which will challenge Citation and his running mate are Shy Guy, owned by Charles T. Fisher, Detroit industrialist; King Ranch's Better Self, Papa Redbird, owned by Joseph A. Goodwin, Lexington, Ky.; and two surprise starters, the Walmac Farm's Volcanic and D. A. Rosenbaum's Reborn.

Johnny Schmitz Scores Shutout Over Braves, 1-0

Cubs' Southpaw Star Chalks Up 15th Win

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs continued to wreck the first-place lead of the Boston Braves when they took their third straight victory from the league-leaders, 1 to 0, here today before a ladies day turnout of 19,967. It cut Boston's lead to two games, pending the night games of their challengers.

Johnny Schmitz was the villian of today's setback. He not only out-dueled Johnny Sain but also paced the Cubs to their lone marker in a dramatic ninth-inning finish.

Schmitz opened the ninth with a solid double to left center and stayed there while Emil Verban was safe on his dribbler to Frank McCormick. When Sibby Sisti, in covering first base, failed to touch the bag. Hal Jeffcoat fanned, but Phil Cavarretta followed with a single to left, sending Schmitz to third. Schmitz scored while Andy Pafko grounded into a force out, Bob Elliott trying for a double play that failed.

Schmitz was masterful in the pinches, scattering six hits and four walks to leave nine Braves stranded. It was the 15th win for Schmitz and the 13th loss for Sain.

The big Boston righthander was the better hurler until the ninth. Though he eventually yielded five hits, only three came off him in the first eight innings and not a Cub passed first base in that time.

The Braves missed many a glowing scoring opportunity. Twice they had runners on third with only one out, due to triples by Al Dark and Mike McCormick in the first and sixth rounds. Box:

Lefty Lopatka Sues Phils For $250,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (INS) — Art Lopatka, a lefthanded pitcher formerly with the Philadelphia Phillies, sued that ball club for $250,000 today, charging permanent injury incurred because he was forced to pitch after being hurt.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler was also named as a defendant in the suit, on the grounds he failed to settle Lopatka's differences with the Phillies and was "biased" in the latter's favor.

Lopatka's suit, filed in Chicago Federal Court, claims the pitcher injured a finger in April of 1946 when hit by a ball.

Because he was called on to keep playing and given inadequate treatment, the pitcher added, his hand, arm and shoulder were affected and his baseball career ended.

(In Philadelphia, an official of the Phillies denied Lopatka's charges.)

Reed's Electricians put on a garrison finish to eke out a 4-3 decision over Astor Cab yesterday at East Side Field and remained two games behind the pace-setting Amvets in the hot second half race of the City Softball League.

The Amvets and Electricians are scheduled to meet in two games next week.

A two-run rally in the last of the 7th enabled Manager Johnny Mangus' team to pull yesterday's battle out of the fire. "Bub" Porter and Ronnie Armbruster singled and "Moose" Minnick, pinch-hitting for Johnson, sacrificed. Then Lester Sisk, swinging for Beckman, hit to center to score Porter with the tying run. Catcher Harry Dean threw to second in an attempt to cut down Sisk and Armbruster raced home with the winning marker.

Porter hit a two-run double in the first to give Reed's the lead. Lou Baker's double gave Astor its first tally in the second and Bill Dean's timely single netted two markers and a 3-2 lead for the Cabbies in the 5th.

Gene Basilio of Reed's leaped over the bleachers to make a sensational catch. Porter of the Electricians and Bill Dean of the losers garnered two hits each.

Allan Sheetz notched victory No. 24 against three losses by pitching the Amvets to a 4-1 win over Astor Restaurant at Campobello. Al Martin and Sheetz with a double and single each paced the Amvets while Ronnie Cage rapped a double and single and Don Harden got two singles for the restaurant team.

North End took Ballard's Cleaners into camp behind the three-hit pitching of Glenn Coffman. Whitman with a triple and two singles and Fradiska with two singles paced the winners. Fuller, J. Fisher and G. Barb garnered Ballard's safeties.

Hardy, Foreman and Durbin hit for the circuit as Lacy's Delicatets trounced Joe's Crusaders by the score of 13-3. Durbin and Giles collected three hits each, one of the latter's blows being a triple. Yates belted a homer and single for the losers. Scores:

Grand American Handicap Is Won By John W. Schenk

Pennsylvania Gunner Victor In Shootoff

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27. (AP)—A Pennsylvania truck gardener, 49-year-old John W. Schenk of Sharpsburg, jumped from nowhere today to win the Grand American Handicap, trapshooting's No. 1 prize, from the second largest field in history.

Breaking the best score of his four-year clay target career, 99 of 100 from 20 yards, Schenk tied 17-year-old Jimmy Rasmussen, high school senior from Waukesha, Wis., and then defeated him 24 to 23 in a thrill-packed shootoff.

Rasmussen, who has worked here all week as a firing line scorer, took time off from his job early today to fire his 99 from 19 yards.

The score held up against the field of 1,750 until late in the day when Schenk wheeled into the deadlock.

The smiling youngster returned to his scoring chores and worked for six hours before being called out for the shootoff. With a crowd of several thousand pulling for the kid, both missed their sixth target, and then Rasmussen muffed the 23rd to lose the laurels.

In the regulation event Schenk went "straight" until the 98th target, a sharp angle, while Rasmussen missed the 69th.

The feminine handicap championship went to Mrs. Julius (Stella) Petty of Stuttgart, Ark, who broke the last 75 in a row for a total of 98 of 100 — the best any woman has ever done in the big race. It was the first time in her life she had bested 94, and she did it from the 17-yard line.

Reynolds, Feller Win As Yankees, Cleveland Split

Tribe Cops Opener, 8-1 And New York 2nd, 7-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees each lost ground to the front-running Boston Red Sox today as they divided a double header at the Yankee Stadium. The Indians, with Bob Feller spinning a splendid six-hitter, won the opener, 8-1. The Yankees bounced back to snatch the second game, 7-2, as Allie Reynolds staggered to his 14th triumph, although stung for 11 safeties.

The split, witnessed by a near-capacity crowd of 61,729 paying customers despite the pressing 96-degree heat, cost both clubs in the standings. The second place Indians lost half a game to the Red Sox, who triumphed over the White Sox in Boston, and now trail by a full game. The third place Yankees remain half game behind the Tribe, but are a game and half out of first place.

Feller Scores 13th

Although the Indians socked three Yankee flingers for a dozen hits including home runs by Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, it was Feller who stole the show in the opener. Breaking off a wicked curve ball that had the Yankees swinging futily most of the afternoon, and mixing it with a lightning fast ball reminiscent of the Feller of old, Bob permitted only six scattered hits in registering his 13th victory.

Yankee ace Vic Raschi, gunning for his 18th triumph and his fourth in a row over the Indians, kept pace with Feller for six innings. He allowed only one run, Keltner's 25th home run in the fourth. In the seventh, however, Larry Doby and Ed Robinson singled in succession, and when DiMaggio allowed Robinson's hit to skip through his legs, Doby scored. Dale Mitchell sent Robinson home with a single through the middle of the diamond.

Cleveland iced the game against Tommy Byrne, scoring two runs in the eighth and three in the ninth. Boudreau's 12th round tripper came in the final frame with a runner aboard.

The Yankees wasted little time in the second game, hopping on starter Steve Gromek for a run in the second inning. After Rizzuto got a lift on Keltner's bobble, Catcher Ralph Houk, recently recalled from Kansas City, sent him home with a double.

DiMaggio Hits 29th

The Yankees went ahead 4-0 in the fourth. After DiMaggio had poled his 29th home run and his 10th against Cleveland, deep into the left field stands, they chased Gromek with hits by Larry Berra, Johnny Lindell and Rizzuto. Ed Klieman, Russ Christopher and Satchel Paige finished up for the Indians. Paige retired three men in a row in the eighth. Box:

Yankees Take Measure Of Brooklyn, 21 To 3

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (INS) — The Los Angeles Dons spoiled the official debut of the "new" Chicago Rockets tonight by winning out, 7 to 0, in the All-America Football Conference opener for both teams.

Twice the Rockets moved to within their foes' ten yard line only to be stopped, once on the six and once on the seven.

All-America Cage League May Select Teams Sunday

Commissioner Davies Will Attend Sessions

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27—The All-American Pro basketball league meets this weekend at the William Penn Hotel here to mark the debut in league business of new commissioner Chick Davies, former coach at Duquesne University.

Two sessions are scheduled—at 7 p. m. (DST) on Saturday and at 10 a. m. (DST) Sunday, it was pointed out by President Mike Valan.

The league is faced with several problems, the most pressing of which is the determination of where franchises for the coming campaign will be located.

At the present time, Wheeling, Cumberland, Altoona, Youngstown and Dayton hold franchises in the league, which operated last season for the first time.

Davies' acceptance of the job as commissioner received full endorsement by all prospective league members, Valan said in expressing the opinion that this weekend's meeting will result in a definite plan with respect to clubs which will be on hand for the coming season.

Valan said that on the basis of information gathered thus far, the prospects are "even" that the league may open the campaign with two divisions. The pros plan to open activity in December.

Citation Seeks $68,450 In Rich American Derby

Speedy Free America Will Be Running Mate

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The amazing Citation, three-year-old champion of 1948, returns to major racing competition tomorrow as favorite to win the $90,750 American Derby at Washington Park.

The famed Calumet Farm's colt, winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont and seven other rich stakes this season, will have the speedy Free America as his running mate in the mile and a quarter stake for three-year-olds. Five others will challenge the Calumet pair.

Citation, if victorious, will advance into third place in the list of all-time money winners, replacing Assault. The winner will haul down a check for $68,450, which would bring Citation's earnings up to $653,750, second to Calumet's Armed which earned $773,700 in five years of campaigning. The retired Stymie tops the list with $911,335. Armed and Assault also have been retired.

The race will be Citation's first major start since winning the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes at Arlington Park last July 5. He pulled a hip muscle in preparing for the rich Arlington Classic and was shelved for rest until winning a six furlong test at Washington Park a week ago.

Free America's recent triumph over older horses at six furlongs marked his initial start of the season. What impressed turfmen, however, was his scintillating mile workout in which he sped around four turns in 1:36 2-5 handily. Most mile races are run around two turns.

Citation will carry top weight of 126 pounds, with the nation's No. 1 jockey, Eddie Arcaro, astride him.

The other five horses which will challenge Citation and his running mate are Shy Guy, owned by Charles T. Fisher, Detroit industrialist; King Ranch's Better Self, Papa Redbird, owned by Joseph A. Goodwin, Lexington, Ky.; and two surprise starters, the Walmac Farm's Volcanic and D. A. Rosenbaum's Reborn.

Johnny Schmitz Scores Shutout Over Braves, 1-0

Cubs' Southpaw Star Chalks Up 15th Win

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs continued to wreck the first-place lead of the Boston Braves when they took their third straight victory from the league-leaders, 1 to 0, here today before a ladies day turnout of 19,967. It cut Boston's lead to two games, pending the night games of their challengers.

Johnny Schmitz was the villian of today's setback. He not only out-dueled Johnny Sain but also paced the Cubs to their lone marker in a dramatic ninth-inning finish.

Schmitz opened the ninth with a solid double to left center and stayed there while Emil Verban was safe on his dribbler to Frank McCormick. When Sibby Sisti, in covering first base, failed to touch the bag. Hal Jeffcoat fanned, but Phil Cavarretta followed with a single to left, sending Schmitz to third. Schmitz scored while Andy Pafko grounded into a force out, Bob Elliott trying for a double play that failed.

Schmitz was masterful in the pinches, scattering six hits and four walks to leave nine Braves stranded. It was the 15th win for Schmitz and the 13th loss for Sain.

The big Boston righthander was the better hurler until the ninth. Though he eventually yielded five hits, only three came off him in the first eight innings and not a Cub passed first base in that time.

The Braves missed many a glowing scoring opportunity. Twice they had runners on third with only one out, due to triples by Al Dark and Mike McCormick in the first and sixth rounds. Box:

Lefty Lopatka Sues Phils For $250,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (INS) — Art Lopatka, a lefthanded pitcher formerly with the Philadelphia Phillies, sued that ball club for $250,000 today, charging permanent injury incurred because he was forced to pitch after being hurt.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler was also named as a defendant in the suit, on the grounds he failed to settle Lopatka's differences with the Phillies and was "biased" in the latter's favor.

Lopatka's suit, filed in Chicago Federal Court, claims the pitcher injured a finger in April of 1946 when hit by a ball.

Because he was called on to keep playing and given inadequate treatment, the pitcher added, his hand, arm and shoulder were affected and his baseball career ended.

(In Philadelphia, an official of the Phillies denied Lopatka's charges.)

Reed's Electricians put on a garrison finish to eke out a 4-3 decision over Astor Cab yesterday at East Side Field and remained two games behind the pace-setting Amvets in the hot second half race of the City Softball League.

The Amvets and Electricians are scheduled to meet in two games next week.

A two-run rally in the last of the 7th enabled Manager Johnny Mangus' team to pull yesterday's battle out of the fire. "Bub" Porter and Ronnie Armbruster singled and "Moose" Minnick, pinch-hitting for Johnson, sacrificed. Then Lester Sisk, swinging for Beckman, hit to center to score Porter with the tying run. Catcher Harry Dean threw to second in an attempt to cut down Sisk and Armbruster raced home with the winning marker.

Porter hit a two-run double in the first to give Reed's the lead. Lou Baker's double gave Astor its first tally in the second and Bill Dean's timely single netted two markers and a 3-2 lead for the Cabbies in the 5th.

Gene Basilio of Reed's leaped over the bleachers to make a sensational catch. Porter of the Electricians and Bill Dean of the losers garnered two hits each.

Allan Sheetz notched victory No. 24 against three losses by pitching the Amvets to a 4-1 win over Astor Restaurant at Campobello. Al Martin and Sheetz with a double and single each paced the Amvets while Ronnie Cage rapped a double and single and Don Harden got two singles for the restaurant team.

North End took Ballard's Cleaners into camp behind the three-hit pitching of Glenn Coffman. Whitman with a triple and two singles and Fradiska with two singles paced the winners. Fuller, J. Fisher and G. Barb garnered Ballard's safeties.

Hardy, Foreman and Durbin hit for the circuit as Lacy's Delicatets trounced Joe's Crusaders by the score of 13-3. Durbin and Giles collected three hits each, one of the latter's blows being a triple. Yates belted a homer and single for the losers. Scores:

Reynolds, Feller Win As Yankees, Cleveland Split

Tribe Cops Opener, 8-1 And New York 2nd, 7-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees each lost ground to the front-running Boston Red Sox today as they divided a double header at the Yankee Stadium. The Indians, with Bob Feller spinning a splendid six-hitter, won the opener, 8-1. The Yankees bounced back to snatch the second game, 7-2, as Allie Reynolds staggered to his 14th triumph, although stung for 11 safeties.

The split, witnessed by a near-capacity crowd of 61,729 paying customers despite the pressing 96-degree heat, cost both clubs in the standings. The second place Indians lost half a game to the Red Sox, who triumphed over the White Sox in Boston, and now trail by a full game. The third place Yankees remain half game behind the Tribe, but are a game and half out of first place.

Feller Scores 13th

Although the Indians socked three Yankee flingers for a dozen hits including home runs by Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, it was Feller who stole the show in the opener. Breaking off a wicked curve ball that had the Yankees swinging futily most of the afternoon, and mixing it with a lightning fast ball reminiscent of the Feller of old, Bob permitted only six scattered hits in registering his 13th victory.

Yankee ace Vic Raschi, gunning for his 18th triumph and his fourth in a row over the Indians, kept pace with Feller for six innings. He allowed only one run, Keltner's 25th home run in the fourth. In the seventh, however, Larry Doby and Ed Robinson singled in succession, and when DiMaggio allowed Robinson's hit to skip through his legs, Doby scored. Dale Mitchell sent Robinson home with a single through the middle of the diamond.

Cleveland iced the game against Tommy Byrne, scoring two runs in the eighth and three in the ninth. Boudreau's 12th round tripper came in the final frame with a runner aboard.

The Yankees wasted little time in the second game, hopping on starter Steve Gromek for a run in the second inning. After Rizzuto got a lift on Keltner's bobble, Catcher Ralph Houk, recently recalled from Kansas City, sent him home with a double.

DiMaggio Hits 29th

The Yankees went ahead 4-0 in the fourth. After DiMaggio had poled his 29th home run and his 10th against Cleveland, deep into the left field stands, they chased Gromek with hits by Larry Berra, Johnny Lindell and Rizzuto. Ed Klieman, Russ Christopher and Satchel Paige finished up for the Indians. Paige retired three men in a row in the eighth. Box:

STOOPS' ELIMINATES ARISTOCRATS, 13 TO 3

FROSTBURG, Aug. 27—Scoring ten runs in the fourth inning, Stoops' Restaurant eliminated the Aristocrats from the Frostburg Softball League playoffs today by defeating the latter to the tune of 13-3 at State Teachers' College Field

The victory gave Stoops' team a sweep of two games and the right to play the winner of the Century A.C.-Peck's Cafe series for the league championship. Peck's and the C.A.C. will play the third and deciding game on Monday night. The title series will get under way on Tuesday.

Layman and "Lefty" Bruce led Stoops' attack with a double and single each while Dick Blank was holding the opposition to four blows. The score:

Queen City Plays Amvets In Final Of Series Sunday

Frostburg, Westvaco Game Set For Today

Two good attractions highlight the weekend schedule in the Bi-State Baseball League.

Today Frostburg and Westvaco conclude their season's series at Westernport and tomorrow the Amvets and Queen City Brewers clash at Community Park.

The race is so close at the present time that it is possible for Frostburg to gain undisputed possession of first place provided the Mountain City team wins over Westvaco today and takes Keyser into camp on Sunday while the Amvets are losing to Queen City.

Game Is Important

Tomorrow's game is important to Queen City because the Hyndman Firemen are right on the Brewers' heels in the batle for 4th place. A setback for Queen City and a win for Hyndman at Barton tomorrow would narrow the margin between the 4th and 5th place teams to a single game.

Queen City holds a 2-1 edge in the series with the Amvets. Charley Doyle's club won 19-11 and 9-0 by forfeit while the Amvets grabbed the other game 16-2.

Westvaco leads 2-1 in its series with Frostburg. The Papermakers won the first two games 7-4 and 5-3 but lost the third via the forfeit route, 9-0.

Today's game in Westernport is at 3 o'clock. Tomorrow's game here is at 2:30 as are the other Sunday Bi-State games — Hyndman at Barton, Midland at Westvaco, Frostburg at Keyser and Lonaconing at Mt. Savage.

Six games are on tap for Saturday and Sunday in the Interstate League.

Romney Battles Reds

Today the Cumberland Legion plays Barrelville at Community Park, Romney faces the Reds at Centerville, Pa., and Hyndman V.F.W. opposes the Cumberland Moose at Stitcher Field. All games will get under way at 4 p. m. A victory for Romney will tie the Rockets with the Pennsy team for third place.

Tomorrow Romney plays host to the Cumberland Eagles, Ridgeley invades Hyndman to play the V.F.W. and the Moose tossers play hosts to Barrelville at Stitcher Field. Starting time for these games is 3 p. m.

Parker, Schroeder Beat Aussie Doubles Team

LONGWOOD CRICKET CLUB, Brookline, Mass., Aug. 27 (INS)—Australia's Davis Cup hopes received a jolt today when their crack doubles combination of Geoff Brown and Colin Long were defeated in the semi-final round of the national doubles tournament by Frank Parker and Ted Schroeder.

The California tandem, second seeded domestic, eliminated the Australians, the top foreign seeded team, in straight sets, 15-13, 6-2, 6-3.

Parker and Schroeder will meet top seeded Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbert in the finals tomorrow.

There are many varieties of the game of checkers—Chinese, English, Polish, Spanish, Italian and Turkish. A similar game was played by the Egyptians as early as 1600 B. C., and a form of it was popular in ancient Greece.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

T XTF XTU PO TF TRXDBTPZO IKOH EDHSKVH PODFA TF OCTWH WSBK-FKZKAOB—RBUROF.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: ALL WRITING COMES BY THE GRACE OF GOD, AND ALL DOING AND HAVING—EMERSON.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dennis Day Back On Air Tonight; Boating At Detroit

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—You like speedboat racin'? The Detroit River is going to be full of it Saturday.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company has exclusive rights to the 41st annual Gold Cup Races today. Time: 5 to 5:30.

To date, 17 entries from half a dozen foreign countries have been received, including Guy Lombardo's "Tempo 6." Lombardo was licked last July by a boat named "Such Crust," and that speedy thing again will be racing today.

Other programs today and tonight:

NBC—6:30, the NBC summer symphony. Claude Frank, a 22-year-old virtuoso, makes his network debut as guest soloist in Schumann's "Concerto to a minor."

NBC—8:30, after a summer vacation Ralph Edwards returns with "Truth or Consequences."

MBS—8, "Twenty Questions": Comic Joe E. Brown joins the panel of regulars to play the "Animal, Vegetable, or Mineral" game of the air.

MBS—9, "Three For the Money": Vocalists Russ Emery and Mary Small in a full hour quiz with Mark Warnow's orchestra and Clayton Collyer.

MBS—10, Chicago Theater of the Air: This presents Miriam Stewart and Reinhold Schmidt in summer concert—also an informal talk by Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher.

CBS—7, Bernice Madekon, Albert Gifford, and Edwin Steffe with the St. Louis municipal opera series, present the best-loved songs from operettas and musical comedies.

CBS—7:30, Vic Damone sings "It Only Happens When I Dance With You," along with many other hits, on "Saturday Night Serenade." Some fine choral effects are promised.

CBS—9:30, Tom Howard (the duncemaster) starts a ruckus whenever he asks a question of the experts. "It Pays To Be Ignorant" is the show.

Note: Dennis Day returns to the air tonight (NBC) at 10, resuming "A Day In the Life of Dennis Day." Day says he's ready for a rugged winter in Mr. Willoughby's Weaverville drug store after a first class two month's vacation.

Dennis Day Back On Air Tonight; Boating At Detroit

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—You like speedboat racin'? The Detroit River is going to be full of it Saturday.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company has exclusive rights to the 41st annual Gold Cup Races today. Time: 5 to 5:30.

To date, 17 entries from half a dozen foreign countries have been received, including Guy Lombardo's "Tempo 6." Lombardo was licked last July by a boat named "Such Crust," and that speedy thing again will be racing today.

Other programs today and tonight:

NBC—6:30, the NBC summer symphony. Claude Frank, a 22-year-old virtuoso, makes his network debut as guest soloist in Schumann's "Concerto in a minor."

NBC—8:30, after a summer vacation Ralph Edwards returns with "Truth or Consequences."

MBS—8, "Twenty Questions": Comic Joe E. Brown joins the panel of regulars to play the "Animal, Vegetable, or Mineral" game of the air.

MBS—9, "Three For the Money": Vocalists Russ Emery and Mary Small in a full hour quiz with Mark Warnow's orchestra and Clayton Collyer.

MBS—10, Chicago Theater of the Air: This presents Miriam Stewart and Reinhold Schmidt in summer concert—also an informal talk by Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher.

CBS—7, Bernice Madekon, Albert Gifford, and Edwin Steffe with the St. Louis municipal opera series, present the best-loved songs from operettas and musical comedies.

CBS—7:30, Vic Damone sings "It Only Happens When I Dance With You," along with many other hits, on "Saturday Night Serenade." Some fine choral effects are promised.

CBS—9:30, Tom Howard (the duncemaster) starts a ruckus whenever he asks a question of the experts. "It Pays To Be Ignorant" is the show.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27—(INS)—Claudette Colbert's new comedy at Universal-International was previewed the other night and got a big hand, and that, more than anything else, decided her on making her next another comedy.

Jack Carson

Jack Skirball and Bruce Manning, for whom she will make this bit of nonsense, are calling this comedy "Love Is Big Business."

Armed with a good script, Skirball and Manning are now trying to borrow Ray Milland to co-star with Claudette.

•—•—•

Tanis Chandler can thank Arthur Lake for any break she gets. He gave her, an unknown girl, the lead in his picture, "16 Fathoms Deep"—and that picture, which was made at not too much cost, has really done an excellent business wherever it was shown.

•—•—•

Laraine Day was an unhappy girl when she blew out of Hollywood after finishing "My Dear Secretary" for Harry Popkin. She felt she had been picked on by Popkin and, at the same time, the press "popped off" about her temperament.

But just let Laraine be around her dream man, Leo Durocher, and everything's right with the world again. The next movie she does gives her a particular break and one that will make her happy.

She remains in New York to shoot exteriors on "House Of Cards," the Clarence Buddington Kelland story, which Marty Martin and Lester Cutler will produce. Marty is Laraine's agent, so there will be no tales about temperament this time.

Chatter in Hollywood: Lew Ayres is like the girl who is always a bridesmaid but never a bride. His name has been linked with so many different girls and he never marries any of them. His latest is Heather Welch, beautiful blonde actress from South Africa, who looks like a young Vilma Banky.

Incidentally, I understand Ayres' ranch is located in the oil belt and Standard Oil has already paid him for leases on his 400 acres near Camarillo.

Adela Rogers St. Johns and MGM have come to a friendly parting of the ways. Adela goes back to her fiction writing and her work with International News Service. She is first of all a great fiction writer and reporter, and that's what she'll enjoy doing.

She'll go to New York for some assignments she has for Good Housekeeing magazine, and, of course, she'll continue to write for Cosmopolitan.

Her parting from MGM was very amicable and there are no hard feelings on either side, which is the way business partings should be.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Orry-Kelly flies to Australia on Tuesday to visit his mother. He'll be gone only 19 days.

Harold Lloyd is planning to reissue his old comedies—and that would make a lot of people, who applauded Harold's nonsense in the old days, very happy.

It's all off between Helen Walker and Lucky Humberstone. Her latest dinner partner at the Fox and Hounds was Leo Fields, well known in Palm Springs circles.

Jack Carson's latest is, guess who? His estranged wife, Kay St. Germaine. Kay was refused a divorce several years ago because her testimony was insufficient to convince the judge she and Jack should be divorced.

Phyllis Calvert returns from England in ten days for her role in "Samson and Delilah," the C. B. De Mille movie.

Bob Neal is now squiring Mrs. Mervyn Leroy's daughter here and there. Apparently it is really all off between him and Diana Lynn.

Irene Dunne is donating the money she receives from playing "I Remember Mama" on the radio Monday to St. John Hospital.

Ann Sothern is having a housewarming at her new mansion on Thursday.

Ann Sheridan is taking her hairdresser, Martha Giddings, to England with her.

That's all today.

Franz Mesmer, physician and founder of the doctrine of animal magnetism or mesmerism, was at one time accepted by the medical profession in France and was very popular. Not being willing to share his secret methods, after investigation by scientists he fell into disrepute and retired to obscurity. He was born in 1733, died in 1815.

Adela Rogers St. Johns and MGM have come to a friendly parting of the ways. Adela goes back to her fiction writing and her work with International News Service. She is first of all a great fiction writer and reporter, and that's what she'll enjoy doing.

She'll go to New York for some assignments she has for Good Housekeeing magazine, and, of course, she'll continue to write for Cosmopolitan.

Her parting from MGM was very amicable and there are no hard feelings on either side, which is the way business partings should be.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Orry-Kelly flies to Australia on Tuesday to visit his mother. He'll be gone only 19 days.

Harold Lloyd is planning to reissue his old comedies—and that would make a lot of people, who applauded Harold's nonsense in the old days, very happy.

It's all off between Helen Walker and Lucky Humberstone. Her latest dinner partner at the Fox and Hounds was Leo Fields, well known in Palm Springs circles.

Jack Carson's latest is, guess who? His estranged wife, Kay St. Germaine. Kay was refused a divorce several years ago because her testimony was insufficient to convince the judge she and Jack should be divorced.

Phyllis Calvert returns from England in ten days for her role in "Samson and Delilah," the C. B. De Mille movie.

Bob Neal is now squiring Mrs. Mervyn Leroy's daughter here and there. Apparently it is really all off between him and Diana Lynn.

Irene Dunne is donating the money she receives from playing "I Remember Mama" on the radio Monday to St. John Hospital.

Ann Sothern is having a housewarming at her new mansion on Thursday.

Ann Sheridan is taking her hairdresser, Martha Giddings, to England with her.

That's all today.

Franz Mesmer, physician and founder of the doctrine of animal magnetism or mesmerism, was at one time accepted by the medical profession in France and was very popular. Not being willing to share his secret methods, after investigation by scientists he fell into disrepute and retired to obscurity. He was born in 1733, died in 1815.

NEWS FROM THE TRI-STATE AREA

KEYSER

Moundsville Is Selected As Site Of Next Conclave By W. Va. Firemen

Sen. Ralph Bean Elected President

KEYSER, W. Va.—The election of officers for the coming year and a speech by Emmett T. Cox, field officer, Western Actuarial Bureau, Chicago, highlighted the activities of the second day of the 20th annual West Virginia State Firemen's Association convention here.

Choosing Moundsville as the site for next year's convention, the 73 delegates of the state organization unanimously elected State Senator Ralph Bean of Moorefield, as president. Due to impending business, Senator Bean was not present at the conclave when ballots were cast.

Other officers chosen were:

William Miller, Keyser, first vice president; A. F. Harrison, Martinsburg, second vice president, incumbent; W. R. Gallagher, McMechen, third vice president, incumbent; Charles Miller, Elkins, secretary, incumbent; K. D. Johnson, Charles Town, treasurer, incumbent; M. H. Martin, Ft. Ashby, chaplain, incumbent; J. H. Simmons, Ridgeley, attorney, incumbent; and Mike Murry, White Sulphur Springs, sergeant at arms.

Both Senator Bean and William Miller, president and first vice president respectively, were elected to the same posts in the Potomac Valley Firemen's Association at a meeting in Romney last Saturday.

Tells What It Takes

Centering his talk on "What It Takes to Make a Good Fire Department," Cox, after being introduced to the group by E. Wade Thomas, chief of the Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company, told the firemen that every man should have a reason for everything he does and for all things that are done.

The bureau representative brought down the house when he said, "Every one of you here at this convention will have a reason for telling your wife what you are going to tell her when you return home after this meeting."

Stressing the importance of firemen and their companies, Cox explained that in every business venture the final burden is dropped on the shoulders of the fire fighters. In exemplifying this point, Cox cited the possibility that a company felt it was not being treated justly and therefore decided to take a month's vacation from fighting fires in their city. He declared that immediately nearly every fire insurance premium in the town would be cancelled, and business and home owners would suffer from a loss of value to their properties and ventures.

Four Reasons For Action

Cox cited four reasons why man does the things he does. First, "personal satisfaction, in which we have consideration for others;" second, "economical gains," at which time he pointed out that too many people consider only themselves in their actions; third, "military command, or doing only what we are told to do;" and lastly, "the welfare of our fellow men," at which time he pointed out that "to be a fireman, you must be a friend."

"Leadership, training, and organization," Cox said, "are the three things that make a fireman."

Dwelling on the first point, leadership, Cox told his audience that to be leaders, they must gain the respect of their fellow men and the public. "The attainment of this leadership has quite a few hazards," Cox explained, enumerating some of them as "fear, power, instability, and disappointment."

The representative, in defining disappointment, told the delegates of the common cases where fire companies were in dire need of material improvements to their organizations, but were rebuffed by city officials in every attempt to obtain these needed improvements leading to discouragement and disappointment.

In continuing his explanation, Cox cited the example of the pike (fish) he had seen in a glass container. He said that when the pike was thrown some minnows, he greedily ate every one of them. Then, a glass plate was placed in the container, dividing the glass box into two equal halves, and again minnows were thrown in the water, but this time on the opposite side of the separating plate glass. He said that the pike made 12 attempts to get the minnows, but each time he got his nose soundly bumped on the partition. At that point the pike moved over to the corner of the contained, and when the partition was removed, the fish completely ignored the minnows and starved to death because he had been disappointed so many times before.

Concluding his talk, Cox recited a poem in which he also stressed the importance of being active in organization activities, and he asked the delegates if they were "active members or are your names just on the roll."

Amend Constitution

Under the heading of a Special Order of Business, the convention unanimously agreed on an amendment to be entered in the constitution concerning the reinstatement of members of the association.

It was decided that any delinquent members under 50 years of age could be reinstated if they paid their dues in arrears and presented a certified statement to the association, signed by themselves and the membership committee, that they were in good standing and in good physical health. The same rule applies to men 50 or older who have let their membership lapse, except that reinstatement must be within three years of the lapsing of membership.

Bingo Idea Dropped

Lively discussion was touched off when a motion was made to draft an ordinance to be presented to the State Legislature requesting the legalizing of bingo for churches and fire departments as sources of revenue. Following considerable oratory, it was decided to drop the idea and devote all the energy possible in getting the Firemen's Aid Bill passed at the January meeting of the State Legislature.

During the morning session, delegates approved a year-round fire prevention program to be instituted with the state fire marshal's office and the various municipalities.

The resolution was made after the session noted the $700,000,000 property damage in the United States by fire together with the loss of nearly 10,000 lives.

The election and installation of officers wound up the business sessions of the convention, and events scheduled today are highlighted by the mammoth parade at 2 p. m. Prizes will be awarded at 4:30 and a baseball game at Newcome Field is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Entertainment last night included round and square dancing on the street.

Miss Phyllis Harvey Becomes Bride Of Cadet Cecil Gordon

PARSONS, W. Va. — Simplicity marked the double ring service read in the First Presbyterian Church, Parsons, last Sunday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Phyllis Harvey, Hendricks, to Cadet Cecil Owens Gordon, Parsons.

Rev. Harold D. Shiflet, pastor of the church, read the service before an altar decorated with floor baskets of vari-colored gladioli and in the presence of the immediate families and several close friends of the couple.

Mrs. Winona Dumire Coberly, close friend of the bride, presented a program of nuptial music during the seating of the guests and accompanied J. Kenton Lambert who sang "Because." She also played "I Love You Truly" throughout the ceremony and accompanied Mr. Lambert as he sang that song at the conclusion of the service.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. For her wedding the bride wore a gown of candellight satin featuring a basque waist, a sweetheart neckline with an inset of silk pointed lace. The full shirred sleeves tapered to tight fitting and ended in points of silk lace at the hands. The full gathered skirt edged in lace ended in a long circular train. Her finger tip veil of bridal illusion fell from a white satin cloque and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses from which fell a cascade of white satin streamers tied with matching rosebuds. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. J. R. Mateer, Charleston, Mrs. John Syrian, Parsons, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. R. Vincent Lennen, Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, and Mrs. W. L. Martin, Louisville, Ky., cousin of the bride. Mrs. Mateer and Mrs. Syrian wore gowns of pink organdy embroidery and Mrs. Lennen and Mrs. Martin wore gowns of blue organdy embroidery, which were fashioned with dropped shoulder necklines styled with wide pleated ruffles. Research In Frost Family History Recalls 1912 Frostburg Centennial

Event Described In Mining Journal

FROSTBURG — The fact that during August 25 to 31, 1912, Frostburg was observing its 100th anniversary with a centennial and home-coming celebration, is recalled here by reason of a visit paid Frostburg last week by a member of the Frost family from the Middle West, searching for data relating to the history of the family.

According to an editorial in the Frostburg Mining Journal written by the late J. B. Order, the celebration 36 years ago exceeded in beauty and impressiveness any event of its kind ever held in Western Maryland. In a news item describing the street parades, the Journal stated that the great event of the week was the historic and civic parade, with its stage coaches, Conestoga wagon, mock British and Continental soldiers and other features.

In referring to the appearance of the Frost family in the line of march, the Journal stated that the 27th display of the historic parade was:

"Several carriages carrying descendants of the Frost family, now scattered and hailing from Shades Mills, Grantsville and Cumberland, this state; Uniontown and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Huntington and Clarksburg, W. Va.; Portland, Oregon and Kansas City, Mo., 20 in all. This was a number of the parade that was welcomed warmly all along the line."

Describing the float of the Consolidation Coal Company, the Journal reported that "the company had 16 stalwart horses pulling a mine car loaded with four tons of world famous big vein coal. The same number of miners, typical of that heroic class, marched alongside the horses, all commanded by Louis Race, farm foreman. This was a telling display of industrial force and result."

Frostburg's centennial and homecoming was arranged by an executive committee consisting of 17 members, Peter Lammert, chairman; James H. Fuller, vice chairman; W. E. G. Hitchins, treasurer, and Rudolph Nickel, secretary; Dr. Timothy Griffith, J. Harry Hanson, George Stern, J. H. Hitchins, John J. Price, H. G. Evans, Thomas G. Dillon, Ulysses Hanna, Prof. Richard Harris, Mrs. Patrick O'Rourke, Mrs. Adolph Frey, Walter W. Wittig and George G. Townsend. The only survivors of the committee are J. Harry Hanson and Rudolph Nickel, Frostburg, and Mrs. Adolph Frey, New York City.

Only survivors of the finance committee of nine members are G. Dud Hocking and James P. Kenney. Nine of the ten members of the reception committee are deceased, the lone survivor being J. William Shea. Survivors of the transportation committee of 10 members are A. E. Reppert, Frostburg, and Edward L. Betz, Kansas City, Mo.

The parade and pageant committee, which was assisted by the late Mrs. Bevery S. Randolph, a native of Virginia, in securing a stage coach and a Conestoga wagon, consisted of nine members. The only survivors are George G. Jeffries, Emery G. Hitchins and Milton W. Race. Seven of the 10 members of the decorations committee are deceased. Clifton Geis, Charles Leatham, Pittsburgh, and F. H. Schreiber, Tidioute, Pa., are living.

Two members of the committee which handled publicity in connection with the celebration are Fred Dillon, Frostburg, and Louis A. Tuvin, New York City.

One of the outstanding committees of the celebration was a group of 10 in charge of the historic exhibits at Beall High School. The survivors of this group are S. Graff Haverstick, Scottdale, Pa.; Paul L. Hitchins, of Pennsylvania, and Prof. L. Leslie Lammert of Philadelphia. E. B. Prichard is the only living member of the public comfort and safety committee and all members of the amusement committee, excepting Roland A. Lammert and E. Irving Prichard, are dead.

Music for the celebration was in charge of a committee of 10 men. Of this group only G. Dud Hocking, Frostburg and Clyde H. Reppert, Arthurdale, W. Va., survive.

Frostburg women listed in the records as members of the centennial committees were Mesdames Sarah Preston, William A. Kear, Lillie Price, Mary Kight, Amy Kalbaugh, Bertha Kreiling, M. Rose, Clara Pratton, George W. Kear, Alex McLuckie, Martha Parker, William Capel, A. R. Walker, H. G. Evans, Ella F. Moundsville Is Selected As Site Of Next Conclave By W. Va. Firemen

Sen. Ralph Bean Elected President

KEYSER, W. Va.—The election of officers for the coming year and a speech by Emmett T. Cox, field officer, Western Actuarial Bureau, Chicago, highlighted the activities of the second day of the 20th annual West Virginia State Firemen's Association convention here.

Choosing Moundsville as the site for next year's convention, the 73 delegates of the state organization unanimously elected State Senator Ralph Bean of Moorefield, as president. Due to impending business, Senator Bean was not present at the conclave when ballots were cast.

Other officers chosen were:

William Miller, Keyser, first vice president; A. F. Harrison, Martinsburg, second vice president, incumbent; W. R. Gallagher, McMechen, third vice president, incumbent; Charles Miller, Elkins, secretary, incumbent; K. D. Johnson, Charles Town, treasurer, incumbent; M. H. Martin, Ft. Ashby, chaplain, incumbent; J. H. Simmons, Ridgeley, attorney, incumbent; and Mike Murry, White Sulphur Springs, sergeant at arms.

Both Senator Bean and William Miller, president and first vice president respectively, were elected to the same posts in the Potomac Valley Firemen's Association at a meeting in Romney last Saturday.

Tells What It Takes

Centering his talk on "What It Takes to Make a Good Fire Department," Cox, after being introduced to the group by E. Wade Thomas, chief of the Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company, told the firemen that every man should have a reason for everything he does and for all things that are done.

The bureau representative brought down the house when he said, "Every one of you here at this convention will have a reason for telling your wife what you are going to tell her when you return home after this meeting."

Stressing the importance of firemen and their companies, Cox explained that in every business venture the final burden is dropped on the shoulders of the fire fighters. In exemplifying this point, Cox cited the possibility that a company felt it was not being treated justly and therefore decided to take a month's vacation from fighting fires in their city. He declared that immediately nearly every fire insurance premium in the town would be cancelled, and business and home owners would suffer from a loss of value to their properties and ventures.

Four Reasons For Action

Cox cited four reasons why man does the things he does. First, "personal satisfaction, in which we have consideration for others;" second, "economical gains," at which time he pointed out that too many people consider only themselves in their actions; third, "military command, or doing only what we are told to do;" and lastly, "the welfare of our fellow men," at which time he pointed out that "to be a fireman, you must be a friend."

"Leadership, training, and organization," Cox said, "are the three things that make a fireman."

Dwelling on the first point, leadership, Cox told his audience that to be leaders, they must gain the respect of their fellow men and the public. "The attainment of this leadership has quite a few hazards," Cox explained, enumerating some of them as "fear, power, instability, and disappointment."

The representative, in defining disappointment, told the delegates of the common cases where fire companies were in dire need of material improvements to their organizations, but were rebuffed by city officials in every attempt to obtain these needed improvements leading to discouragement and disappointment.

In continuing his explanation, Cox cited the example of the pike (fish) he had seen in a glass container. He said that when the pike was thrown some minnows, he greedily ate every one of them. Then, a glass plate was placed in the container, dividing the glass box into two equal halves, and again minnows were thrown in the water, but this time on the opposite side of the separating plate glass. He said that the pike made 12 attempts to get the minnows, but each time he got his nose soundly bumped on the partition. At that point the pike moved over to the corner of the contained, and when the partition was removed, the fish completely ignored the minnows and starved to death because he had been disappointed so many times before.

Concluding his talk, Cox recited a poem in which he also stressed the importance of being active in organization activities, and he asked the delegates if they were "active members or are your names just on the roll."

Amend Constitution

Under the heading of a Special Order of Business, the convention unanimously agreed on an amendment to be entered in the constitution concerning the reinstatement of members of the association.

It was decided that any delinquent members under 50 years of age could be reinstated if they paid their dues in arrears and presented a certified statement to the association, signed by themselves and the membership committee, that they were in good standing and in good physical health. The same rule applies to men 50 or older who have let their membership lapse, except that reinstatement must be within three years of the lapsing of membership.

Bingo Idea Dropped

Lively discussion was touched off when a motion was made to draft an ordinance to be presented to the State Legislature requesting the legalizing of bingo for churches and fire departments as sources of revenue. Following considerable oratory, it was decided to drop the idea and devote all the energy possible in getting the Firemen's Aid Bill passed at the January meeting of the State Legislature.

During the morning session, delegates approved a year-round fire prevention program to be instituted with the state fire marshal's office and the various municipalities.

The resolution was made after the session noted the $700,000,000 property damage in the United States by fire together with the loss of nearly 10,000 lives.

The election and installation of officers wound up the business sessions of the convention, and events scheduled today are highlighted by the mammoth parade at 2 p. m. Prizes will be awarded at 4:30 and a baseball game at Newcome Field is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Entertainment last night included round and square dancing on the street.

Miss Phyllis Harvey Becomes Bride Of Cadet Cecil Gordon

PARSONS, W. Va. — Simplicity marked the double ring service read in the First Presbyterian Church, Parsons, last Sunday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Phyllis Harvey, Hendricks, to Cadet Cecil Owens Gordon, Parsons.

Rev. Harold D. Shiflet, pastor of the church, read the service before an altar decorated with floor baskets of vari-colored gladioli and in the presence of the immediate families and several close friends of the couple.

Mrs. Winona Dumire Coberly, close friend of the bride, presented a program of nuptial music during the seating of the guests and accompanied J. Kenton Lambert who sang "Because." She also played "I Love You Truly" throughout the ceremony and accompanied Mr. Lambert as he sang that song at the conclusion of the service.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. For her wedding the bride wore a gown of candellight satin featuring a basque waist, a sweetheart neckline with an inset of silk pointed lace. The full shirred sleeves tapered to tight fitting and ended in points of silk lace at the hands. The full gathered skirt edged in lace ended in a long circular train. Her finger tip veil of bridal illusion fell from a white satin cloque and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses from which fell a cascade of white satin streamers tied with matching rosebuds. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. J. R. Mateer, Charleston, Mrs. John Syrian, Parsons, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. R. Vincent Lennen, Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, and Mrs. W. L. Martin, Louisville, Ky., cousin of the bride. Mrs. Mateer and Mrs. Syrian wore gowns of pink organdy embroidery and Mrs. Lennen and Mrs. Martin wore gowns of blue organdy embroidery, which were fashioned with dropped shoulder necklines styled with wide pleated ruffles. The gowns had fitted bodices and full skirts over taffetta. They wore large picture hats with open crowns and elbow length mitts to match their gowns and carried old fashioned nosegays of pink roses and asters.

Cecil Ford, Parkersburg, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Blair Gordon, Parsons, and Kenneth Gordon, Philippi, brothers of the bridegroom.

Research In Frost Family History Recalls 1912 Frostburg Centennial

Event Described In Mining Journal

FROSTBURG — The fact that during August 25 to 31, 1912, Frostburg was observing its 100th anniversary with a centennial and home-coming celebration, is recalled here by reason of a visit paid Frostburg last week by a member of the Frost family from the Middle West, searching for data relating to the history of the family.

According to an editorial in the Frostburg Mining Journal written by the late J. B. Order, the celebration 36 years ago exceeded in beauty and impressiveness any event of its kind ever held in Western Maryland. In a news item describing the street parades, the Journal stated that the great event of the week was the historic and civic parade, with its stage coaches, Conestoga wagon, mock British and Continental soldiers and other features.

In referring to the appearance of the Frost family in the line of march, the Journal stated that the 27th display of the historic parade was:

"Several carriages carrying descendants of the Frost family, now scattered and hailing from Shades Mills, Grantsville and Cumberland, this state; Uniontown and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Huntington and Clarksburg, W. Va.; Portland, Oregon and Kansas City, Mo., 20 in all. This was a number of the parade that was welcomed warmly all along the line."

Describing the float of the Consolidation Coal Company, the Journal reported that "the company had 16 stalwart horses pulling a mine car loaded with four tons of world famous big vein coal. The same number of miners, typical of that heroic class, marched alongside the horses, all commanded by Louis Race, farm foreman. This was a telling display of industrial force and result."

Frostburg's centennial and homecoming was arranged by an executive committee consisting of 17 members, Peter Lammert, chairman; James H. Fuller, vice chairman; W. E. G. Hitchins, treasurer, and Rudolph Nickel, secretary; Dr. Timothy Griffith, J. Harry Hanson, George Stern, J. H. Hitchins, John J. Price, H. G. Evans, Thomas G. Dillon, Ulysses Hanna, Prof. Richard Harris, Mrs. Patrick O'Rourke, Mrs. Adolph Frey, Walter W. Wittig and George G. Townsend. The only survivors of the committee are J. Harry Hanson and Rudolph Nickel, Frostburg, and Mrs. Adolph Frey, New York City.

Only survivors of the finance committee of nine members are G. Dud Hocking and James P. Kenney. Nine of the ten members of the reception committee are deceased, the lone survivor being J. William Shea. Survivors of the transportation committee of 10 members are A. E. Reppert, Frostburg, and Edward L. Betz, Kansas City, Mo.

The parade and pageant committee, which was assisted by the late Mrs. Bevery S. Randolph, a native of Virginia, in securing a stage coach and a Conestoga wagon, consisted of nine members. The only survivors are George G. Jeffries, Emery G. Hitchins and Milton W. Race. Seven of the 10 members of the decorations committee are deceased. Clifton Geis, Charles Leatham, Pittsburgh, and F. H. Schreiber, Tidioute, Pa., are living.

Two members of the committee which handled publicity in connection with the celebration are Fred Dillon, Frostburg, and Louis A. Tuvin, New York City.

One of the outstanding committees of the celebration was a group of 10 in charge of the historic exhibits at Beall High School. The survivors of this group are S. Graff Haverstick, Scottdale, Pa.; Paul L. Hitchins, of Pennsylvania, and Prof. L. Leslie Lammert of Philadelphia. E. B. Prichard is the only living member of the public comfort and safety committee and all members of the amusement committee, excepting Roland A. Lammert and E. Irving Prichard, are dead.

Music for the celebration was in charge of a committee of 10 men. Of this group only G. Dud Hocking, Frostburg and Clyde H. Reppert, Arthurdale, W. Va., survive.

Frostburg women listed in the records as members of the centennial committees were Mesdames Sarah Preston, William A. Kear, Lillie Price, Mary Kight, Amy Kalbaugh, Bertha Krelling, M. Rose, Clara Pratton, George W. Kear, Alex McLuckie, Martha Parker, William Capel, A. R. Walker, H. G. Evans, Ella F. Lewyn C. Davis Gets New Post In Public Schools

Revision of the entire elementary school supervision program in Allegany county was indicated Friday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, when he announced that Lewyn C. Davis, 828 Greene Street, has resigned as principal of Central High School, Lonaconing, to become administrative and supervisory assistant of the Board of Education office.

Kopp also announced that Raymond C. McCullough, Jr., will become principal at Central High. McCullough has been teaching at Allegany High here.

Davis will take over many of the duties of Miss Ruby M. Adams, who resigned earlier this month as director of elementary education, although specifically the position Miss Adams held no longer exists, Kopp explained.

Elementary school principals will be freed of teaching duties this year and will have more time to supervise the activities in their schools. Personnel of the Board of Education office, therefore, will need only to direct school activities.

Davis received his B. A. degree at the University of Richmond in 1926 and his master's degree at Columbia University in 1930. He also did graduate work at Penn State and George Washington University.

His career as a teacher started in the old Greene Street Junior High School where he taught four years before transferring to Allegany High School where he served 11 years, the last three as assistant principal. In 1941 he was named acting principal of Bruce High School, Westernport, and was appointed principal of Central in 1945.

This summer Davis taught in the Education Department of Western State College, Gunnison, Colorado.

The new Central principal, McCullough, has headed the mathematic department at Allegany High the past two years.

A native of Friendsville, McCullough was graduated from Washington College, Chestertown, with a B. S. degree. He did graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, University of Maryland, University of Wisconsin and Duke University where he received his master of arts degree.

McCullough entered the Army in 1942 and served three years in the Pacific with an engineer intelligence group. While stationed at Oahu, Hawaii, he developed a new type of map used by the Army to reduce navigational hazards and to simplify problems of logistics in northern latitudes.

He also landed with assault troops on Iwo Jima and made the first ground survey of that island ever available outside of Japan.

Police Arrest 13 Drivers

A Flintstone driver was fined and 12 other motorists forfeited bonds totaling $75.95 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on state motor law violation charges.

Alvin E. Rizer, Flintstone, paid $2.75 after he pleaded guilty to failing to halt at a stop sign on Route 40 at Six Mile House on August 7.

Forfeiting $6.45 each on the same charge were Eugene B. Moser, 64 Pershing Street, and Charles W. Elza, Ridgeley.

Ramon C. Hartman, Route 13, Baltimore, forfeited $11.45 on a charge of exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 40 August 6, and Charles W. Rayner, Midland, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of exceeding 30 on Route 220 at Cresaptown August 9.

Ray Lee Kesner, Wiley Ford, W. Va., forfeited $6.45 on a charge of driving without a license, and the same amount on a charge of displaying plates issued to another machine. He was arrested last Saturday on Route 40.

Charged with reckless driving August 8 on Route 40, two miles east of Cumberland, were Clark A. Morgan, 216 Union Street, and Earle C. Nield, Oldtown. They forfeited $6.45 each.

John D. Brady, Frostburg, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to obey a stop sign at Routes 40 and 53, August 9 and Francis L. Charlton, Boulevard Hotel, forfeited $6.45 on a similar charge at Cresaptown, August 13.

Also accused of neglecting to observe a stop sign on Route 51 August 17 was Arthur L. Beal, Mt. Savage, who forfeited $6.45.

Charles Gurley, 887 Ridgedale Avenue, was found not guilty of passing on a curve at Long on August 12.

State Trooper William O. McElfish apprehended Kesner and Gurley. The others were taken into custody by Trooper G. M. Rotruck.

Two Are Granted Citizenship Here

Two persons were admitted to citizenship in the United States yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court upon recommendation of J. Calvin Yeatter, naturalization examiner for the U.S. Department of Justice.

They are Mrs. Mary Katsanis, wife of George Katsanis, 105 East Main Street, Frostburg, and John Philip Loud, Braddock Road. She is a native of Greece and Loud is a native of Great Britain.

Loud, who was born in Birmingham, England, is a chemist at the Celanese Corporation of America plant here. They took the oath of citizenship before Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

It was the final naturalization hearing before Judge Huster as he retires from the bench September 12.

Crime Alarms Austria

VIENNA (AP) — Official statistics published here state that 58 persons were kidnapped in Vienna during 1947. In the majority of the cases, according to Austrian police, the missing persons were carried off by men in Russian uniforms. They included high government officials, industrial experts and members of the former royal family. The report states that notwithstanding intensive investigations nothing more was heard of the kidnapped persons.

The statistics also show an alarming increase in murder and robbery cases within Austria. During the first nine months of 1947, 364 murders and attempted murders were reported compared with 62 cases during 1937. Foreigners were involved in 75 per cent of all cases. They included displaced persons and members of the four occupying powers.

During the same time 618 cases of robbery were reported against 57 during 1937. Austrian police may arrest American or British soldiers, but have no authority over Russian or French personnel.

Lewyn C. Davis Gets New Post In Public Schools

Revision of the entire elementary school supervision program in Allegany county was indicated Friday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, when he announced that Lewyn C. Davis, 828 Greene Street, has resigned as principal of Central High School, Lonaconing, to become administrative and supervisory assistant of the Board of Education office.

Kopp also announced that Raymond C. McCullough, Jr., will become principal at Central High. McCullough has been teaching at Allegany High here.

Davis will take over many of the duties of Miss Ruby M. Adams, who resigned earlier this month as director of elementary education, although specifically the position Miss Adams held no longer exists, Kopp explained.

Elementary school principals will be freed of teaching duties this year and will have more time to supervise the activities in their schools. Personnel of the Board of Education office, therefore, will need only to direct school activities.

Davis received his B. A. degree at the University of Richmond in 1926 and his master's degree at Columbia University in 1930. He also did graduate work at Penn State and George Washington University.

His career as a teacher started in the old Greene Street Junior High School where he taught four years before transferring to Allegany High School where he served 11 years, the last three as assistant principal. In 1941 he was named acting principal of Bruce High School, Westernport, and was appointed principal of Central in 1945.

This summer Davis taught in the Education Department of Western State College, Gunnison, Colorado.

The new Central principal, McCullough, has headed the mathematic department at Allegany High the past two years.

A native of Friendsville, McCullough was graduated from Washington College, Chestertown, with a B. S. degree. He did graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, University of Maryland, University of Wisconsin and Duke University where he received his master of arts degree.

McCullough entered the Army in 1942 and served three years in the Pacific with an engineer intelligence group. While stationed at Oahu, Hawaii, he developed a new type of map used by the Army to reduce navigational hazards and to simplify problems of logistics in northern latitudes.

He also landed with assault troops on Iwo Jima and made the first ground survey of that island ever available outside of Japan.

Ray Lee Kesner, Wiley Ford, W. Va., forfeited $6.45 on a charge of driving without a license, and the same amount on a charge of displaying plates issued to another machine. He was arrested last Saturday on Route 40.

Charged with reckless driving August 8 on Route 40, two miles east of Cumberland, were Clark A. Morgan, 216 Union Street, and Earle C. Nield, Oldtown. They forfeited $6.45 each.

John D. Brady, Frostburg, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to obey a stop sign at Routes 40 and 53, August 9 and Francis L. Charlton, Boulevard Hotel, forfeited $6.45 on a similar charge at Cresaptown, August 13.

Also accused of neglecting to observe a stop sign on Route 51 August 17 was Arthur L. Beal, Mt. Savage, who forfeited $6.45.

Charles Gurley, 887 Ridgedale Avenue, was found not guilty of passing on a curve at Long on August 12.

State Trooper William O. McElfish apprehended Kesner and Gurley. The others were taken into custody by Trooper G. M. Rotruck.

Crime Alarms Austria

VIENNA (AP) — Official statistics published here state that 58 persons were kidnapped in Vienna during 1947. In the majority of the cases, according to Austrian police, the missing persons were carried off by men in Russian uniforms. They included high government officials, industrial experts and members of the former royal family. The report states that notwithstanding intensive investigations nothing more was heard of the kidnapped persons.

The statistics also show an alarming increase in murder and robbery cases within Austria. During the first nine months of 1947, 364 murders and attempted murders were reported compared with 62 cases during 1937. Foreigners were involved in 75 per cent of all cases. They included displaced persons and members of the four occupying powers.

During the same time 618 cases of robbery were reported against 57 during 1937. Austrian police may arrest American or British soldiers, but have no authority over Russian or French personnel.

Leading Stocks Advance Up To 3 Points In Slow Market Deals

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Leading stocks advanced fractions to nearly 3 points today in one of the slowest markets in several years.

The market was the narrowest since June 1947, with just 642 issues sold. Of these 433 advanced and 189 declined.

Higher prices were paid for Santa Fe, which closed at 116, N. Y.

Airline issues were almost uniformly higher. The Civil Aeronautics Board and representatives of the Air Transportation Companies have been conferring on the financial problems of the industry.

Newport Industries, one of the few losers, slipped again to a new low for the year at 17. The directors cut the dividend earlier this week. Also lower were Republic Pictures preferred (after directors passed a dividend), General Motors, and Cerro De Pasco.

Gains running to around a point were posted in the curb for Cities Service, International Petroleum, Niagara Hudson Power, Babcock & Wilcox and Pancoastal Oil. Muter Co., a radio parts manufacturer which made its debut on the curb earlier this week, added ⅞ of a point.

The bond market finished its quietest week in 31 years with a moderate upturn for favored railroad liens.

Sales for the day were the lightest of the week at $2,032,000, which compared with $2,240,000 Thursday. The week's total of $11,525,000 was the smallest since the period ending Aug. 11, 1917.

Principal activity centered on railroad issues achieving gains of fractions to more than a point. New Haven incomes relinquished the leadership in volume to the Lehigh Valley stamped Rs of 2003, which rose a point to 39¼. The Lehigh has a voluntary debt adjustment plan before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Other corporate gainers included Baltimore & Ohio 'G' 5s at 66¾, New York Central Consolidation 4s at 65¼, Texas & New Orleans 3⅜s at 91, Mead Corp. 3s at 102¼ and Chicago & Eastern Illinois incomes at 50½. Drops of a point or more were encountered by Gulf States Utilities 2⅝s, Cleveland Electric Illuminating 3s of '70, Hudson & Manhattan Refunding 4s, and Reading 3¼s.

U. S. governments were quiet and fairly steady in over-the-counter dealings. World bank 3s on the exchange were up 6-32 at 97 12-32. In the foreign dollar list antioquia 7s advanced.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Traders in grain futures ignored strength in cash corn today and prices of grain for future delivery mostly ended lower. In new crop corn contracts, losses were fairly large as early firmness failed to hold. Wheat gave a better account of itself than other cereals.

Residents Ask County To Make Road Repairs

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a number of requests for road repairs.

A petition signed by 17 residents of the Grabenstein Road, about 500 feet south of the Winchester Bridge, asked that the one and one-half mile roadway be oiled and graded.

Frank Cuthbertson and Milton Todd asked permission to install a drainage pipe beneath Beechwood Street in Moscow, and also asked that the county repair the thoroughfare.

Mike Chucci and Michael DeChester asked that a road which intersects the McCoole Road be repaired. They said water from the county road and highway runs onto their highway and makes the route hazardous. They also asked that a new entrance to the roadway be made as the vision from the present road when driving onto the main highway is obscured by trees and scrub growth.

The board told the men that the county road building and repair program has been delayed by recent heavy rains to the extent that work is about six weeks behind schedule.

Chipping and oiling of several roads has been completed, and the number of others to be repaired within the next few weeks depends on weather conditions.

A contract was signed by the board this morning with the accounting firm of Berman, Goldman and Levin and Company, of Baltimore, to audit the books and accounts of the Allegany County Board of Education for the years 1946-47 and 1947-48 at a cost of $2,800. The work will begin Monday morning. John W. Rollins, Jr., is resident agent for the accounting firm.

Sgt. Nine Awarded Bronze Star Medal

Staff Sgt. Kenneth C. Nine, husband of Mrs. Alice Nine, 317 Maryland Ave., Westernport, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal Wednesday for action against the enemy while leading a Combat patrol in France.

This is the second award of this kind that he has received. He is also the holder of the Purple Heart with two Oak leaf Clusters for wounds received while serving with the 35th Infantry Division in Europe, Combat Infantry Badge and several other medals.

Sgt. Nine, who has over eight years service to his credit, saw action also in the Pacific and was station in Hawaii when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. After receiving his discharge in 1945, he worked at the Celanese plant until he re-enlisted in 1947.

Western Maryland Net Income Rises Sharply

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway yesterday reported net income of $533,160 in July, almost three times as much as the figure for July of 1947.

For the first seven months of 1948, net income was $3,313,887, as compared with $2,837,632 for the same period of 1947.

The road said the improvement in its income position was due to freight rate increases and a reduction in the amount of unemployment compensation taxes it pays.

Leading Stocks Advance Up To 3 Points In Slow Market Deals

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Leading stocks advanced fractions to nearly 3 points today in one of the slowest markets in several years.

Only 540,000 shares of stock changed hands, equal to Thursday's sleepy session. Many traders didn't show up at all and others, after a second glance at the thermometer, took off early.

The market was the narrowest since June 1947, with just 842 issues sold. Of these 433 advanced and 189 declined.

Higher prices were paid for Santa Fe, which closed at 118, N. Y.

Airline issues were almost uniformly higher. The Civil Aeronautics Board and representatives of the Air Transportation Companies have been conferring on the financial problems of the industry.

Newport Industries, one of the few losers, slipped again to a new low for the year at 17. The directors cut the dividend earlier this week. Also lower were Republic Pictures preferred (after directors passed a dividend), General Motors, and Cerro De Pasco.

Gains running to around a point were posted in the curb for Cities Service, International Petroleum, Niagara Hudson Power, Babcock & Wilcox and Pancoastal Oil. Muter Co., a radio parts manufacturer which made its debut on the curb earlier this week, added ⅞ of a point.

The bond market finished its quietest week in 31 years with a moderate upturn for favored railroad liens.

Sales for the day were the lightest of the week at $2,032,000, which compared with $2,240,600 Thursday. The week's total of $11,525,000 was the smallest since the period ending Aug. 11, 1917.

Principal activity centered on railroad issues achieving gains of fractions to more than a point. New Haven incomes relinquished the leadership in volume to the Lehigh Valley stamped Rs of 2003, which rose a point to 39¼. The Lehigh has a voluntary debt adjustment plan before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Other corporate gainers included Baltimore & Ohio 'G' 5s at 66¾, New York Central Consolidation 4s at 65¼, Texas & New Orleans 3⅜s at 91, Mead Corp. 3s at 102¼ and Chicago & Eastern Illinois incomes at 50½. Drops of a point or more were encountered by Gulf States Utilities 2⅝s, Cleveland Electric Illuminating 3s of '70, Hudson & Manhattan Refunding 4s, and Reading 3¼s.

U. S. governments were quiet and fairly steady in over-the-counter dealings. World bank 3s on the exchange were up 6-32 at 97 12-32. In the foreign dollar list antioquia 7s advanced.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP)—Traders in grain futures ignored strength in cash corn today and prices of grain for future delivery mostly ended lower. In new crop corn contracts, losses were fairly large as early firmness failed to hold. Wheat gave a better account of itself than other cereals.

Residents Ask County To Make Road Repairs

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a number of requests for road repairs.

A petition signed by 17 residents of the Grabenstein Road, about 500 feet south of the Winchester Bridge, asked that the one and one-half mile roadway be oiled and graded.

Frank Cuthbertson and Milton Todd asked permission to install a drainage pipe beneath Beechwood Street in Moscow, and also asked that the county repair the thoroughfare.

Mike Chucci and Michael DeChester asked that a road which intersects the McCoole Road be repaired. They said water from the county road and highway runs onto their highway and makes the route hazardous. They also asked that a new entrance to the roadway be made as the vision from the present road when driving onto the main highway is obscured by trees and scrub growth.

The board told the men that the county road building and repair program has been delayed by recent heavy rains to the extent that work is about six weeks behind schedule.

Chipping and oiling of several roads has been completed, and the number of others to be repaired within the next few weeks depends on weather conditions.

A contract was signed by the board this morning with the accounting firm of Berman, Goldman and Levin and Company, of Baltimore, to audit the books and accounts of the Allegany County Board of Education for the years 1946-47 and 1947-48 at a cost of $2,800. The work will begin Monday morning. John W. Rollins, Jr., is resident agent for the accounting firm.

Sgt. Nine Awarded Bronze Star Medal

Staff Sgt. Kenneth C. Nine, husband of Mrs. Alice Nine, 317 Maryland Ave., Westernport, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal Wednesday for action against the enemy while leading a Combat patrol in France.

This is the second award of this kind that he has received. He is also the holder of the Purple Heart with two Oak leaf Clusters for wounds received while serving with the 35th Infantry Division in Europe, Combat Infantry Badge and several other medals.

Sgt. Nine, who has over eight years service to his credit, saw action also in the Pacific and was station in Hawaii when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. After receiving his discharge in 1945, he worked at the Celanese plant until he re-enlisted in 1947.

Western Maryland Net Income Rises Sharply

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway yesterday reported net income of $533,160 in July, almost three times as much as the figure for July of 1947.

For the first seven months of 1948, net income was $3,313,887, as compared with $2,837,632 for the same period of 1947.

The road said the improvement in its income position was due to freight rate increases and a reduction in the amount of unemployment compensation taxes it pays.

Bar Committee To Recommend Judge Appointee

State Group Plans To Confer Tuesday

Who will fill the vacancy on the Circuit Court bench when Chief Judge William A. Huster retires September 12 is the most discussed question in legal and political circles here the past several days.

No one ventures any fixed opinion on who will be appointed by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., but most lawyers contacted here yesterday believe the field is narrowed down to less than half a dozen.

Most prominently mentioned are W. Earle Cobey, World War II veteran and considered as one of the local bar's outstanding legal lights; Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., for many years a local trial magistrate; Walter C. Capper, who served one appointment on the local bench and was defeated by present Associate Judge George Henderson; and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, who is reported by his friends to aspire to the office.

Free Of Politics

In legal circles, emphasis is placed upon the Maryland State Bar Association's efforts over a period of years to keep the appointment "out of politics" so far as is possible. But it is believed here by several political observers that the appointment will be made from loyal Democratic party ranks.

Actually, endorsements by party state central committees of the three counties involved are supposed to be given little or no consideration by the Governor in his choice.

Under the custom followed in judicial appointments of this calibre, the Maryland State Bar Association committee prepares a list of qualified lawyers, usually three, four, five or six names, and submits this list to the governor. He then can make his appointment.

Some observers point out the possibility that the Governor might seek local opinion outside the State Bar Association committee, and can, if he wishes, consult the state central committees. However, as a matter of custom and policy, the Bar Association has made what appears to be an honest effort to keep judicial appointments pretty well politically free.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor's appointment of Capper several years ago is recalled as an example of this practice, since O'Conor is a Democrat and Capper is a Republican.

The appointment to fill the vacancy created by Judge Huster's automatic retirement at age 70 will be that of an associate judge. Under judiciary precedent and by law, the oldest judge in service is the chief judge. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will become chief judge. Associate Judge George Henderson will be next in line for that post, and the new appointee will be the junior associate judge.

Must Be Allegany County Man

The appointment must be made from Allegany County, since the law provides that two of the judges in this circuit must come from Allegany County, and the third may be from Washington or Garrett County. Some of the older members of the local bar said last night that Garrett County has never had a judge on the Circuit bench.

The Maryland State Bar Association Judicial Appointment Committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday in Baltimore to prepare its list which will be submitted immediately to Gov. Lane. It is indicated the recommendations will be made public.

The committee includes one lawyer from each of the state's eight judicial circuits, with Walter A. Capper representing Allegany County. In the case of circuit judge appointments, it is the practice of the State Bar Association to add a representative to the committee from each of the other counties in the circuit not already represented. For this occasion, William R. Offutt represents Garrett County and David W. Byron, Washington County. This makes a committee of 10 lawyers who will make the recommendations. Three of these committeemen represent the local circuit and the other seven the remaining seven circuits.

Judge Huster's retirement is automatic because he becomes 70 years of age September 12, and under the law he cannot serve an extra day. The law provides a pension for retired Circuit Court judges.

Since Judge Henderson is recuperating from injuries suffered in an automobile mishap and is not able to serve, the local Bar Association is urging that the appointment be made immediately.

Gov. Lane has indicated the vacancy will be filled by the time Judge Huster retires.

Some Endorsements Reported

While endorsements of county bar associations and county state central committees are not supposed to mean much in judicial appointments, it was noted here that one Democrat aspirant has been endorsed by county committees, while another has been pledged support of one county bar association and individual support of the majority of another.

Republican leaders said last night they are making no bid for the appointment and in this county no formal endorsements have been made, since they believe in the deal of the State Bar to keep the appointment as politically free as possible.

Local attorneys called attention to the fact that sometimes these appointments cause considerable elevage among barristers most affected, but none of this appears to have developed here and any campaigning which may have been done has been quiet and on a reasonably high level.

The Weather

Up, up, up went the thermometer until it hit an even 100 yesterday. Last night was a little difficult for sleeping with the temperature still up to 78 before midnight. The weatherman emphatically predicts more warm weather today and tomorrow.

Post Card Arrives After 33 Years

Uncle Sam's mails are "slow but sure," Charles N. Runkles, 717 Gephart Drive, declared yesterday after receiving a post card mailed 33 years ago.

The card was posted August 14, 1915, from Punta Gorda, Fla., by the late Hobart Townsend, a former J. C. Orrick worker here, and was also postmarked August 23, 1948, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Townsend began the message, "Dear Charles, I am anxiously waiting to get a letter from you in answer to my last of July 22 (1915)." He added, "I have never started in the chicken business, feed is too high. Eggs are 30 cents." In spite of the belated card, Runkles, also a retired Orrick employe, continued corresponding with Townsend when the latter moved to California prior to his death.

The plaintiff claims he became violently ill and since then has suffered physical impairment and has been unable to enjoy food and drink.

Court Dismisses Two Bills In Divorce Case

Tells Middle-Aged Couple To Get Along

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday in Circuit Court dismissed the divorce proceedings of John W. Foreman, 53, and his wife, Mrs. Anna May Foreman, 44, Virginia Avenue.

The case, tried in open court, was filed against Mrs. Foreman by her husband charging her with misconduct, and a cross-bill filed by Mrs. Foreman against her husband, charging him with desertion. Albert A. Doub represented the wife and W. Earle Cobey was attorney for the husband.

A dozen witnesses were heard, including several neighbors. It was disclosed that the couple had been married since 1919 and had three children. One of the children, John W. Foreman, Jr., a World War II veteran, died several months ago, it was brought out, and two children survive. One, a daughter, is dependent upon the parents, the Court was told.

Judge Huster counseled the couple to resume their marital relationship, and provide a proper home for their dependent daughter. He warned them that no further misconduct on the part of either would be tolerated. He told Mrs. Foreman she has the responsibility of making and providing a home for her husband, daughter and herself and for conducting herself properly. He told Foreman he has the responsibility of providing for his daughter and making a proper home for his family.

Judge Huster said, "It is a shame that people married almost 30 years must air their domestic troubles in Court." He said there was not sufficient evidence on either side to warrant a divorce and therefore dismissed both petitions.

Mercury Rises To 100 As Cumberlanders Perspire Through Second Day Of Heat

Weatherman Sees No Immediate Relief

Cumberland continued to swelter again yesterday as the August heat wave continued its second day with mercury climbing to 100 degrees above zero to top Thursday's 98.5.

Since official records have been kept of temperature readings here, according to Russell R. Golden, official weather observer, temperatures of 100 or more have been recorded in August in only three previous years.

On August 4, 1918, mercury climbed to 104 and reached 109 on August 5 and 6 of that year. On August 3, 1930, temperature hit 103 and the following day climbed to 104. On August 4, 1944, mercury reached 101. The same figure was recorded again on August 11 that year, with 102 on August 12, and an even 100 on August 13 and 14.

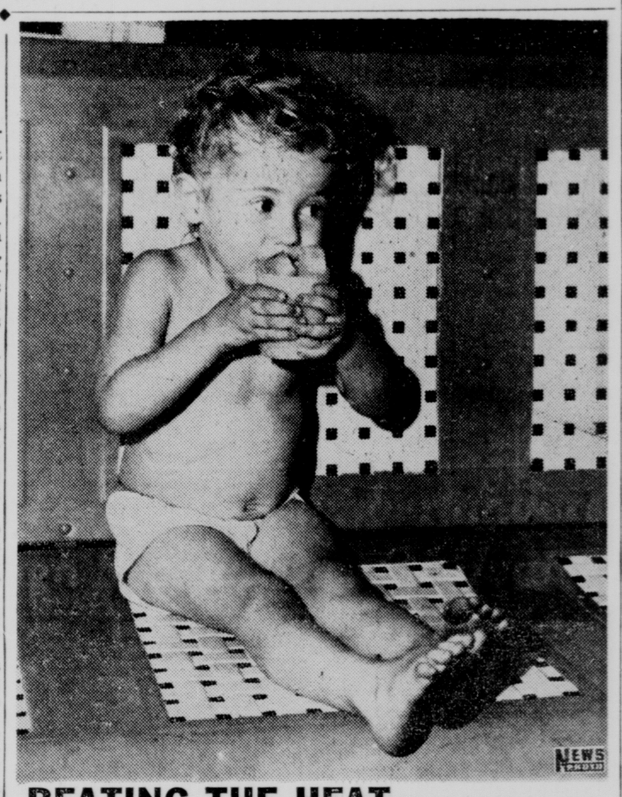

Golden again called attention to the fact that all these previous readings were taken when the official thermometer was on top of the City Hall, and yesterday's 100 reading at Constitution Park, would mean that temperatures downtown were five to 10 degrees warmer.

There were more than 500 persons in Constitution Park swimming pool yesterday, a larger crowd than Thursday's week-day record.

The weather yesterday was the chief topic of discussion and many people were trying to find means of beating the heat. The best method seemed to be to find a nice air-conditioned building, and this worked fine until one had to go outside again. Taverns and soda fountains were reported doing a record business, but most merchants said fewer shoppers were in evidence.

Despite the two-day heat wave there were no heat prostrations reported at hospitals or major industries here.

Hundreds sought relief from the heat by short motor trips last evening and last night into the mountains and surrounding rural areas. The weatherman brought little encouragement as his prediction calls for continued hot weather with no immediate relief in sight.

BEATING THE HEAT-- Little Miss Susie Kilroy, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kilroy, 424 North Centre Street, is seen here as the NEWS cameraman discovered her yesterday afternoon on the porch swing at her home "beating the heat." Dressed for comfort rather than style, and drinking a tall glass of root beer and ice cubes, Susie had her curls pinned up on top of her head and appeared quite comfortable. When the cameraman stopped and took her picture, she greeted him with, "Want a dwink, man?"

Police Urge More Care In Driving

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn yesterday issued a plea for more caution on the part of drivers, as six small children have been struck by cars on local streets in the past five days.

The most tragic of the recent accidents was the fatal injury of five-year-old Rose Marie McGreevy Thursday afternoon on Virginia Avenue.

Chief Flynn's request follows:

"I ask the drivers of cars to be a little more alert for children, especially when driving past cars parked on the streets.

"Parents should not allow children out of their sight. Children do not realize the danger of crossing the streets.

"Drivers should reduce their speed so they are able to stop instantly, when they do not have a full view of the sidewalk.

"If the motorists and parents cooperate there will be fewer accidents of this nature."

Man Falls From Railroad Car And Cuts Head

Harry G. Phillips, 35, 496 Williams Street, was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday for a head laceration sustained when he fell from a railroad car while working for the Western Maryland Railroad.

Joyce Abe, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Abe, Green Spring, W. Va., is reported in "good" condition by attaches of Memorial Hospital after she drank a "small amount" of kerosene Thursday.

Red Cross Classes Close After Teaching More Than 100 To Swim

Well over 100 Cumberland children have met the requirements for a Red Cross Beginner's swimming certificate, according to lists handed into the local Red Cross office by the instructors.

Two-week classes have been held from 10 a. m. to 12 p. m. Monday through Friday during July and August at Constitution Park Pool. Qualified instructors, Miss Anna Nagle and Miss Kay Harter, have taught the youngsters, assisted by James Hines, who also holds an instructing certificate.

The last group of the summer went through the tests yesterday. To receive the beginner's certificate, the swimmer must first jump into deep water and swim 15 yards and return. The second requirement is to dive into deep water, swim 15 yards and upon returning, turn over and float on the back.

Miss Nagle, a graduate of George Peabody University, Nashville, Tenn., will leave soon to teach elementary physical education in Jefferson, Ill. Miss Harter and Hines will return to the University of Maryland where they are students in September.

Henry Gehauf, manager of the pool, volunteered the use of the pool for the children. On the whole, those taking instruction have been between 11 and 12 years of age and have attended classes at the times allotted to their respective schools.

Neither rain nor cold weather stopped the children who showed up faithfully no matter how uncomfortable the water may have been, Miss Nagle said.

During the month of August pupils from Virginia Avenue, Johnson Heights, Pennsylvania Avenue, West Side, East Side and Columbia Street Schools have been in the swimming classes.

Among those receiving certificates in August were Patricia Rotruck, Geraldine Wilson, Dorothy Meagher, Catherine Melvin, Tim Stein, John Meister, Charles Wilson, Judy Cooper, Ellen Proudfoot, Patty Weaver, Annabelle Leatherman, Dorothy Scott, Joan Arbogast, Carolyn Sills, Ronald Sills, Carolyn

Food Prices Show Slight Drop Here

The most cheering word on the food front is that prices are going down just a little bit here.

The market basket of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce cost $8.57 yesterday, 17 cents lower than the August 6 price of $8.74 and 74 cents below the record high price of $8.31 reached in June.

Most of this week's decreases were among perishable foods, including a one cent drop in butter and lower prices on potatoes and oranges.

Death Of Hughes Recalls Story On Election Of 1916

The death of Charles Evans Hughes yesterday, caused local newsmen to recall last night the presidential election of 1916, when the old Cumberland Daily News like all morning papers throughout the country carried banner heads announcing that Hughes had been elected president.

The election was probably the closest presidential contest in history and many people read in their morning paper that Hughes had defeated Wilson by three electoral votes.

The Associated Press carried wire stories saying that all states had been heard from except California and this state was conceded to Hughes. Without California's 13 electoral votes, Wilson had 264 and Hughes 254. California's 13 would have given Hughes a plurality of three votes or a total of 267.

But when California's returns came in, the popular vote showed Wilson had carried the state by a vote of 466,200 to 462,394 for Hughes. The California electoral votes then went to the Wilson column to give the incumbent a total of 277 or a plurality of 23. This included California's 13, plus the 10 plurality he already held.

Store Workers Will Act On Wage Offer

Members of Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, both AFL, will meet Monday at 8 p. m. in Teamsters Hall here to act upon a wage offer of the American Stores Company, William Krapf, president of the Meat Cutters local, announced last night.

He declined to reveal the terms of the wage offer made yesterday at a contract conference with company officials in Bedford, Pa.

The union said most of the contractual issues in the agreement were settled yesterday. The present joint contract for some 125 workers of the company in this area will expire October 3.

Charges were preferred by Officer Harry Phillips, of the Frederick Police, who investigated.

Finan Empowered To Get Easements

The Mayor and City Council yesterday passed a blanket motion to empower City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to draw up orders concerning easements to be given by various property owners for construction of the city's first step towards flood control.

William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of finance and revenue, moved the power to reach agreements with the property owners be given Finan. The motion was seconded by William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

At the meeting in the mayor's office at City Hall, Finan exhibited plats of the various properties which will be affected by the laying of the conduits, and explained how much of each property would be crossed.

The pressure conduits will be installed at Franklin Street, Knox Street, Pear Street, Pioneer Place and Wineow Street.

Six-Month-Old Boy Has Six Teeth

Another tooth-a-month baby has been reported.

This time it's William Douglas Moon, Jr., six-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Moon, 1306 Michigan Avenue. He has — of course — six teeth.

Earlier this month it was Larry Ford, 9-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, and then it was Deborah Lee Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Short, Keyser, with nine teeth at seven months.

The parents of William D., Jr., report the young man weighs 20 pounds, and is a "big eater." He's not particular about what he eats, either. He chews his rattles and nipples to pieces, his parents said.

William cut his first two teeth at the age of five months, and the other four came soon afterwards. And that's not all — he has two more ready to come through.

Legal Advisors To Draft Registrants In District Named

Gilchrist, Kelley, Naughton Appointed

Appointments of three local attorneys as legal advisors to draft registrants was announced last night by P. Emmett Fahey, county draft clerk co-ordinator.

The appointments were made by Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director of Selective Service, on the recommendations of Judge George Henderson. They became effective as of Thursday.

The attorneys named are C. William Gilchrist, 64 Pershing Street; Estel C. Kelley, 12 Greene Street, and Harold E. Naughton, Liberty Trust Building.

Gilchrist will be available to men in Board 27, Kelley, Board 28, and Naughton, Board 29.

Will Advise Registrants

Their duties will be to advise registrants on legal matters in the completion of their questionnaires, and to inform them of obligations in draft registrations, Fahey said.

Yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the City Hall auditorium, Fahey administered the oath of office to about 30 volunteer registrars, and about 100 are expected to be sworn in by Monday, when the first group of men will register, Fahey said.

At the meeting, the registrars received instructions concerning the manner of keeping tally sheets, issuing registration certificates, and filling out registration forms.

Veterans who register are asked to bring their discharge papers with them, Fahey said. They will be required to give the date of discharge, branch of service in which they served, serial number and the time they entered the service.

Non-veterans will be required to furnish a permanent address and the name and address of some person who will know their address if the board is unable to get in touch with the registrants.

Fahey said the registration works as follows:

The registrant goes to his draft office and registers on the proper day. He is given a registration certificate, which he must keep with him at all times, to show he has registered.

Soon after he registers, he will be sent a questionnaire which must be filled out and returned to the board promptly. When the Selective Service Board receives his completed questionnaire, the registrant is classified. Then he is issued a classification card.

Registration dates are as follows:

Monday, August 30—men born in 1922 after August 30; Tuesday, August 31—men born in 1923; September 2 and 3—men born in 1924; September 4 and 7—men born in 1925; September 8 and 9—men born in 1926; September 10 and 11—men born in 1927; September 13 and 14—men born in 1928; September 15 and 16—men born in 1929, and September 17 and 18—men born in 1930 before September 19.

3,500 Expected To Register

Fahey said he believed about 3,500 youths will be registered in Cumberland alone, but made no predictions for the county.

Although registration places have been provided at schools in each district, men may register in any district where they happen to be on the day they are supposed to register, Fahey said, adding that all offices would be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day.

Following is a list of registration places for each board:

Board 27—Oldtown, Flintstone, Pennsylvania Avenue, John Humbird and Johnson Heights schools.

Board 28—Centre Street, East Side, Gephart, LaSalle and Carver schools.

Board 29—West Side, Cresaptown, Ellerslie, Corriganville and LaVale schools.

Board 27 will be for all men living in South Cumberland, south to Oldtown Road, north to Williams Street, and east to the Washington County line.

Board 28 is for men living in the area between Williams Street, the city limits line in the Narrows, and Bedford Road.

Board 29 includes West Side to Corriganville, LaVale and Cresaptown.

Graham, police said, stated the child ran in front of his car at the intersection of Avirett Avenue and Lehigh Street. He took the child to a local physician, who treated her for brush burns of the arm.

No charges have been preferred.

Bar Committee To Recommend Judge Appointee

State Group Plans To Confer Tuesday

Who will fill the vacancy on the Circuit Court bench when Chief Judge William A. Huster retires September 12 is the most discussed question in legal and political circles here the past several days.

No one ventures any fixed opinion on who will be appointed by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., but most lawyers contacted here yesterday believe the field is narrowed down to less than half a dozen.

Most prominently mentioned are W. Earle Cobey, World War II veteran and considered as one of the local bar's outstanding legal lights; Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., for many years a local trial magistrate; Walter C. Capper, who served one appointment on the local bench and was defeated by present Associate Judge George Henderson; and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, who is reported by his friends to aspire to the office.

Free Of Politics

In legal circles, emphasis is placed upon the Maryland State Bar Association's efforts over a period of years to keep the appointment "out of politics" so far as is possible. But it is believed here by several political observers that the appointment will be made from loyal Democratic party ranks.

Actually, endorsements by party state central committees of the three counties involved are supposed to be given little or no consideration by the Governor in his choice.

Under the custom followed in judicial appointments of this calibre, the Maryland State Bar Association committee prepares a list of qualified lawyers, usually three, four, five or six names, and submits this list to the governor. He then can make his appointment.

Some observers point out the possibility that the Governor might seek local opinion outside the State Bar Association committee, and can, if he wishes, consult the state central committees. However, as a matter of custom and policy, the Bar Association has made what appears to be an honest effort to keep judicial appointments pretty well politically free.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor's appointment of Capper several years ago is recalled as an example of this practice, since O'Conor is a Democrat and Capper is a Republican.

The appointment to fill the vacancy created by Judge Huster's automatic retirement at age 70 will be that of an associate judge. Under judiciary precedent and by law, the oldest judge in service is the chief judge. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will become chief judge. Associate Judge George Henderson will be next in line for that post, and the new appointee will be the junior associate judge.

Must Be Allegany County Man

The appointment must be made from Allegany County, since the law provides that two of the judges in this circuit must come from Allegany County, and the third may be from Washington or Garrett County. Some of the older members of the local bar said last night that Garrett County has never had a judge on the Circuit bench.

The Maryland State Bar Association Judicial Appointment Committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday in Baltimore to prepare its list which will be submitted immediately to Gov. Lane. It is indicated the recommendations will be made public.

The committee includes one lawyer from each of the state's eight judicial circuits, with Walter A. Capper representing Allegany County. In the case of circuit judge appointments, it is the practice of the State Bar Association to add a representative to the committee from each of the other counties in the circuit not already represented. For this occasion, William R. Offutt represents Garrett County and David W. Byron, Washington County. This makes a committee of 10 lawyers who will make the recommendations. Three of these committeemen represent the local circuit and the other seven the remaining seven circuits.

Judge Huster's retirement is automatic because he becomes 70 years of age September 12, and under the law he cannot serve an extra day. The law provides a pension for retired Circuit Court judges.

Since Judge Henderson is recuperating from injuries suffered in an automobile mishap and is not able to serve, the local Bar Association is urging that the appointment be made immediately.

Gov. Lane has indicated the vacancy will be filled by the time Judge Huster retires.

Some Endorsements Reported

While endorsements of county bar associations and county state central committees are not supposed to mean much in judicial appointments, it was noted here that one Democrat aspirant has been endorsed by county committees, while another has been pledged support of one county bar association and individual support of the majority of another.

Republican leaders said last night they are making no bid for the appointment and in this county no formal endorsements have been made, since they believe in the deal of the State Bar to keep the appointment as politically free as possible.

Local attorneys called attention to the fact that sometimes these appointments cause considerable elevage among barristers most affected, but none of this appears to have developed here and any campaigning which may have been done has been quiet and on a reasonably high level.

The Weather

Up, up, up went the thermometer until it hit an even 100 yesterday. Last night was a little difficult for sleeping with the temperature still up to 78 before midnight. The weatherman emphatically predicts more warm weather today and tomorrow.

Post Card Arrives After 33 Years

Uncle Sam's mails are "slow but sure," Charles N. Runkles, 717 Gephart Drive, declared yesterday after receiving a post card mailed 33 years ago.

The card was posted August 14, 1915, from Punta Gorda, Fla., by the late Hobart Townsend, a former J. C. Orrick worker here, and was also postmarked August 23, 1948, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Townsend began the message, "Dear Charles, I am anxiously waiting to get a letter from you in answer to my last of July 22 (1915)." He added, "I have never started in the chicken business, feed is too high. Eggs are 30 cents." In spite of the belated card, Runkles, also a retired Orrick employe, continued corresponding with Townsend when the latter moved to California prior to his death.

The plaintiff claims he became violently ill and since then has suffered physical impairment and has been unable to enjoy food and drink.

Court Dismisses Two Bills In Divorce Case

Tells Middle-Aged Couple To Get Along

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday in Circuit Court dismissed the divorce proceedings of John W. Foreman, 53, and his wife, Mrs. Anna May Foreman, 44, Virginia Avenue.

The case, tried in open court, was filed against Mrs. Foreman by her husband charging her with misconduct, and a cross-bill filed by Mrs. Foreman against her husband, charging him with desertion. Albert A. Doub represented the wife and W. Earle Cobey was attorney for the husband.

A dozen witnesses were heard, including several neighbors. It was disclosed that the couple had been married since 1919 and had three children. One of the children, John W. Foreman, Jr., a World War II veteran, died several months ago, it was brought out, and two children survive. One, a daughter, is dependent upon the parents, the Court was told.

Judge Huster counseled the couple to resume their marital relationship, and provide a proper home for their dependent daughter. He warned them that no further misconduct on the part of either would be tolerated. He told Mrs. Foreman she has the responsibility of making and providing a home for her husband, daughter and herself and for conducting herself properly. He told Foreman he has the responsibility of providing for his daughter and making a proper home for his family.

Judge Huster said, "It is a shame that people married almost 30 years must air their domestic troubles in Court." He said there was not sufficient evidence on either side to warrant a divorce and therefore dismissed both petitions.

Mercury Rises To 100 As Cumberlanders Perspire Through Second Day Of Heat

Weatherman Sees No Immediate Relief

Cumberland continued to swelter again yesterday as the August heat wave continued its second day with mercury climbing to 100 degrees above zero to top Thursday's 98.5.

Since official records have been kept of temperature readings here, according to Russell R. Golden, official weather observer, temperatures of 100 or more have been recorded in August in only three previous years.

On August 4, 1918, mercury climbed to 104 and reached 109 on August 5 and 6 of that year. On August 3, 1930, temperature hit 103 and the following day climbed to 104. On August 4, 1944, mercury reached 101. The same figure was recorded again on August 11 that year, with 102 on August 12, and an even 100 on August 13 and 14.

Golden again called attention to the fact that all these previous readings were taken when the official thermometer was on top of the City Hall, and yesterday's 100 reading at Constitution Park, would mean that temperatures downtown were five to 10 degrees warmer.

There were more than 500 persons in Constitution Park swimming pool yesterday, a larger crowd than Thursday's week-day record.

The weather yesterday was the chief topic of discussion and many people were trying to find means of beating the heat. The best method seemed to be to find a nice air-conditioned building, and this worked fine until one had to go outside again. Taverns and soda fountains were reported doing a record business, but most merchants said fewer shoppers were in evidence.

Despite the two-day heat wave there were no heat prostrations reported at hospitals or major industries here.

Hundreds sought relief from the heat by short motor trips last evening and last night into the mountains and surrounding rural areas. The weatherman brought little encouragement as his prediction calls for continued hot weather with no immediate relief in sight.

BEATING THE HEAT-- Little Miss Susie Kilroy, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kilroy, 424 North Centre Street, is seen here as the NEWS cameraman discovered her yesterday afternoon on the porch swing at her home "beating the heat." Dressed for comfort rather than style, and drinking a tall glass of root beer and ice cubes, Susie had her curls pinned up on top of her head and appeared quite comfortable. When the cameraman stopped and took her picture, she greeted him with, "Want a dwink, man?"

Police Urge More Care In Driving

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn yesterday issued a plea for more caution on the part of drivers, as six small children have been struck by cars on local streets in the past five days.

The most tragic of the recent accidents was the fatal injury of five-year-old Rose Marie McGreevy Thursday afternoon on Virginia Avenue.

Chief Flynn's request follows:

"I ask the drivers of cars to be a little more alert for children, especially when driving past cars parked on the streets.

"Parents should not allow children out of their sight. Children do not realize the danger of crossing the streets.

"Drivers should reduce their speed so they are able to stop instantly, when they do not have a full view of the sidewalk.

"If the motorists and parents cooperate there will be fewer accidents of this nature."

Man Falls From Railroad Car And Cuts Head

Harry G. Phillips, 35, 496 Williams Street, was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday for a head laceration sustained when he fell from a railroad car while working for the Western Maryland Railroad.

Red Cross Classes Close After Teaching More Than 100 To Swim

Well over 100 Cumberland children have met the requirements for a Red Cross Beginner's swimming certificate, according to lists handed into the local Red Cross office by the instructors.

Two-week classes have been held from 10 a. m. to 12 p. m. Monday through Friday during July and August at Constitution Park Pool. Qualified instructors, Miss Anna Nagle and Miss Kay Harter, have taught the youngsters, assisted by James Hines, who also holds an instructing certificate.

The last group of the summer went through the tests yesterday. To receive the beginner's certificate, the swimmer must first jump into deep water and swim 15 yards and return. The second requirement is to dive into deep water, swim 15 yards and upon returning, turn over and float on the back.

Miss Nagle, a graduate of George Peabody University, Nashville, Tenn., will leave soon to teach elementary physical education in Jefferson, Ill. Miss Harter and Hines will return to the University of Maryland where they are students in September.

Henry Gehauf, manager of the pool, volunteered the use of the pool for the children. On the whole, those taking instruction have been between 11 and 12 years of age and have attended classes at the times allotted to their respective schools.

Neither rain nor cold weather stopped the children who showed up faithfully no matter how uncomfortable the water may have been, Miss Nagle said.

During the month of August pupils from Virginia Avenue, Johnson Heights, Pennsylvania Avenue, West Side, East Side and Columbia Street Schools have been in the swimming classes.

Among those receiving certificates in August were Patricia Rotruck, Geraldine Wilson, Dorothy Meagher, Catherine Melvin, Tim Stein, John Meister, Charles Wilson, Judy Cooper, Ellen Proudfoot, Patty Weaver, Annabelle Leatherman, Dorothy Scott, Joan Arbogast, Carolyn Sills, Ronald Sills, Carolyn

Food Prices Show Slight Drop Here

The most cheering word on the food front is that prices are going down just a little bit here.

The market basket of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce cost $8.57 yesterday, 17 cents lower than the August 6 price of $8.74 and 74 cents below the record high price of $9.31 reached in June.

Most of this week's decreases were among perishable foods, including a one cent drop in butter and lower prices on potatoes and oranges.

Death Of Hughes Recalls Story On Election Of 1916

The death of Charles Evans Hughes yesterday, caused local newsmen to recall last night the presidential election of 1916, when the old Cumberland Daily News like all morning papers throughout the country carried banner heads announcing that Hughes had been elected president.

The election was probably the closest presidential contest in history and many people read in their morning paper that Hughes had defeated Wilson by three electoral votes.

The Associated Press carried wire stories saying that all states had been heard from except California and this state was conceded to Hughes. Without California's 13 electoral votes, Wilson had 264 and Hughes 254. California's 13 would have given Hughes a plurality of three votes or a total of 267.

But when California's returns came in, the popular vote showed Wilson had carried the state by a vote of 466,200 to 462,394 for Hughes. The California electoral votes then went to the Wilson column to give the incumbent a total of 277 or a plurality of 23. This included California's 13, plus the 10 plurality he already held.

He declined to reveal the terms of the wage offer made yesterday at a contract conference with company officials in Bedford, Pa.

The union said most of the contractual issues in the agreement were settled yesterday. The present joint contract for some 125 workers of the company in this area will expire October 3.

Finan Empowered To Get Easements

The Mayor and City Council yesterday passed a blanket motion to empower City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to draw up orders concerning easements to be given by various property owners for construction of pressure conduits in the city's first step towards flood control.

William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of finance and revenue, moved the power to reach agreements with the property owners be given Finan. The motion was seconded by William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

At the meeting in the mayor's office at City Hall, Finan exhibited plats of the various properties which will be affected by the laying of the conduits, and explained how much of each property would be crossed.

The pressure conduits will be installed at Franklin Street, Knox Street, Pear Street, Pioneer Place and Wineow Street.

Six-Month-Old Boy Has Six Teeth

Another tooth-a-month baby has been reported.

This time it's William Douglas Moon, Jr., six-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Moon, 1306 Michigan Avenue. He has — of course — six teeth.

Earlier this month it was Larry Ford, 9-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, and then it was Deborah Lee Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Short, Keyser, with nine teeth at seven months.

The parents of William D., Jr., report the young man weighs 20 pounds, and is a "big eater." He's not particular about what he eats, either. He chews his rattles and nipples to pieces, his parents said.

William cut his first two teeth at the age of five months, and the other four came soon afterwards. And that's not all — he has two more ready to come through.

Will Advise Registrants

Their duties will be to advise registrants on legal matters in the completion of their questionnaires, and to inform them of obligations in draft registrations, Fahey said.

Yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the City Hall auditorium, Fahey administered the oath of office to about 30 volunteer registrars, and about 100 are expected to be sworn in by Monday, when the first group of men will register, Fahey said.

At the meeting, the registrars received instructions concerning the manner of keeping tally sheets, issuing registration certificates, and filling out registration forms.

Veterans who register are asked to bring their discharge papers with them, Fahey said. They will be required to give the date of discharge, branch of service in which they served, serial number and the time they entered the service.

Non-veterans will be required to furnish a permanent address and the name and address of some person who will know their address if the board is unable to get in touch with the registrants.

Fahey said the registration works as follows:

The registrant goes to his draft office and registers on the proper day. He is given a registration certificate, which he must keep with him at all times, to show he has registered.

Soon after he registers, he will be sent a questionnaire which must be filled out and returned to the board promptly. When the Selective Service Board receives his completed questionnaire, the registrant is classified. Then he is issued a classification card.

Registration dates are as follows:

Monday, August 30—men born in 1922 after August 30; Tuesday, August 31—men born in 1923; September 2 and 3—men born in 1924; September 4 and 7—men born in 1925; September 8 and 9—men born in 1926; September 10 and 11—men born in 1927; September 13 and 14—men born in 1928; September 15 and 16—men born in 1929, and September 17 and 18—men born in 1930 before September 19.

3,500 Expected To Register

Fahey said he believed about 3,500 youths will be registered in Cumberland alone, but made no predictions for the county.

Although registration places have been provided at schools in each district, men may register in any district where they happen to be on the day they are supposed to register, Fahey said, adding that all offices would be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day.

Following is a list of registration places for each board:

Board 27—Oldtown, Flintstone, Pennsylvania Avenue, John Humbird and Johnson Heights schools.

Board 28—Centre Street, East Side, Gephart, LaSalle and Carver schools.

Board 29—West Side, Cresaptown, Ellerslie, Corriganville and LaVale schools.

Board 27 will be for all men living in South Cumberland, south to Oldtown Road, north to Williams Street, and east to the Washington County line.

Board 28 is for men living in the area between Williams Street, the city limits line in the Narrows, and Bedford Road.

Board 29 includes West Side to Corriganville, LaVale and Cresaptown.
